27 Nations Approve Plan To Take Men Out of Spain

Volunteers' Withdrawal, Belligerent Rights Are Provided.

Franco, Loyalists Must Be Consulted

Britain Hopes Weary Contestants Will Accept Compromise.

Foreign Affairs.

Japanese commanders intensified their drive toward Hankow after consolidating their capture of Hukow.

German military experts left the Chinese general staff, as reports spread in Hongkong that China and Germany were on bad terms, with probable increased Nazi aid to Japan.

Pact on Spain.

By Joseph Driscoll.
Special Cable to The Post.

London, July 5.—Representatives of 27 European nations meeting at the foreign office today unanimously accepted the British plan for the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain and for the granting of belligerent rights to both the Barcelona and the Burgos governments.

The plan will be dispatched to Barcelona and Burgos by the British government, acting for the 27 nations represented on the Non-intervention Committee. The plan will be sent tomorrow morning and will take 48 hours to reach Spain. It will be published here as a white paper probably on Friday night.

All that is needed to put the plan into operation is the co-operation of Barcelona and Burgos with the Non-intervention Committee, but this co-operation is not yet assured by any means. Gen. Franco desires belligerent rights as a help toward the naval blockade of the Catalonia coast, but he is reluctant to release his foreign troops as part of the bargain. Barcelona, on the other hand, sees no advantage for itself in belligerent rights, but would like to have Gen. Franco stripped of his Italian and German troops and aviators.

The British plan is in the nature of a compromise designed to offer something to each side and the British are hopeful that the war-weary Spaniards will accept in the same spirit of compromise and take quick action to rid Spain of its for-

Turkish Troops Cheered on March Into Alexandretta

Antioch, Syria, July 5 (AP).—Turkish troops marching into the Sanjak district of Alexandretta today to assume joint control with France of the strategic east Mediterranean area were greeted by the cheers of Turkish sympathizers.

The first units, a regiment of infantry and a cavalry troop, crossed near the Turkish outpost of Hadjilar and marched toward Antioch. In the afternoon a second contingent reached Alexandretta. A band paraded the streets, and the city was decorated with French and Turkish flags.

Goldfish in Neighbor's Pond Lure Infant Rover to Death

Robert A. Willis, 1½ years old, of 2912 Fort Baker drive southeast, who drowned yesterday in a neighbor's goldfish pond. The father, Philip W. Willis, a Civil Service Commission examiner, found his child's body.

1½-Year-Old Robert Willis Dies as His Mother Picks Flowers and Father Tends to the Lawn Nearby.

The lure of goldfish swimming in a neighbor's back-yard pond brought death yesterday to 1½-year-old Robert A. Willis, 2912 Fort Baker drive southeast.

Left by his father for the brief space of a minute, little Robert bounded from the back porch of his home to a nearby fish pond and a few minutes later was discovered dead in the 2½-foot pool by his frantic parents.

His grief-stricken father, Philip W. Willis, an examiner for the Civil Service Commission, said he had left his son in the rear of their home while he went to the front to shift lawn sprinklers.

The mother was picking flowers in the front garden.

"I wasn't gone more than a minute," the father stated. "When I returned to the rear of the house Robert was missing. I knew that he had gone to the pool. I ran there and immediately saw my little boy under the water."

He took his son to his own home, where he tried to revive him. The Fire Rescue Squad was called, but they, too failed to revive the boy. The Willises have another son, James, 4.

Last Execution Is Commuted In Scottsboro

Governor Erases Death Penalty for Norris After 7 Years.

Montgomery, Ala., July 5.—Alabama erased the death penalty from the Scottsboro rape case records today.

Gov. Bibb Graves commuted to life imprisonment the electrocution sentence against Clarence Norris, last of the nine original colored defendants to face the chair on conviction of ravishing two young white women on a freight train seven years ago.

The United States Supreme Court twice saved the men from death, by sending the case back to Alabama courts.

Three "Scottsboro" defendants now are serving long prison terms, for the alleged mass rape, and a fifth is under 20-year sentence imposed when he pleaded guilty, during new trials last year at Decatur, to assaulting an officer in an escape attempt.

Four of the nine originally accused have been freed.

The five defendants now in prison published notice last week they intended to ask Gov. Graves for pardons.

U.S. and Reich Seen in Battle For Americas

Carson, at U. Va. Institute, Opposes Federal Radio to Fight Propaganda.

By Hedley Donovan.
A Staff Correspondent.

Charlottesville, Va., July 5.—Nazi penetration into South America may lead to "a final and major battle" between the United States and Germany, James S. Carson, of New York, vice president of the American & Foreign Power Co., told the Institute of Public Affairs tonight.

The financier warned, however, the United States would commit a "tactical blunder" if it sought to fight fire with fire by imitating European countries in trying to influence public opinion in South America.

Jerome N. Frank, a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission, who spoke on the same program, urged an attack on American problems "with American thinking" rather than reliance on "European-made solutions."

"British Gamble."

Earlier in the day John W. Wheeler-Bennett, of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, told the audience of 50 that Prime Minister Chamberlain now is engaged in "the greatest gamble in the history of foreign policy."

He pictured Chamberlain's policy as a desperate effort to stave off war by any expedient until the completion of British rearmament gives England a commanding voice in negotiations for permanent appeasement.

"The crucial year" will be 1940, he predicted, and if "Germany has not completed her program of territorial expansion, then Britain and

Merit Job Extension Estimate Of 130,000 Reduced to 70,000

Nearly half of the estimated 130,000 Federal employes eligible for blanketing into the civil service under the executive order of June 24 may remain outside the merit system after all, it was learned yesterday.

President Harry B. Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission, said "as a wild guess" that when the order becomes operative February 1, "probably 70,000" of the employes who might have been affected, actually will be added to the civil service. The others will have been exempted by new executive orders to be issued in the meantime.

Meanwhile, Senator Hatch (Democrat), of New Mexico, who has been battling to keep Government jobholders out of politics, said that President Roosevelt's order was a big step in that direction. Civil service rules ban political activity.

Administration critics, on the other hand, stressed the fact that that the order does not go into effect until three months after the 1938 Congressional election.

Mitchell pointed out that the President's order instructed heads

Trial Shields British Rival For Barbara

London Society Man's Name Kept Out of Court Hearing.

Count Described as Desiring to Shoot Wife's Friend 'Like Dog.'

By the Associated Press

London, July 5.—Attorneys for Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow today pictured her second husband as an enraged, tearful nobleman who demanded $5,000,000 for divorce and threatened to shoot "like a dog" an unnamed London society man.

Hints of a new romance in the life of the blonde dime store heiress cropped up in court testimony.

Accusations Listed.

Countress Barbara's lawyers accused the count of:

Threatening to duel and then to shoot "the gentleman in London"—a guarded phrase attorneys for both sides agreed upon;

Calling his wife obscene names;

Threatening her with "three years of hell with headlines;"

Threatening to seize his son;

Threatening to "shoot himself and others," thereby putting the countess "on the spot" and saying "everyone would know Barbara had driven him to it;"

Engaging in "talk about blackmail," and causing his wife to become "terrified of him."

Noble Tears Charged.

The count was said to have burst into tears when he received a letter from his wife saying it was "impossible for me to go on living with you," and to have asked if the countess would marry "the gentleman in London" if she got a divorce.

Attorneys for the countess declared that not only did her husband demand $5,000,000 and laugh at a proferred $250,000 gift as "an insult," but also asked custody of their 2-year-old son Lance as terms for a divorce.

After 150 minutes of police court testimony on his wife's charges that he had used threats against her, the count was freed under $10,000 bail until July 13, when the hearing will be resumed.

Would Shoot From Hip.

The "gentleman in London"—believed to be prominent in Mayfair society—was pictured as making Countess Barbara's titled husband burn with a desire to shoot from his hip, through his pocket—something his friends said he could do quite well.

Although custody of Baby Lance entered into the fight which may be a prelude to a Danish divorce, the boy played quietly at his mother's London mansion, Winfield House, as a ward of the court.

The count, it was said, doesn't be-

Ambulance Taking Arch McDonald to Home Is Smashed

Arch McDonald, the baseball broadcaster, was shaken up when the ambulance taking him from Georgetown Hospital to his Chevy Chase, Md. home swerved to miss an automobile coming from a driveway and collided head on with another automobile on Connecticut avenue opposite the Bureau of Standards.

McDonald told Hilton Mace, attendent at the gas station from which the car pulled out, that he tried to hold off impact of the crash with his good leg, but it doubled under him. His broken ankle hurt him badly, he said.

It was later determined that his leg had not been further damaged. Police were searching last night for driver of the automobile which pulled from the driveway.

McDonald had been in the hospital since June 28, after he had broken his ankle in three places when he slipped in a ditch while remonstrating with a motorist who sideswiped his car on the Columbia Pike, Va.

Break Frustrated At Marion Asylum

Richmond, Va., July 5 (AP).—Sheriff T. Wilson Seay, of Henrico County, disclosed today a planned escape by certain inmates of the Southwestern State Hospital at Marion.

Seay said he learned of the plot recently when he carried several prisoners from Henrico County to the institution at Marion.

The sheriff returned here and wrote R. L. Simpson, supervisor of the male department at Marion, forwarding a map showing location of hacksaw blades and skeleton keys.

A Harlan Shooting.

By the Associated Press.

Harlan, Ky., July 5.—Lee Fleenor, 34, former deputy sheriff and one of the defendants in the London, Ky., labor conspiracy trial, was placed in jail here late today following the shooting of Charlie Reno, 40, of Molus.

Sheriff Clifton Ball said Fleenor, who testified last year before the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee, was held on a charge of malicious shooting and wounding of Reno.

Reno was in a serious condition in Harlan Hospital with bullet wounds in his neck, abdomen and shoulder. Doctors held "little hope" for his recovery.

Both Convicted Slayers.

State Highway Patrolman Lee White said he was informed Fleenor, slowing down the automobile he was driving, fired at Reno, who was pushing a truck. The shooting occurred on a highway near Molus, which is 14 miles west of Harlan.

Fleenor, claiming self-defense, said he was driving back from the trial at London and had slowed up at Molus to buy some cigarettes. He said Reno fired at him from in back of the truck, and that he returned fire.

Reno was convicted six years ago on a charge of slaying Fleenor's father, Bird Fleenor, who was then a deputy sheriff. He was paroled after serving four of his eight-year sentence in the case.

Fleenor was convicted in 1933 on a charge of slaying Deputy Sheriff Bige Gross. He was pardoned.

The National Labor Relations Board last night found the Harlan Fuel Co., Yancey, Ky., guilty of violating the Wagner act and ordered it to reinstate 24 employes with back pay.

Federal Jury Asks FBI to Investigate Thomas' Ejection

Newark, N. J., July 5 (U.P.).—A Federal grand jury announced today that it would request the Federal Bureau of Investigation to investigate the ejection of Socialist Leader Norman Thomas from Jersey City, N. J., where he had tried to address an outdoor meeting.

Thomas contended he was "kidnaped" by Jersey City authorities on April 30, when he appeared in Jersey City to speak without a permit. He has filed a complaint charging Deputy Police Chief John J. Underwood and Police Inspector Henry Gauthier with violation of the Lindbergh law, conspiracy to kidnap, kidnaping, threatening and intimidation.

City Clerk Charged With $17,591 Fraud

Richmond, Va., July 5 (AP).—A Hustings Court grand jury today returned a true bill against Edward N. Smither, discharged city finance department clerk, on a charge he embezzled $17,591.25 in the three years between February, 1935, and February, 1938.

No bail was asked for Smither, who has been confined in the city jail.

Dr. Doran Quits as Chairman Of Distilled Spirits Institute

Gene Tunney May Succeed to Post of Former Prohibition Officer.

Dr. James M. Doran, former Federal prohibition enforcement officer, who has served almost continuously as head of the Distilled Spirits Institute since the repeal of the prohibition amendment, yesterday announced his resignation.

In a letter to Owsley Brown, chairman of the board of the institute, Dr. Doran asked to be relieved of his present administrative post, effective September 1 and with the understanding that he would remain with the institute in the post of technical consultant or director, as the board "might see fit." He expects the board, which will meet in New York July 18, to select a successor, and the name of Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion and a director of the American Distilling Co., has been frequently mentioned for the job.

Stepping from Treasury prohibition enforcement post, Dr. Doran in 1935 took over the organization of the liquor institute and served as its directing head except for the short period in which the job was handed over to the late W. Forbes Morgan.

Since that time he has carried on, more lately with reduced staff and

Myron Taylor To Submit U.S. Refugee Plan

South America, British Dominions to Be Asked to Take Most Exiles.

By the Associated Press.

Myron C. Taylor, former head of the United States Steel Corporation, makes his debut today as a diplomatic representative of the United States Government.

He is in Evian, France, on the shores of Lake Geneva, to consult representatives of 32 other nations in an effort to find new homes for thousands of German and Austrian refugees.

The 64-year-old steel magnate has been given the rank of Ambassador, without pay. He will make an important address today setting forth the American Government's suggestions for transplanting refugees to more hospitable places.

South America and the British dominions, in the opinion of the State Department, should be the principal havens for the refugees of Germany and Austria.

Must Change Nazi Rule.

Transportation of the refugees, American officials also believe, should be financed largely by private organizations of wealthier nations such as the United States and Great Britain.

The United States cannot take more than small portion of the refugees. Secretary Hull's invitation to the other nations specifically stated that assistance was to be given within the framework of existing immigration laws.

The combined immigration quota for Germans and Austrians for the fiscal year just begun is only 27,370. The number of refugees hoping to leave has been estimated as high as 1,000,0000.

One problem will be to induce Germany to permit refugees to take their property with them in the form of foreign currrency. At present Jews leaving Germany can depart with only 5 per cent of the value of their property. It is believed that if they could take all or

President Calls South Nation's No. 1 Problem

Assails 'Unbalance' as Region's Leaders Meet to Assemble 'Facts.'

(Text on Page 9.)

By Robert C. Albright.

President Roosevelt yesterday called the South "the Nation's No. 1 economic problem" as a conference of Southern leaders met here with Government officials to "do something about it."

In a message to the group, the President said it was "the Nation's problem, not merely the South's, for we have an economic unbalance in the Nation as a whole, due to this very condition in the South.

"It is an unbalance that can and must be righted, for the sake of the South and of the Nation."

Then 23 Southern businessmen, labor leaders, publishers and economists met with Director Lowell Mellett of the National Emergency Council to frame a report giving "a picture of the South in relation to the rest of the country."

Placed before them were Government reports applying a critical statistical scalpel in dissecting 17 phases of the South's economic and social problems.

These Government reports pictured the South as wealthy in nat-

James Roosevelt Improving, Won't Need Operation

Rochester, Minn., July 5 (AP).—Marked improvement was reported by attending Mayo Clinic physicians today in the condition of James Roosevelt, son and Secretary of the President, who is under treatment for a gastric ulcer.

"It is quite definite that no surgery will be necessary," a hospital statement said. Young Roosevelt is expected to be dismissed from the hospital within two weeks.

Cardozo's Condition Continues to Improve

158,000,000 U. S. Population Predicted for 1988 in Report

By the Associated Press.

President Roosevelt made public last night a report predicting that the American population, after attaining a peak of 158,000,000 by 1988, would dwindle thereafter and would consist largely of old, or middle-aged people.

The prediction was made by the Committee on Population Problems and was transmitted to the White House by the President's National Resources Committee.

The experts estimated that between 1935 and 1975, the number of persons 20-44 years of age would increase only 6 per cent, whereas the number 45-64 years old would increase 69 per cent.

Persons over 65, now constituting about 6 per cent of the population, will constitute 15 per cent of it in 1980. People under 20, now about 37 per cent of the population, will be only about 25 per cent in 1980.

"A most striking feature of the population shift predicted for the next few decades," the report said, "is the increase in the number of older workers relative to the number of younger adults."

All this, the committee suggested,

Merger Issue Resurrected As Roosevelt Denies Purge

Revival Is Deliberate on Eve of Hot Battles for Congress.

Adams and Smith Get 'Clear' Signal

Uninformed on Indiana Trend to Van Nuys, President Says.

By William V. Nessly.

President Roosevelt yesterday deliberately revived on the eve of the Congressional election campaign the only issue on which he suffered a major defeat in the last Congress, Government reorganization.

He said the country undoubtedly wants a reorganization law and it should be apparent the executive branch of the Government must be put on a business basis.

At the same Whiate House press conference he disclaimed any present intention of participating in reported "purge" movements against two of the Democratic Senators who opposed his pigeon-holed court bill of last year.

Resubmission Indicated.

Whether the Congressional reorganization bill defeat will be injected as an issue along with the court bill in coming election contests, the President did not say. Democratic leaders at the Capitol have insisted it already has become such an issue.

But he definitely indicated the reorganization bill again will be put up to Congress, following a White House conference with members of the special committee that drafted his orginal merger plan.

Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen that he had not discussed with anyone the reported fight on Senator Adams, of Colorado, had expressed no opinion on the political situation in that State and had given it no consideration whatever.

To Avoid Carolina.

At the same time, he indicated that on his trip, starting tomorrow, he would not visit South Carolina, where Senator Ellison D. Smith is opposed by two avowed New Dealers.

In addition, he said he knew nothing of the peace bid from Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana to Senator Van Nuys, of that State, who had been marked for retirement by the State Democratic organization for his opposition to the court plan.

Thus, the purge movement that sprang from defeat of the court proposal was considered to have suffered new and definite setbacks. Always unpopular among many leading Democrats, the effort to drive from the Senate nine outstanding opponents of the judiciary plan never has made great headway.

Martin Hails Trend.

Hailing "collapse of the purge" as indicating "the trend is our way," Representative Martin, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican Congressional campaign committee, said in an interview that the Van Nuys case was evidence that there would be no expulsions.

He mentioned also the decision of Representative Eicher (Democrat), of Iowa, not to seek re-election, after he had unsuccessfully supported Representative Wearin in the latter's primary campaign against Senator Gillette, also a court plan opponent. "Eicher apparently believed his chances for re-election were not so good," Martin added.

The Republican campaign leader said he was "more confident than ever" that Republicans would gain 76 House seats in the November election.

The latest developments came while the movement to welcome Van Nuys back into Indiana Democratic ranks was assuming "bandwagon" proportions, according to the Associated Press. Two of the three candidates for the Senatorial nomination in the State convention of July 12 praised Gov. Townsend for inviting Van Nuys to seek renomination in the convention and

Reorganization Revival Hinted By Roosevelt

President Tells Press U. S. Doesn't Want 40-Year Wait for Reform.

Revival of the reorganization bill issue at the next session of Congress was hinted yesterday by President Roosevelt, who declared it is clear to everybody that the Government must be put on a business basis.

The President said this undoubtedly will be done, and the country doesn't want to wait another 40 years for the reform.

His statement to the press followed a conference with members of the Brownlow committee which drafted the report on which was based last session's futile effort to drive through a bill.

Sitting in on the conference were Chairman Louis Brownlow, Luther Gulick and Charles Merriam, members of the President's committee on administrative management.

It was the President's first formal comment on the measure since the House buried it in committee.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters he thought that in the common ground between the reorganization bill that passed the Senate and the merger measure recommended by the House there was possibility of getting an exceedingly valuable Government reorganization law.

Says Country Wants It.

He asserted that the country undoubtedly wants such a law. He attributed House defeat to differences over details and said a majority of the House was in agreement on the underlying principle. Many of those who voted to recommit, he said, favored 90 per cent of the bill's provisions, and most of the opponents differed on the 10 per cent they objected to.

Although Mr. Roosevelt did not speak of making Congressional votes on the recommitted bill an issue in the approaching elections, Democratic leaders at the Capitol have repeatedly said it already was an issue.

The measure was rejected by the House after President Roosevelt had personally taken a hand in the fight, and both Speaker Bankhead and Majority Leader Rayburn had placed the vote squarely on the issue of confidence in the President. Letters poured into Congressional offices reminiscent of the landslide of court plan mail, and in the thick of the battle the President issued a midnight statement denying he wants to be a dictator.

Asked yesterday if he still wanted to change the functions of the General Accounting office—one of the chief bases of opposition—the President said he never had wanted to.

He said the General Accounting office has two functions; one providing for a check on Governmental expenditures as they are made, and another providing for a check after the money was spent. He said he still thought those two functions should be separated.

The President said large business concerns of the country already provide for such a post audit. He said he wanted to do for the country exactly what every corporation in the country is doing in that respect.

The bill was attacked in the House and Senate because the check was to be made after the money was spent and managers of the reorganization bill replied that virtually the Federal accounting system already is operating on largely a post-audit basis.

Widened Civil Service.

Other features of the bill set up an independent civil service administrator, provided for blanketing all Government workers under the civil service system, gave the President large powers to merge, shift and abolish agencies, established a new department of welfare with an office in the Cabinet and provided six executive assistants for the President.

At the last minute, in an effort to pave the way for passage, House leaders assented to a Congressional veto over the President's merger orders, but in its original form it would have taken a two-thirds vote of both houses to block reorganization orders.

When rumors of the bill's revival reached the Capitol in the closing days of Congress, Senate Majority Leader Barkley issued a statement assuring members of both houses that no effort to pass it would be made in the Seventy-Fifth Congress.

14 Latin-American Nations Now Have Minimum Pay Acts

Labor in 14 Latin-American republics now has minimum-wage protection, an article in the current Bulletin of the Pan-American Union revealed yesterday.

Those nations are Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, Cuba, Ecuador, Guatemala, Haiti, Mexico, Panama, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

In most of the countries regulation of wages is by special commissions, but in Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Cuba, Ecuador, Uruguay and Venezuela wages have been set by legislation.

Lowe said he wired Ickes the building materials producers had cut prices before steel companies announced their reductions.

"The cost of building materials has been cut 8 per cent in the last five months," Lowe asserted.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in a minute and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

Youth and Night Clubs Worst Problem for Feminine Police

CAPT. RHODA MILLIKEN.

Capt. Rhoda Milliken, of the Women's Bureau, Recounts Troubles With 'Teen Age Group in Connection With Dine, Dance Places.

By Christine Sadler

Supervision of boys and girls at Washington's dine and dance places is one of the hardest problems facing the Woman's Bureau of the Police Department, according to Capt. Rhoda Milliken.

The District, which during recent years has seen a tremendous growth in commercial amusement concerns, has no law which prohibits youth of any age from going there. The local liquor law, however, says hard drinks cannot be sold to persons under 21 years of age and prohibits beer sales to children under 18.

"We have a great deal of trouble enforcing the liquor law. It's a difficult thing to check. As for a law which would set an age limit on children who attend public amusement places, we do not know that we want it unless our force could be increased to the point where we could take care of it," Capt. Milliken says.

The Woman's Bureau will be 20 years old in September. Its original personnel was 20 officers. Ten years ago this was increased to 23.

For years the bureau has occupied the old Second Precinct station on Fifth street, which was abandoned by the men following a precinct consolidation. Now the precinct has been re-established. Where the women will go, and when, is a question. For some time plans for new headquarters were included in the proposed municipal buildings development on Pennsylvania avenue. The present status of those plans is in doubt.

Capt. Milliken is more interested in preventive work than in "catching up with a crime already committed." To solve the public amusement problem she and her force are endeavoring to get interest aroused in provision of recreational facilities that will interest boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 18.

"It is not that we object to boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 18 going to dine and dance places, but that we object to the associations they are going to form at some of the places," she says.

The bureau handles approximately 5,000 complaints annually, settling as many of them outside court as possible. In addition the bureau handles approximately 5,600 admissions to the House of Detention annually. The 23 workers are not patrolmen, the Union Station being the one fixed post of duty in Washington to which a woman officer is assigned. There a number of runaway cases are handled, and a surprising number of mental cases. Washington attracts all sorts of persons with queer mental quirks. They come to get the President or Congress to set things right for them or to help the lawmakers run the country. If they can be turned back at the station, the Washington taxpayer, Congressmen's secretaries and the White House staff, are saved expense and trouble.

Capt. Milliken, a graduate of Barnard College, entered the Woman's Bureau as a private in 1919. She has been captain and director of the detention home since 1933. A slight, frank person with an abundance of good humor, Capt. Milliken retains her faith in the essential goodness of the human race—but she is aware of its frailties.

On Friday—Mrs. Louis Ottenberg, president of the Voteless District of Columbia League of Women Voters, will be next in the "Working for Washington" series.

Firms Unable to Complete Contracts Because Sales Are Refused, He Says; Portland Concern Calls Orderers 'Wholesalers.'

By the Associated Press.

Senator Pope (Democrat), Idaho, asked the monopoly investigation committee yesterday to inquire into trade practices of the Oregon Portland Cement Co. of Portland, Oreg.

He telegraphed the committee that the company had refused to sell cement to two independent Idaho firms.

Chairman O'Mahoney (Democrat), of Wyoming, said the telegram would be laid before the 12-member committee at its next meeting tomorrow.

In the telegram Pope said the Oregon Portland Co. had notified the Material Supply Co., of Nampa, Idaho, on October 6, 1937, that it had decided to discontinue selling cement because the Nampa firm was engaged in a wholesale business.

His telegram added that Henry Weidner, of Payette, Idaho, "has been treated similarly and is now unable to carry out three contracts to build houses under FHA because (he is) unable to obtain cement."

O'Mahoney said he also would lay before the committee a request from Representative Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, for an investigation of alleged price-fixing in the cotton-seed industry. Rankin charged last week efforts were being made to force down the price of cottonseed.

The committee chairman said other suggestions for investigations would be called to the attention of the committee.

A person from the motion picture industry has asked that the committee act immediately to combat alleged monopolistic practices in that industry, O'Mahoney said.

Police Accompany Drivers in Strike

New Orleans, July 5 (AP).—Heavy police details kept a C. I. O. strike against a taxicab copnay and ten trucking firms quiet today, while a Federal court hearing on the union's petition for an injunction against police interference was postponed until July 15.

The Toye Brothers' Yellow Cab Co. resumed operations with about 140 cars, in each of which a uniformed policeman rode beside the driver.

Hull Fires Dual Blast at Critics On Tariff Pacts

Denies Farm Imports of Last Year Competed With U. S. Crops.

By the United Press.

Secretary of State Hull last night fired a dual blast in defense of the Administration's reciprocal trade agreement program, declaring it essential to international peace and a major factor in the economic well-being of American agriculture and industry.

Angered by press and Congressional criticism of the agreements between the United States and 16 other nations, Hull wrote Representatives (Schneider (Progressive), of Wisconsin, who assailed agricultural concessions in the program, and Ramsay (Democrat), of West Virginia, that the policy was "designed to help industry, agriculture and business by making it easier for American goods to be sold in foreign countries."

He described as "erroneous" a memorandum Schneider had placed in the Congressional Record purporting to show the agreements have allowed a heavy flow of competitive foreign farm products into this country.

Many Imports Necessary.

"In the first place," he said, "a large part of the increased imports of agricultural commodities into this country, since the depression years, has not been in any way competitive with the products of American farmers. In the second place, the increased imports of these kinds of agricultural products which we also produce in the United States, such as corn and wheat, were almost entirely due to drought shortages, and were therefore abnormal, temporary, and supplemented rather than displaced domestic competition."

Hull pointed out that while imports of corn totaled 38,341,000 bushels during the first five months of 1937, they had slumped to 227,000 for the same period this year, while wheat imports for the period in 1937 totaled 6.772.000 bushels as against 5,000 this year.

He said a detailed analysis revealed that exports of many agricultural and industrial products have increased under the program and that there is no discrimination against the farmers under it.

Not "Buying Peace."

The letter to Ramsay was written after the West Virginian asked Hull's opinion on a series of newspaper articles criticizing the trade-agreement program as contributing to unfavorable conditions in glass, pottery, steel and other industries. Hull contended benefits to foreign nations under existing agreements in these fields were small in comparison with those to domestic industries, which, he said, obtained increased exports because of better international relationships.

"The strengthening of the basis for peace is one of the Administration's cardinal aims in pursuing the trade-agreements program," he wrote. "It is not, however, an aim for which, as has been implied, either American agriculture or American industry is asking to pay a price. Reductions in our import duties are not being made to 'buy peace.'

"They are made, as you know, to obtain reductions in the import restrictions of other countries in order that our agricultural and industrial producers may be able to dispose of their surplus goods in the markets of those countries."

Ropers Will Sail Today For English Vacation

Secretary of Commerce Roper and Mrs. Roper will sail on the Queen Mary from New York today for a five-week vacation in England and Scotland.

Mrs. Roper said the trip would be a quiet one—"all rest and no responsibilities." She said they decided to make the crossing unexpectedly and chose England and Scotland because they thought it would be quiet there.

Surplus Commodities Corporation Plans Wide Extension of Food Purposes for Relief.

Wide expansion of the buying of surplus food crops for relief clients by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation was announced yesterday on the heels of a survey of "unfilled need" for food among those on relief. The FSCC, under direction of Jesse W. Tapp, its president, already has purchased, between July 1, 1937 and May 1 of this year, more than 957,000,000 pounds of surplus farm products.

TAPP.

The survey showed that welfare agencies of the States and the District of Columbia indicated an outlet for foodstuffs for distribution to 2,626,000 relief families. Expanding the buying operations of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation to the full extent of the commodities which they could use as indicated by the survey would call for an outlay of about $175,000,000, whereas the total funds available for all surplus removal operations of the AAA are only about $79,000,000. The primary commodities needed by relief families are dairy products, dried and fresh fruits, vegetables, dried beans and peas and cereals.

Secretary Wallace said that private crop estimates made it obvious that mandatory wheat loan provisions of the new farm act would be placed in operation.

Wallace, calling at the White House, said he left a memorandum on the wheat loan situation with President Roosevelt.

"It is obvious from private crop estimates," the Secretary told reporters, "that when the Federal crop estimate comes out about July 11, the crop will be shown of sufficient size to make necessary the mandatory loans on wheat."

Under the farm law, Wallace said, the loan could be from 52 to 75 per cent of the $1.14 parity price.

AAA officials said that announcement of the loan was not expected until after the Government's July wheat crop report is released next Monday.

Activities of the Tennessee Valley Authority were discussed by President Roosevelt yesterday with directors of the agency.

The directors—H. A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal—said the phosphate work being carried on by the TVA was among the topics which were considered. The TVA, Morgan said, now is co-operating with a Senate committee which is making a special study of phosphate supplies.

Lilienthal said the purchase of private utility properties in the TVA area also was discussed briefly, but that no conclusions were reached. The Congressional investigation of TVA, he added, was not mentioned at the conference.

K St. Widening Tomorrow Not To Halt Traffic

New Roadways Scheduled For Both Sides of Center Lane.

The K street widening project, long awaited by District motorists, will get under way tomorrow with grading between Connecticut avenue and Twelfth street, it was announced yesterday.

The project, designed by Director of Highways H. C. Whitehurst, will not interfere with traffic and will be completed early in September, he said.

Trees on the curb line will be spared, Whitehurst added.

Next to the building lines 19-foot lanes for slow traffic will be constructed on each side of the street.

Capt. Whitehurst says a distance of 148 feet separates the building lines on K street in the development area. One hundred and four feet will be required for the roadway, leaving 42 feet for sidewalks.

For three months underground work has been in progress prior to grading of the street. The Potomac Electric Power Co. installed three new trunk lines, the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. one new trunk line and the Washington Gas Light Co. has replaced equipment in its distribution system.

Water mains have been increased in size and 68 drainage basins have been constructed.

That portion of K street between Fourteenth and Twelfth streets will be repaved.

8-Man Jury Meets On Postal Designs

The jury of eight men chosen to make awards for ten architectural designs in the Treasury Department's competition for small post-office buildings costing not more than $50,000 will begin its work today.

The jurors will make their selections from 429 designs contributed from a list of 1,189 applicants. The ten winners will receive $1,000 each. The winners will be announced as soon as the awards are made.

Applications for the second architectural competition for a postoffice and courthouse building at Coyington, Ky., already are being received. Designs will be accepted by the Procurement division until August 2. The winner of this competition will receive $4,500 for his design, and an additional $4,500 for consultation services during the preparation of the working drawings and specifications.

88 Poor Children Quit D.C. for Camp

Eighty-eight of the Capital's neediest children yesterday said farewell for two weeks to traffic perils and hot sidewalks and left for Camp Bennett, Brookeville, Md.

Opening the fifth summer season at the vacation retreat, which is maintained by Central Union Mission, the 6 to 8 year old boys and girls went in buses from the downtown Washington mission. Older children will attend later camp periods.

Situated adjacent to the C. U. M. farm, the camp will be supplied with fresh vegetables and dairy foodstuffs by the large reservation.

D. C. Heads Act To Cut Job Tax For Employers

3% Rate Puts $500,000 in Fund Monthly Against $225,000 Benefits.

The District Commissioners acted yesterday to reduce substantially employers' taxes for unemployment compensation when it was revealed approximately $8,000,000 had accumulated in the tax trust fund within three years

Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, chairman of the District Unemployment Compensation Board, said he would propose a bill to Congress early next session to bring about a reduction in the taxes now paid by every employer here as insurance against unemployment.

"It is unfair to accumulate this tremendous sum," Hazen stated. "Wer'e taking in more per month than we are paying out."

$225,000 Monthly Benefits.

John Marshall, director of the board, stated they were receiving approximately $500,000 per month from employers and paying out unemployment benefits at the rate of about $225,000 a month.

Hazen said he would recommend a flexible schedule of a minimum rate of 1 per cent to a maximum of 3 per cent, which would be subject to adjustment by the Commissioners when necessary. At the present time employers are paying into the Unemployment Compensation Fund, 3 per cent of their pay rolls.

Three years ago, the rate was 1 per cent, and last year 2 per cent of the pay roll. Marshall said at the end of the 1938 fiscal year the board had on deposit with the United States Treasury $7,976,623.52. He said during the month of June approximately 20,000 persons received unemployment benefit checks.

4,308 Receive Aid.

Checks were sent to 4,981 unemployed during the first week in June; the second week, 4,396; the third week, 4,390, and the fourth week, 4,398.

The entire board, composed of Hazen, Commissioners George E. Allen and Dan I. Sultan; John Locher, representing labor; D. J. Callahan, representing employers, and Marshall, discussed the proposal yesterday.

Hazen said the board would wait until the close of the calendar year before making the proposal to Congress. He said they were anxious to gain more experience in the field. Benefit payments began the first of the year.

Flood Retards Party in Gorge, Experts Believe

Colorado Expedition Is Given Until Friday Before Search Starts.

By the Associated Press.

Lees Ferry, Ariz., July 5.—Government experts revised their estimate today of the time when the Colorado River expedition might reach here, and discussed the possibility of an airplane search.

The four men and two women, gathering botanical specimens for the University of Michigan, had hoped to arrive at Lees Ferry July 4 after 300 hazardous miles from Green River, Utah.

F. S. Anderson, of the United States Geological Survey station, said he believed the unusually high water of the Colorado forced greater caution and probably retarded the three tiny boats.

Air Liners to Look.

He estimated the group might arrive July 8 and he and his companion, A. J. Hanson, pondered the possibility of asking for a searching airplane if there is no sign of the expedition by then.

At Los Angeles it was announced that four T. W. A. flights daily would deviate the allowable 25 miles from their routes while pilots look for the missing party in the canyon.

River Highest in 10 Years.

The Colorado River is flowing 70,000 second feet, the highest in 10 years, and this caused veteran rivermen to express grave doubt for the success of the trip even before it started.

Norman D. Nevills, the leader, declared the high water would help rather than hinder the passage over cataracts between mile-high canyon walls. The entire region is one of the most isolated in the United States, with no habitations between here and Green River.

One cheering sign is that Anderson and Hanson, keeping a close watch on the river, have seen no wreckage.

Mysterious Bullet Falls on Floor of Narcotics Bureau

Rumors that a mysterious sniper was shooting at the Bureau of Narcotics yesterday sent investigators scurrying to the bureau's Tower Building offices, clothed in bullet-proof vests and prepared to see narcotic agents strewn all over the floor.

All they found was a spent .22 bullet in the bureau's file room. It might have come through the window any time between Saturday noon, when the offices closed, and yesterday morning, when they reopened, according to Treasury guards.

"The bullet certainly wasn't fired by someone trying to 'get' us," said an unperturbed agent. "We attribute it to kids who couldn't buy fireworks for the Fourth—or maybe a holiday drunk."

Levine Extortionist Reported Quizzed On Abduction Case

New York, July 5.—Werner Fred Luck, 23, of North Pelham, N. Y., who is awaiting sentence on his conviction last week for attempted extortion in trying to obtain $30,000 from Murray Levine on the promise of the safe return of his kidnaped son, Peter, who was found slain on May 29, was taken to the Federal Bureau of Investigation offices in the United States courthouse this afternoon, reportedly for questioning regarding the kidnaping itself.

Luck was brought to Manhattan after a writ of habeas corpus had been obtained from Judge Frank H. Coyne, in Westchester County Court, to permit the youth's removal from the county jail at East View. No attempt was made to obtain the removal for questioning of Edward John Penn, 18, also of North Pelham, who was convicted with Luck on the extortion charge.

Luck and Penn previously had been questioned and exonerated of any conection with the kidnaping.

7 Sea Scouts Sail on Voyage Of 100 Miles Down Potomac

Trip to Bay May Take Three Weeks, Depending on Wind and Weather; 23-Foot Craft Tows Lifeboat.

Seven Sea Scouts set sail yesterday from the Corinthian Yacht Club on a 100-mile trip down the Potomac River to Chesapeake Bay.

In a 23-foot catboat, piloted by Frederick Tilp, skipper of the Corinthian Sea Scout unit, the boys are headed for Coan River, where the Potomac meets the bay. Their first scheduled stop is Gunston Grove, Va.

The boys will practice what they learned of seamanship in winter studies. They will cook their own meals aboard the Bobcat, their trim sailing craft, and Skipper Tilp has assigned each crew member to a particular job.

The cruise is expected to take three weeks. How and when the boys reach Cove River depends upon weather conditions and wind, Tilp explained. The Bobcat's crew includes:

Walter Lawson, 17, 2636 Monroe street northeast, first mate; John Tryon, 17, 1323 Jackson street northeast, cook; Bill Stell, 16, 1350 Jackson street northeast, carpenter; Paul de Tamble, 15, Arlington, Va., radio operator; Henry Nicol, 15, 1716 Newton street northwest, and Jack Gazer, 17, 5215 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

A homemade radio "that really works" will keep the boys in touch with shore on the trip, Tilp said.

"We aren't going to try to set any records," he added, "but if luck is with us, we ought to reach our port within a week or two."

It was at first planned to divide the boys into two crews and take two boats on the trip. But a last-minute change placed all the boys in one craft. Just in case of trouble, the Bobcat is towing a lifeboat large enough for the whole crew.

July 4 Death Toll In U. S. 517; Cars Deadliest, Kill 258

By the Associated Press.

The 72 hours of the Independence Day week-end brought violent death to at least 517 persons in the United States.

In contrast to the Fourth of July of other days—when hospitals were filled with fireworks' victims—only three persons throughout the Nation were killed by that cause.

Greatest destroyer of lives was the automobile, which killed 258. The second greatest number of fatalities was 141 drownings. Twenty persons killed themselves and 27 more were shot by others, mainly by accident.

Trains killed 18 and the remaining 50 fatalities resulted from such causes as lightning and accidents in the home.

June O'Dea Finds Gomez 'Nice,' May 'Make Up' Friday

New York, July 5 (AP).—June O'Dea, pert showgirl wife of Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, happy over a prospective reconciliation with the Yankee pitcher, disclosed tonight after his departure for the All-Star Game in Cincinnati that they had played golf a week together—"without quarreling."

"That's a record for any couple," she added.

"I've decided that Lefty isn't so bad after all," she said, seeking to forget the quarrels that led her to sue for separation sometime ago. She charged he was "extremely eccentric" and violent at times.

"If he's as nice when he returns next Friday, as he was when he went away—well, anything may happen."

Mass. School Head Quits N.E.A. After Attack on Legion

Boston, July 5 (AP).—James G. Reardon, State commissioner of education, today announced he had resigned from the National Education Association because "the American Legion was pictured as an un-American organization and a group of men with Fascist tendencies" at a recent meeting of the association in New York.

Reardon, a member of the Legion, said the privilege of answering the criticism should have been extended National Legion Commander Daniel J. Doherty, "before the same large assembled group."

Doherty sought to answer the charge at the same meeting at which it was delivered, but was not given the privilege of replying until the following day.

Costner Gets 20 Years For N. C. Mail Robbery

Lehman Wipes Out Roosevelt's Deficits in N. Y.

Erases $100,000,000 in Red Ink Left by the President.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Albany, July 5.—Gov. Lehman today announced a $100,000,000 deficit which accumulated during the last two years of the Governorship of Franklin D. Roosevelt, 1931 and 1932, was wiped out during the 1937-1938 fiscal year, ended June 30.

Lehman's figures show an operating surplus of over $16,600,000 for the year and an accumulated surplus of about $6,500,000. This is the first time the State has had a surplus since 1930.

A shrinkage of $10,885,742.21 in the estimated revenues for the year, the Governor explained, was counterbalanced by a $7,000,000 budgetary reserve and by economies, as well as payment of $2,775,000 by the Port of New York Authority on its indebtedness to the State.

Stock Transfer Tax Dips.

Revenues during the fiscal year amounted to $388,986,557.59, while expenditures amounted to $372,318,783.37. In his budget the Governor had estimated the year's revenues at $399,872,299.80. The sharpest revenue shrinkage was in the stock transfer tax which fell $11,324,077.83 below the estimate. The personal income tax amounted to $7,175,964.65 over the estimate.

Lehman, who recently announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate to succeed the late Royal S. Copeland, was frankly and obviously elated over his success in balancing the State budget against the $100,000,000 deficit handicap which faced him when he succeeded Mr. Roosevelt as Governor on January 1, 1933. Though handicapped further by the depression, the wiping out of the Roosevelt deficit has been one of his chief ambitions.

Taxes, Economies Credited

Today he gave figures showing a State operating deficit of $102,060,786.72 and a cumulative deficit of $42,793,540.11 in 1932, followed by an operating deficit of $51,634,956.56 and a cumulative deficit of $94,428,496.67 in 1933, last fiscal year of the Roosevelt administration.

In his first year as Governor, Lehman recommended and the Legislature enacted about $80,000,000 of emergency taxes, which virtually have been in force ever since, with some additions. The only emergency tax not continued was a 1 per cent retail sales tax. Lehman also brought about temporary salary reductions and other economies. In his statement today he emphasized "strict economy" in the State's fiscal policy "is still essential" because of "the uncertainty of State revenues."

Lehman set the example this year by vetoing bills for direct appropriations amounting to over $6,000,000 as well as other measures which would have added several more millions of expenditures to the budget for the new fiscal year.

2½ Years, $2,500 Given D.C. Man on Mann Act Charge

Pleading guilty to a charge of violating the Mann act, Edward Brinkley, of Washington, yesterday was sentenced to two and one-half years and fined $2,500 in the United States District Court at Baltimore.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut also sentenced Mrs. Mary Liebman, 63, to a year and a day in a Federal reformatory and fined her $10,000 in the same case.

Sentencing of the elderly Baltimore woman and the Washington man virtually concluded action resulting from the series of vice raids led by G-men early in 1937, in which 30 men and women were seized.

Brinkley pleaded guilty to arranging for transfer of a girl known as Caroline St. John, of North Carolina, from Washington to Baltimore in August, 1936. Her real name was not disclosed by Federal agents.

100 Tubercular Children Try To Fill Uniforms at Camp

Waists Are Too Thin to Keep Trousers Up Now, But Director Forecasts 6-Pound Average Gain in Two Months.

One hundred boys and girls between the ages of 3 and 12 years had trouble with their pants yesterday at Bald Eagle Hill.

Trouble was that their waists were too thin to hold up the pants which will be their uniforms for the next two months at the camp for tubercular children sponsored by the Tuberculosis Association.

As they had their first day of sunshine, fresh air, plenty of vitamin-laden food and 2 quarts of milk, the pants trouble rapidly took on a temporary character.

6-Pound Gains Forecast.

For within a few days, Miss Sarah Shriner, camp director, said, the children will take on weight and by the end of the summer will have gained an average of 6 pounds each, if records of other years are equaled.

It was a happy day for the children opening the camp for its twenty-first consecutive year and second year on the Bald Eagle Hill site. For more than 100 others it was just another day, even though their need for summer treatment was just as great. They were left behind in the city because sale of Christmas seals did not provide enough money to include them.

Camp Capacity Is 125.

The children who opened the camp yesterday were too young to worry about suffering from early tuberculosis, known as the childhood, juvenile, glandular or tracheobronchial type. This type is not communicable and differs from the pulmonary type which kills adults. But this type may eventually lead to the deadly type if not cured or checked.

Carefully Selected.

Although two months is not considered sufficient time to cure the children completely, the past camps have proven that much can be accomplished in building the children's general health in two months and in preparing them for the winter.

The children were selected from applications sent to the association by the Health Department Chest Clinic, Freedman's Chest Clinic, Children's and Providence hospitals, and from qualified private physicians. Preference was given to children whose families suffer economic distress. Many come from relief rolls.

The Marine Band played a concert last night. Kiwanis and Lions clubs furnished transportation to the camp.

Youth Recovering From Stray Bullet

Charles Dixon, 25, 804 Taylor street northeast, was recovering yesterday from an injury to his scalp inflicted by a stray bullet which struck him while he was walking in the 1100 block of Lamont street northwest.

Dixon told police he felt the impact, but did not learn what caused it until he was treated at Garfield Hospital. There the bullet was extracted from his scalp, and turned over to the police.

Dixon said he did not hear a report of a shot, and could see no one near when he was hit.

Boy, 14, Is Seized By Cramp in River; 3 Fail to Save Him

Despite efforts of three youths to save him, James McClain, 14, colored, of 1249 Half street southwest, was drowned in the Potomac, opposite Water and O streets, late yesterday.

The boy and his brother, Carroll, 12, had gone for a swim. Apparently, police said, James was seized by a cramp. He sank from view, and his brother called for help.

Clarence Berry, 16, of 950 S street southwest; Arthur Johnson, 16, of 1330 Fourth street southwest, and Harry Krause, 16, of 326 N street southwest, plunged into the water. Krause retrieved the body.

Dodd and Smith Speak at Same Virginia Rally

Rivals for Congress Seat Avoid Mention of Political Issues.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Manassas, Va., July 5.—William E. Dodd, jr., son of the former ambassador to Germany, was introduced at a meeting of the Prince William County Young Democrats here tonight, not as a candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress, but as a visiting member of the Loudoun County Young Democrats.

Dodd appeared at the meeting at which his primary opponent, Representative Howard W. Smith, of the Eighth Virginia District, was the scheduled speaker. Dodd was introduced from his seat in the audience.

It was the first time in the campaign that Dodd and Smith have faced each other at a meeting of voters.

Smith, who had declared he would not speak at a political meeting attended by Dodd, made a brief address in which he studiously avoided all mention of politics or of Dodd's recent attacks on his Congressional record.

Smith said he found increasing interest of young persons in politics as a favorable sign. He told the 500 persons in the audience the party is "depending upon you."

Smith complimented the club on its part in a State-wide drive for members and officiated at the presentation of prizes. Mrs. Janie Able received first prize in the county drive.

Ceconis Will Live In D. C. on Return

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Joseph Ceconi, who were married at St. Paul's Catholic Church July 2, will live in Washington after a wedding trip to Quebec and Montreal.

The bride, the former Miss Rae Bernice Broussard, is the daughter of Mrs. W. E. Maddison, of Salt Lake City. Mr. Ceconi's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmo J. Ceconi, of Tampa, Fla.

The Rev. Edmund J. Fontaine officiated at their marriage, which took place in a setting of cymbodium ferns, palms and Easter lilies. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Stratford Brossard, wore white satin made on princess lines with a circular train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Lorraine Theresa Broussard, who served as her maid of honor and only attendant, wore an Alice Blue frock of marquisette with a matching poke bonnet and carried a colonial bouquet of delphinium, roses, and lilies of the valley.

Philip J. Ceconi was best man, and the ushers were Charles S. Borda, John A. Loftus, Mario J. Ceconi and Vinyant Ives.

A reception at the Admiral Club followed the ceremony. When she left for her wedding trip the bride was wearing a brown pleated chiffon dress with a shirred jacket and white accessories.

Mrs. Ceconi is a graduate of the University of Utah and her husband attended Spring Hill College at Mobile, Ala., the University of Detroit and Georgetown University law school. Mr. Ceconi is a great-great-grandnephew of the late Pope Leo XIII.

Richard du Pont Claims Altitude Mark for Gliders

Elmira, N. Y., July 5 (AP).—A millionaire sportsman sent a fragile sailplane more than a mile above the earth today to break unofficially his own American altitude record of 6,223 feet.

Richard C. duPont, of Wilmington, Del., reported he reached a height of 6,700 feet above his starting point in a 24-mile flight in the national soaring meet.

Today's flight bettered the unofficial mark of Naval Cadet Robert M. Stanley, of the aircraft carrier Lexington, who soared 6,380 feet above his starting point last week.

Countess Barbara's Suit Attracts London Crowd

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

The curious gathered outside Bow Street Police Court in London yesterday when Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow (inset), Woolworth heiress, made sensational charges against her titled Danish husband, accusing him of demanding $5,000,000 for a divorce and threatening to shoot "like a dog" an unnamed London society man. This picture was sent from London to New York by radio.

Unnamed London Society Man Revealed as Reventlow's Rival

lieve his son is getting the proper training at Winfield.

Testimony indicated he had been kept informed by a chauffeur, during his absence of the past month, of "certain happenings" at the magnificent mansion which has been the talk of London's high society ever since it opened. Lavish entertainments have made it a center for titles and tiaras.

Solicitor Testifies.

Today's actual testimony was entirely by William M. Mitchell, a bald, pink-cheeked man who formerly was solicitor (attorney) for both the count and countess but now is representing only Barbara.

Mitchell, questioned by Sir Patrick Hastings, Countess Barbara's counsel, and Norman Birkett, attorney for the count, gave a description of discussions of murder, suicide, blackmail and kidnaping which held the crowded Bow Street Court room breathless.

Sir Patrick outlined the case for the countess. He declared the titled pair decided June 2 to discuss separation. Later the count went to France. He returned to London last Friday to face his wife's charges and had been under $10,000 bail pending the hearing.

In the witness box, Mitchell said that after the June 2 meeting he saw the count at the exclusive London Bath Club.

"What was his attitude toward his wife on that occasion?" Sir Patrick asked.

"At one moment he abused her and at the next he would indicate that nothing was too good for her," Mitchell answered.

Sir Patrick: "Don't use the words he used, but in what form of language did he abuse her?"

Mitchell: "In obscene language."

"The gentleman in London" kept popping into the questions and answers.

Birkett: "It is plain, is it not, that one of the chief features of this case is that this matter of 'the gentleman in London'—we have agreed on the phrase—upset the count profoundly?"

Mitchell: "Yes, and, in my view, childishly."

Birkett: "Never mind your view. Husbands aren't like solicitors."

Mitchell: "Some solicitors are husbands."

Mitchell then recounted his conversation with the count, in France, about the countess.

Name Not Mentioned.

"And did he mention the name of one particular gentleman in London society?" Sir Patrick asked.

"Yes," replied Mitchell. "He did."

"I am not going to mention his name," Sir Patrick went on, "but what did he say he was going to do to him?"

"He said someone in English society had written to him stating that unless he first challenged that gentleman to a duel he could never return to London society again.

"The count went on to say that dueling was 'too god for that ——,' and said 'I shall go straight back to London and shoot him like a dog.'"

Previously, in a preliminary outline of the case, Sir Patrick had said the count had "raved a bit" when "the gentleman in London" was mentioned, declaring that "his honor was at stake and that he was going over to England to fight a duel with a man and was going to fight with the person he named."

Sir Patrick said the count had declared that if he was not permitted to fight a duel he would shoot "the gentleman in London" and "put his wife on the spot."

"He then burst into tears," Sir Patrick explained in his outline. "He spent the whole day with Mitchell, varying between tearfulness and threats and asking for various enormous sums of money which he seemed to think he required."

The next morning, Sir Patrick said, the count apparently changed his mind, declared he wouldn't have a separation, and said he intended to seize his son. It was then, he explained, that 2-year-old Lance was made a ward in chancery, with his upbringing to be directed by the court.

When Mitchell told of the interview, he said the countess first thought of a settlement of £250,000 ($1,250,000) on her estranged husband, then decided to offer $250,000 "as a gift." He said he had been authorized to increase this sum to $500,000.

"The count said 50,000 sterling ($250,000) was laughable," Mitchell testified. "He said it was an insult."

When he showed the count the letter from his wife, Mitchell said, the count burst into tears and collapsed on a bed.

"I have received your letter," Countess Barbara wrote her husband, "which makes it even more difficult to say what I have to say. Now that I have had time to think things over I feel more strongly than before that your attitude after last year and especially during the last few weeks has made it impossible for me to go on living with you."

The letter added "I don't want you to have any hard feelings about me and I have not got any about you."

Describes "Blackmail Talk."

The solicitor declared the count had hastened back to London because "he was apprehensive regarding something he said to me."

"It was talk about blackmail," Mitchell said. "He said I didn't understand the beginning of technique; that a lot of money could be made out of it if properly handled and that the only mistake he had made was in signing a New York deed."

The "New York deed," Mitchell explained, had to do with "property."

The attorney said the count told him: "If I blow my brains out everybody will have known Barbara drove me to it . . . tragedy will haunt her all her life, and nobody will ever speak to her again. . . ."

When the interview first started, Mitchell said, the count "proceeded to use words about his wife and call her names . . . obscene terms."

On the point that the count had told Mitchell at one time that he wanted possession of his son, Birket asked:

"Did he say, 'I have ample evidence that Winfield House isn't a suitable place for him to be brought up?'"

"He told me a former chauffeur had written to him as to certain happenings since he had gone."

The case against the count, and the count's defense, were summed up in this question of Birkett's:

"Now about these allegations with regard to threats. I want to suggest perfectly straightly that at no time on the 19th and 20th (of June) did the count utter a single word against his wife?"

And Mitchell's emphatic answer: "Oh, yes; he did."

Married 3 Years Ago.

The count constantly screwled notes which he passed to Birkett. The countess, who married him a day after she divorced the late Prince Alexis Mdivani at Reno, May 13, 1935, kept her eyes on the back of her husband's head. She was clad in black. A large black hat covered most of her golden hair. A long, fragile veil hung over her face. In the stuffy room, she discarded the huge silver fox piece she had worn into court.

Elaborating on his contention that the count had "uttered" words against his wife, Mitchell said the count declared he might come back to London to shoot somebody, and that it might be necessary to use force to exclude him from Winfield if he attempted using force to see Barbara.

The solicitor told how he became upset at the count's sudden changes of manner and became apprehensive at one time after the count had made threatening remarks.

New Merit Job Estimates Cut To but 70,000 of Government agencies to report to the commission the positions in their departments and establishments which they felt should be exempted "as policy determining or for other reasons." After the commission receives these recommendations, it will transmit them to the President with its own comment.

"At present, we have no accurate information as to how many positions there are outside the merit system," Mitchell said. "Under the order, the department heads will make a full report to us on all exempt positions."

Hopes for New Extension.

Describing President Roosevelt's action as the "greatest advance in the civil service since its creation in 1883," Mitchell expressed hope that Congress would enact legislation next year to cover all Federal employes.

Among the large number of minor Federal positions now exempt and likely to remain so are the jobs of inspectors of river gauges on farms throughout the country, those of collectors of cotton statistics who earn less than $540 a year and the position of Weather Bureau observers.

Commission records show that of 813,302 workers on the Government pay roll last December 31, there were 533,325 in the classified civil service. The total of employes had increased to 826,319 by April 1, but figures indicating the number of additional workers with civil service status were not available.

Withdrawal Unlikely.

By his order of June 24, President Roosevelt extended the merit system further at one time than has any other Chief Executive. Even if the early estimates of 130,000 finally are cut to 70,000, Roosevelt will have outdistanced President Taft, who blanketed in 58,000 employes at one time.

Civil Service Commissioner Samuel H. Ordway, jr., said that although future Presidents might withdraw civil service status from all the jobs involved, it was extremely unlikely such a step would be taken for political purposes.

Ordway explained that once a civil service employe is given tenure of a job, it can not easily be taken from him. Thus, he added, non-civil service appointments to such posts could be made only after incumbents resigned, died or were discharged for cause.

In addition to workers covered by the President's order, Congress placed all first, second and third class postmasters—about 14,000—under civil service at the last session.

dered the unaffiliated labor group disestablished.

For the first time the board held that a union representative may enter a company-owned town, such as Yancey, to transact legitimate business and that it was an unfair labor practice for the company to exclude representatives of the United Mine Workers of America from Yancey. The company contended that its ownership of all implements and a 99-year lease on the property in Yancey entitled it to prohibit U. M. W. A. organizers from entering Yancey and to remove them forcibly as trespassers if they did.

In case there's anyone in the class who doesn't remember, Mr. Ritner had warned that "the future appears very dark for any further benefits to Federal employes unless the unions formulate uniformity of demands to Congress."

Charges Use of Guns.

"In entering and passing through Yancey on their visits to employes there residing, the union organizers were engaged in a transaction of mutual interest, the exercise by the employes of their right under the act to form and join a labor organization for the purpose of collective bargaining and other mutual aid and protection," the N. L. R. B. said. "By forcibly preventing the organizers from coming to or remaining in Yancey, the respondent not only violated this right but engaged in an unfair labor practice . . . the rights guaranteed to the employes by the act include full freedom to receive aid, advice, and information from others, concerning those rights and their enjoyment."

The N. L. R. B. said that on July 10, 1937, Elzo Guthrie, president of the Harlan Co., and several other persons, all armed with pistols, entered the Yancey postoffice, and ordered several U. M. W. A. organizers to leave town.

The decision quoted Guthrie as saying to one colored organizer:

"'What the hell are you doing in here? Get the hell out of here, you black . . . there, and get your mail. I ought to shoot your . . . damn black brains out.'"

Orders to Company.

The company was ordered to:

Cease discouraging a membership in the U. M. W. A., District 19, or any other labor organization.

Cease interfering with the right of union representatives or any other persons, in entering Yancey to help employes organize.

Cease all other interference with its employes' rights to self-organization.

Disestablish Yancey Workmen Association, Inc.

Remedy employment discriminations against 24 employes by offering immediate and full reinstatement with back pay to discharged employes and making whole wage losses suffered by employes discriminated against in their working conditions.

Post compliance notices for 30 days in conspicuous places about the company's property.

The Harlan company employs about 500 men and mines approximately 500,000 tons of coal annually. About 90 per cent of it is sold outside Kentucky, the board said.

Cameraman Held Slain By 'Homicidal Intent'

Hollywood, July 5 (AP).—King D. Gray, 52-year-old film studio cameraman, was shot and killed "with homicidal intent," a coroner's jury decided today. Gray's body was found last Thursday slumped over the steering wheel of his car in front of a busy Hollywood postoffice, in view of hundreds of passersby for several hours.

might be circumvented by relaxation of present bars to immigration and by a reversal of the diminishing birth rate, but in the long run a halt in the population increase might not be such a bad thing after all.

"It may, on the whole," it said, "be beneficial rather than injurious to the life of the Nation. It assures a continuance of a favorable ratio of population to natural resources of the United States. Each citizen of this country will continue to have, on the average, a larger amount of arable land, minerals and other natural resources at his disposal than the citizen of the countries of the Old World. This supplies the material basis for a higher level of living."

While the committee leaned toward a population estimate of 158,000,000 by 1988 it said there was a possibility that the peak might actually be 138,000,000 and that it might be reached as early as 1955.

Discussing births, the survey said white and Negro groups now are reproducing at about the same rates, while the American Indians are the most rapidly increasing racial stock in the country.

The report placed particular emphasis on its analysis of the age distribution of workers, which showed that older workers now predominate in industries which are declining, while the personnel of new industries is heavily weighted with young people.

The committee said:

"These findings suggest the importance to national economic and individual morale of greater consideration of conditions affecting the employment of older workers and of provisions for retaining and increasing the adaptability of individual workers displaced from their usual occupation of technological change."

The economic, social and cultural gains which could be made by keeping the size of families of illiterate, dependent or feeble-minded parents down to a minimum and stimulating the size of self-sufficient families would be enormous, it was said.

Urging the necessity of a human conservation program the committee pointed out that until recently the natural resources of the United States had appeared inexhaustible until stock was taken of the disappearance of millions of acres of good farm land.

"In exactly the same way our human heritage is not inexhaustible."

British Expect Nazis to Press Japanese Aid

Tension Rising at Hongkong; Invaders Push Drive Toward Hankow.

Shanghai, July 5.—Japanese commanders gathered their forces today, following capture of Hukow, for an intensified drive toward Hankow, China's provisional capital 150 miles up the Yangtze River.

Planning to enlarge gains of the last 24 hours, they declared the Japanese onslaught aimed at Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, the "Wuhan cities," would be "ceaselessly maintained with the utmost vigor."

German Crisis Growing.

Naval commanders announced that a squadron of warships reached Hukow, after a major breaching of the Matowchen rock and timber booms, 25 miles down river, where Chinese shore batteries and machine gun units made a prolonged stand before withdrawal of their major forces June 30.

Meanwhile, at Hongkong, circles in close touch with the Chinese government declared that Chinese-German relations have become "even more serious than they appear."

Departure of the German general, Baron Alexander von Falkenhausen, and 28 of his assistant military advisers to the Chinese government from Hankow today was judged only incidental in development of the situation.

There was general belief in diplomatic circles that the Italian-German-Japanese anticommunism pact would be tightened in the Far East, that Germany soon would make further moves to show her friendship for Japan, and that France and Britain would balance this by more obvious support to China—possibly financial.

Fleeing Chinese Slaughtered.

Describing the action about Hukow, a Japanese military communique today said 1,000 Chinese soldiers attempting to escape into Poyang Lake in junks were slaughtered.

Hastily drawn up artillery fired at their frail craft point blank, Japanese said.

As the warships approached Hukow through mine-laden, flood-stage waters of the Yangtze, Japanese said they shelled and silenced Chinese artillery batteries on the north bank.

Fifteen miles up river from Hukow, Chinese were asserted to be strewing mines above Kiukiang, where they have erected another series of booms, and to have mobilized high-speed torpedo boats for action against the warships.

July 7 "Memorial Day."

Chinese reports said bursting dikes on the north bank of the river in the vicinity of Kiukiang were causing a new flood menace to Japanese.

Japanese military officials declared the Chinese had deliberately pierced the dikes as a defensive measure, but Chinese said it had been impossible to maintain the dikes in the face of the Japanese military offensive.

With the war in China approaching its first anniversary, the Chinese government proclaimed July 7 heneceforth a national memorial day marking the outbreak of hostilities at Marco Polo Bridge near Pieping.

Having smashed their way up the Yangtze River for 450 miles, the Japanese at Hukow were in position to push a double attack—one directly up river between fortified river banks to Hankow; the other south across Poyang Lake, itself now at high water, to a major Chinese air base at Nanchang, 100 miles away.

From Nanchang they could move west to cut the Hankow-Canton Railway and threaten Hankow from the south.

Warfare on Jews Called 'Inhuman' By Vatican Paper

Vatican City, July 5 (AP).—The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano asserted today that anti-Jewish propaganda had produced results "unworthy of 20 centuries of Christian civilization."

Recalling the words of Christ forgiving His crucifiers, the paper said: "It is inevitable that any time we abandon the life of the Gospels, human lives perish. Toward the Israelites we are not only extremely anti-Christian and anti-civil, but inhuman."

The article, commenting on steps taken in Austria to prevent false accusations by rewarding those disclosing them, said "only now is Diogenes' lamp for searching for false accusers lighted with 50 marks."

Schuschnigg Held In Viennese Hotel

Special Cable to The Post.

Paris, July 5.—Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, former chancellor of Austria, is being held at the Hotel Metropole in Vienna, headquarters of the Austrian detachment of the German secret police, it became known here today. His whereabouts have been secret for some weeks.

Dr. Schuschnigg was reported nervous and physically rundown. His friends are permitted to send him cross-word puzzles, and once a week his wife, the Countess Vera Fugger von Babenhausen, whom he recently married by proxy, is allowed to visit him.

Nations Vote Belligerent Rights To Franco, Troops' Withdrawal

eign fighters and eventually to terinate the hostilities altogether.

As it now stands in its final revised form, the British plan will cost about £2,750,000 to execute. It provides for the establishment of camps for the foreign combatants near seaports from which they can gradually be evacuated from Spain and shipped to their homelands. Belligerent rights are not to be granted until substantial progress has been made in evacuating foreigners—Franco must release at least 10,000 foreigners and Barcelona must release a proportionate number.

First Funds Paid.

The huge cost of the British scheme is to be borne largely by Britain, France, Germany, Italy and perhaps Soviet Russia.

By way of earnest money these first four nations today each handed the secretary of the Nonintervention Committee a check for £12,500 to enable the committee to proceed without delay on the preliminaries for the withdrawal of volunteers.

The Spanish war, now rounding out its second year, was in its infancy when the Nonintervention Committee was organized to localize the struggle and prevent it from spreading into a central European war. The British plan was advanced a year ago and in the interval it has undergone radical revisions.

Today's meeting was the first plenary session of the Nonintervention Committee in eight months, although a small sub-committee has been meeting occasionally. With the aim of breathing new life into the moribund committee and putting across the British plan at last, the foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, presided at today's gathering in place of the usual chairman, the Earl of Plymouth.

Russian Terms Met.

Lord Halifax spoke of the urgency of the Spanish situatiotn. He dedescribed the British plan as a "complicated piece of real international co-operation." Short speeches approving the plan were made by the diplomatic envoys of Germany, Italy, France, Poland, Portugal, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Hungary and Sweden.

Objections by Soviet Russia's spokesman prolonged the meeting over three hours. The objections concerned the restoration and strengthening of international supervision over the Spanish land and sea frontiers to keep out war material and men.

Bravery of U.S. Women Cited By Mme. Chiang

'Will Never Forget' Saving of Girls From Nippon Troops, She Says.

(A tribute to American woman missionaries who have remained at their posts in the war zones of China is given by the wife of China's supreme generalissimo in the following dispatch cabled exclusively to the United Press.—Editor's note.)

By Mme. Chiang Kai-shek.

Copyright, 1938, by the United Press.

Hankow, July 5.—As the first anniversary of the invasion of China by the forces of Japan draws near I wish to express, on behalf of the women of China, our abiding appreciation of the heroic aid which has been rendered our people by those women of America and Europe who have cast their lot with us in our struggle to preserve our country.

The first year of this undeclared war has stirred the women of China to remarkable activity in increasing our national resistance, in helping wounded soldiers and civilians, and in caring for millions of homeless and often panic-stricken refugees.

But no picture of the part played by women in this war would be complete were I to omit reference to the heroic stand taken by many of our foreign women friends.

The women of the United States and other countries resident in China could justifiably have relinquished their posts and transferred their activities to places remote from the war zones.

They did not do this. Instead they preferred to stay with us in the midst of calamity. There has been no end to their bravery. They have stood by their guns literally as well as metaphorically.

"Will Never Forget."

Despite repeated requests from their governments that they leave the scenes of turmoil, despite threats from the invaders, despite the danger of epidemics among refugees crowding into their compounds (walled enclosures), despite menacing demands day and night for girls and women by Japanese soldiers, despite pointed bayonets in the hands of the lustful Nipponese, these foreign women have stood guard at the gates of their refuges with no other weapon than moral determination to protect those who have placed their lives in their care.

Shut off from practically all contacts with the outside world these foreign women have shared not only the anxieties and dangers of their charges but also, of course, what food they had available.

It is said that women of all the world are akin but this truth never has been demonstrated more clearly than during the past 12 months which have been a period of agony for the women of China who now, more than ever before, appreciate the bonds which bind them to the women of every other country.

We will never forget the self-sacrificing ministrations of these foreigners who refused to leave us in our hour of need. To these women, and the millions of women in the United States and other foreign lands who have made their work possible, I take this opportunity to express the undying gratitude of the women of China.

Zionists Protest 'Nazi Brutality' Toward Jews

Importance of Palestine as Reviving Factor Is Emphasized.

By the Associated Press.

Detroit, July 5.—The Zionist Organization of America closed its forty-first annual convention today with an attack upon Nazi "violence and brutality" toward Jews in Austria and Germany.

Voicing the protest of "Israel and all enlightened mankind," a resolution adopted by the convention charged the "Nazi regime flouts all conceptions of decency and civilized conduct" and expressed sympathy for the "victims of these shocking persecutions."

Dr. Solomon Goldman, of Chicago, newly elected president, told the convention Palestine has become the "most vital force in the economic rehabilitation of oppressed Jewries and the most potent factor in the revival of the creative genius of the Jewish people." He praised American Jews for a "conspicuous role in the rebirth of the Jewish national home."

"Zionism," Dr. Goldman said, "is not merely a political movement concerned with the rebuilding and rehabilitation of Eretz Israel for the sole purpose of adding to the family of nations another state and another nationality.

"True, this is the most significant part of the Zionist program, but the rehabilitation of Palestine is sacred to Jews because it means the reaction and the reshaping of Jewish personality."

The organization selected New York City for its 1939 convention.

most of their holdings thousands could finance their own exodus.

France, traditionally the home for political exiles of many hues and creeds, has been forced to cope with growing problems of international espionage, and as a consequence is not expected to open her frontiers further to homeless German wanderers.

One suggestion in French quarters was that the United States reserve for the refugees her entire immigration quotas for some years to come. (Total number of immigrants admitted to the United States in the year ending June 30, 1937, was 50,244.)

Might Open Palestine.

It was also said the Jewish Zionist organization would demand that Britain throw open Palestine to 50,000 Jews in 1938, and more in the future.

(On March 14 the British government announced an increase of paproximately 25 per cent in Jewish immigration quotas in Palestine, restricted prior to that time to 6,000 annually.)

But Britain, with continuous Arab-Jewish disorders on her hands, probably will not welcome the suggestion.

Japanese Soy Beans Cause Penang Riots

Sultry Senoritas Duel to Nudity for Caballero's Love

Mexico City, July 5 (U.P.).—A "duel" in which two girls punched and clawed each other for half an hour to win the love of a gay caballero known as "El Pichi," was reported today from Cuernavaca. Both were nude when the battle ended.

The object of their affections watched the battle and when the girls were too exhausted to continue he ordered them to embrace and promised to decide later.

Nelson B. Bell About The Showshops

The "War Bride" Is Restored To Films in "Shopworn Angel"

Margaret Sullavan, James Stewart and Walter Pidgeon Dip Into the Past in New Picture; a Party for Charlie; Norma Shearer Again; Notes of the Theater.

THE "war bride" has come back to the screen. Not "War Brides," Nazimova's famous play, even with all the alleged current frenzy for reissues of old films, but merely a single, isolated "war bride," in the handsome person of Margaret Sullavan.

BELL.

This slightly incongruous recrudescence of a familiar figure of 20 years or so ago—and I am referring now to the "war bride" idea and not Miss Sullavan—occurs in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production of "The Shopworn Angel," which was previewed by the gals and guys of the press yesterday afternoon and is to follow "Lord Jeff" on the screen at Loew's Palace whenever Freddie Bartholomew, Mickey Rooney, Terry Kilburn, et al., decides to move on.

In these more or less piping times of peace, "The Shopworn Angel" has no social or economic significance beyond its sheer power to entertain. It does that consistently by virtue of three fine performances contributed to its development by Miss Sullavan, James Stewart and Walter Pidgeon, who virtually wrap the plot up and divide it among them—Mr. Stewart as a rookie doughboy from the plains of Texas, Mr. Pidgeon as a rich Broadway playboy and show "angel"—although I suspect that he is not intended to be the angelic person of the title—and Miss Sullavan as a showgirl, whose finer sensibilities are slightly case-hardened, but become mellowed a bit by the ingenuous simplicity of the soldier she meets by accident and marries by sincere intent.

That is about all there is to the story—just the friendly rivalry between Mr. Stewart and Mr. Pidgeon and the awakening to the fine points of both by Miss Sullavan. That is enough. While some of the popular songs of the era of the Great War are woven into the fabric of the play and there is more or less backstage background in the atmospheric treatment of the tale, "The Shopworn Angel" is not a musical production in the accepted sense. It is a well-rounded and interesting triangle romance, with occasional musical trimmings, designed, one imagines, to sharpen that sturdy old saw about virtue being its own reward. Or maybe it is the one about the course of true love.

At any rate, with a rigid economy of material, Producer Joseph L. Mankiewicz and Director H. C. Potter have manufactured a more than passably diverting screen play out of a Dana Burnett story that appeared in the Saturday Evening Post under the title of "Private Pettigrew's Girl." They exercised conspicuous discretion in choosing their three leading players. For naturalness, fidelity to type and sincerity it would be difficult to improve upon the work of the Sullavan-Stewart-Pidgeon triumvirate.

• • • •

As signalized by her recent portrayal in "Three Comrades," and now again by her impersonation of the title part in "The Shopworn Angel," Margaret Sullavan has progressed a bit since her first appearance on a Washington stage years ago at the Belasco in a bit of farcical froth known under the title of "A Modern Virgin." Miss Sullavan, at that time, was a mere ingenue, but an extremely vivacious and charming one, who completely overshadowed her play. Now she is a mature and seasoned actress who imbues her roles with a depth and dramatic power they did not possess before. Contemplation of her later performance gives rise to only one serious regret. That is that her peculiarly throaty voice no longer expresses itself in quite the rich Southern accents that constituted one her chief charms in her first stellar vehicle. Miss Sullavan should come back to deep Virginia for a few months and brush up on her Dixie-isms. New York showgirls can come from Norfolk as well as anywhere else.

With its proverbial penchant for "send-offs," the Variety Club of Washington is planning a farewell smoker next Monday night for Charlie Kurtzman, who steps up from managership of Loew's Capitol Theater in this city to a post of greater responsibility with Loew's, Inc., in Pittsburgh.

Col. Angie Ratto, whose other titles include those of manager of Loew's Palace Theater and "Mayor of F street," is in charge of arrangements for the Monday night rout, which is announced to begin at 9 p. m., for the club membership and their male guests.

If this were next Tuesday morning, we would be tempted to say that "a pleasant time was had by all"—even including Charlie.

• • • •

Reverting briefly to "The Shopworn Angel," if you have been worrying about what chorus girls looked like back in 1917, a few scenes in this picture will help you out. If you can't wait for that, we will. The 1917 chorus girl, it appears, was a little heftier than her present-day sister. While she would not have completely fulfilled Billy "Beff Trust" Watson's notion of perfect feminine pulchritude, she wouldn't prove Mme. Albertina Rasch's ideal of modern streamlined perfection, either.

As I watched those line-girls gyrate across the stage yesterday afternoon, it occurred to me that that popular wartime song ought to have been called "It's a Long, Long Row of Hiperaries!"

All right, skip it.

• • • •

If it were not for a few very present and very tangible impediments, I would be tempted to join that sotto voce chorus that feels that Norma Shearer is a dubious selection for the role of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." But——

The recollection will not down that few deemed Miss Shearer ideally suited for the principal feminine roles in "Strange Interlude," "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and "Romeo and Juliet," yet Miss Shearer acquitted herself like a true artiste in all three—not to mention "Smilin' Through" and some of the lighter film plays in which she also demonstrated a fine talent and versatility.

The wide range of these parts seems to lend weight to the belief that Norma Shearer may be a greater actress than has been generally recognized, even in the light of such brilliant performances. There may be still another facet of her interpretative ability that has not as yet been revealed. So we shall not complain of the Selznick casting until that possibility has been disproved.

Nevertheless, the thought lingers on in the back of an indecisive skull that Tallulah Bankhead, Margaret Sullavan and Miriam Hopkins are pretty able actresses, too. And they all are native Southerners, not Canadians.

The summer theater really is booming in and around Washington. The latest report of a new venture to reach this desk is to the effect that when the Hilltop Theater opens tonight at Ellicott City, Md., with a performance of "The Vinegar Tree," the house will be completely sold out before the doors are swung back. The Hilltop's season is scheduled for at least six weeks, with a change of bill each week and performances beginning nightly at 8:50 p. m., Wednesday through Saturday. The house will operate on a four-day-per-week basis.

• • • •

They do their best to look dumb, these "tough eggs" of the cinema, but many of them are not. Take the three "mugs" with Sylvia Sidney and George Raft, in "You and Me," for instance.

Warren Hymer, usually cast as a symbol of mental underdevelopment, is a graduate of Yale and has a private weakness for Shakespeare, El Greco and Brahms. George E. Stone, the screen's "perfect rat," was reared to be a Polish gentleman—we can vouch for this from personal acquaintanceship—and would have been, save for the hideous consequences of a pogrom that overtook his family. Barton MacLane, another of the tough boys, attended Wesleyan University and was a gridiron hero there.

Acting is acting, and there is a good living in acting like a rowdy.

Mooney Moons Over Vagaries Of a Scripster

Famous Reporter Wishes to Shake Off Nemesis of Gangsterism.

By Frederick C. Othman

Hollywood, July 5 (U.P.).—Remember Martin Mooney, the New York newspaper reporter who went to jail a couple of years ago rather than break a confidence?

He came to Hollywood with appropriate fanfare on the part of the press agents as a movie script writer and soon thereafter Martin Mooney disappeared from the headlines. Only he didn't disappear from Hollywood.

We bumped into him today to learn that in the last 24 months he has written and sold to the movies exactly 27 stories at $1,000 each and up—mostly up. That's a record never before attained by any scenarist; it's made Mooney one of the town's most prosperous citizens, and it's left him distinctly unhappy.

"The movies seem to think I can't write anything except gangster yarns," he lamented in his white cell at Monogram Studios where currently he is doing "The Big House," a drama of a prison riot. "As soon as I put a couple of gunmen in a story, I sell it right off. No gunmen, no sale, and it's getting me down.

Must Have Gangsters.

"Right now I have in my desk a comedy entitled 'The Ghost Writer.' I used to be a ghost writer myself in New York. For four years I wrote the pamphlets for a stock broker and I know the racket inside out. My story really is a good one, and funny, but I've tried to sell it to every studio in town—and no go. They all take a look at it and say 'Mooney writes gangster pictures. So this one can't be any good.'

"The same thing holds good for another yarn I wrote called 'Public Speaker.' It's a dramatization of the poltitician who gets places because of his silver tongue on the radio. It's a good show, too. I know it is. But it doesn't contain any shooting, so nobody'll buy it. I doubt if they'll even read it."

Mooney, who has spent 20 years in and out of the newspaper business and whose hair is beginning to turn gray, fidgeted in his chair, looked at the blank wall in front of him, and indicated that, money or not, he may desert Hollywood for another session of news reporting.

Writing by the Clock.

"The trouble," he said, "is that they give you an office and a typewriter and a secretary. Then they tell you to sit in it from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and turn out dramas with a capital 'D.' Maybe you don't feel like writing, but you write anyway. Maybe you haven't anything to write, but you write just the same.

"So for these gangster pictures of mine, I read the newspapers.

"When I come across a good robbery, or a murder, or something with an unusual twist, I just turn it into a movie. That's all there is to it. For instance, I read not so long ago about the operations of a gang of airplane thieves. So I've just written and sold a yarn about hot planes. It was an easy sale, because it had plenty of shooting."

Observed Newspaper Ethics.

When Mooney spent 30 days in the Tombs because he wouldn't tell a grand jury where he got his information for a series of dispatches about New York racketeering, he found himself in a spot more pleasant than otherwise.

"I was deluged with offers to talk on the radio and go into vaudeville and whatnot. By the time I got out I was offered contracts calling for $103,000 in 14 weeks. That was a lot of money. It was more than I ever dreamed I might have.

"It was a terrific temptation to take it. But I decided that if I capitalized on the fact that I'd done what any newspaperman would do, Mooney would be nothing but a heel. I didn't want to be that, so I kissed off that $103,000. It was a tough decision to make."

Fanny Brice is all "burned up" at her new home.

While moving into her new Holmby Hills house, several days ago, she acquired a severe case of sunburn; a gas connection started a small blaze in the kitchen; 20 new plants wilted under a strong sunlight, and a chemical preparation that was guaranteed to give her lawn new life burnt the grass to a crisp.

However, in spite of all her difficulties, the comedienne says she is supremely happy to be settled in her first real home after 30 years in the show business.

In HOLLYWOOD With Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Calif., July 5.—Even though Hollywood seems to have forgotten Richard Barthelmess, his college, Trinity, in Hartford, Conn., hasn't. And, after 20 years, it honors him with a degree for distinguished service—and he never graduated.

HEDDA HOPPER

"Tropic Holiday" shows the lighter, fun-loving side of Mexico. Not a gun in sight. I can't remember witnessing a funnier scene than Martha Raye throwing the bull, which ends with Bob Burns riding it. The music was really lovely and comehitherish. The dresses quaint and jewelry different.

"Tropic Holiday" got me—so much so that I'm off to Ensenada for the week-end to find out if Mexico is really like that. Hope the moon, music, sea and bulls will be waiting for me. I'm taking the mood with me.

Speaking of horses—we weren't, but are—Louis Leighton, producer of "Test Pilot," won the last race at Santa Anita. He was so surprised and delighted that he bought the mare. And has set her down in a field of clover. Move over, I'm coming, too.

How does Lucy do it? Mrs. Leigh Battson is a grandmother, yet looks 25.

Pete Smith decided to take advantage of the Shriner's Convention by making a new short called "Stormy Weather."

Every studio in town is planning a skating picture since the ice ballet has become the rage. Don't they know they'll kill off the demand if they begin selling them in mass production like hot dogs?

Fox still gets calls from out of town wanting to know how they can get one of Simone Simon's gold keys.

After two years of happy marriage, Lloyd Bacon is taking his wife and baby on a honeymoon.

You can't get terribly excited about hero Cary Grant wanting a holiday, when there are 12,000,000 people taking an enforced one which they don't want. But "Holiday" is a beautifully done picture in mounting, direction and acting. It has created a new demand for Lew Ayres. There isn't enough of Eddie Horton and Jean Dixon.

The old saying, "One man's meat is another man's poison," is certainly true of Technicolor. Since they switched to that from black and white for "Sweethearts," they've discovered Nelson Eddy's blonde hair and face photograph like a million dollars, while Jeannette MacDonald's crowning glory had to be lightened—and she's not singing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

'And, for your information, Helen Blazes, even though my eyes look like two burnt holes in a blanket, my poor face has never been rejuvenated.

World Travel Is Increased By Film Fare

Add to the screen's influence the fact that travel to foreign lands has increased in the last year, notably to the foreign countries that have been used as movie backgrounds.

Travel agents are unanimous in agreeing that tourists in growing numbers are taking their tips from the movies. They follow the films around the world.

This was first demonstrated well over a year ago when travel to Hawaii set new records after the success of Bing Crosby's "Waikiki Wedding, which had an island background.

Sun Valley, Idaho, has become the premiere American ski resort as a result of the recent Claudette Colbert picture, "I Met Him in Paris," which was filmed there.

Fully aware now of this growing trend, travel experts predict a big tourist season for Mexico when the new Paramount comedy, "Tropic Holiday," reaches the screens. This is a comedy with Bob Burns, Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland and others, and is being produced by Arthur Hornblow, jr., who made "Waikiki Wedding."

Hornblow is consciously trying to duplicate the Hawaiian success by giving "Tropic Holiday" an equally different and romantic background Mexico. Authentic scenes were pho—the lush semi-tropics of southern tographed in Mexico for the picture and Hornblow is counting on this background to reveal to the world the beauties of this little-known land.

D. Fairbanks, Jr., Is in 'Gunga Din'

Douglas Fairbanks, jr., has joined Cary Grant and Victor McLaglen in a triple-star cast of RKO Radio's "Gunga Din," and Joan Fontaine has been assigned the leading feminine part, according to announcement by Executive Producer Pandro S. Berman.

Sam Jaffe will play the title role in the new picture, considered one of the biggest films attempted by RKO in recent years. With a shooting schedule of 95 days. Director George Stevens will send "Gunga Din" before cameras this week.

Star's Collection Is Boon to Movie

Franciska Gaal's valuable collection of native Balkan costumes and tiny dolls recently solved a major costume problem at Paramount.

The costumes and dolls will be used as models for costumes in "Paris Honeymoon," in which she is co-starred with Bing Crosby. Discovery of the fact that the petite Hungarian star had the collection eliminated a tremendous amount of research.

The costumes are all hand embroidered and are valued at several hundred dollars. The star collected them as art object and samples of Balkan handicraft while she was starring in European stage and screen productions.

Hollywood Is Haunt for Men Of Adventure

Hollywood, land of opportunity for men of reckless and resourceful natures, has become a mecca for soldiers of fortune.

They come from foreign wars and foreign legions, from old monarchies and the wreckage of revolutions, from long odysseys and strange adventures. Hollywood finds men of their talents and temperaments useful.

Many of them become stunt men. Others capitalize upon their experiences by getting jobs as technical advisers on war, sea or aviation films. Still others turn to the more artistic sides of the movie business and become actors, directors, or scenarists.

Fritz Lang, producer-director of "You and Me," which stars George Raft and Sylvia Sidney, is one of the last group. An Austrian army officer during the World War, he was wounded three times, decorated four times. Demobilized, he became a world traveler, traded in the South Seas, returned to Europe and entered the movies as a writer. His production of the continental film, "M," made him famous and Hollywood sent for him.

William Wellman, who will produce and direct "Men With Wings," and LeRoy Prinz, dance director, were fliers with the Lafayette Escadrille during the war.

Merger Issue Is Resurrected By Roosevelt promising the convention would be "wide open." Van Nuys had threatened to run as an independent, a threat that carried with it danger of a split in Democratic ranks that might well have elected the Republican candidate.

Roosevelt

The Capital noted other political developments, meanwhile, as the President prepared to depart on his transcontinental trip that is expected to find him speaking "kind words" for several "liberals" engaged in hot campaign battles.

The Federal Communications Commission adopted for the first time a set of rules to govern political radio broadcasting, designed, it said, to provide "fair treatment to all."

Quips About Tydings.

Senator Logan (Democrat), of Kentucky, commenting on reports that Vice President Garner had told friends he would not seek a third term, said he felt certain that neither President Roosevelt nor Garner would seek re-election. He said, however, that if Garner should be a Presidential candidate "he would be mighty hard to beat."

Senator Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, told the Senate Campaign Expenditures Investigating Committee that "an enormous number of unneeded people" were added to the State pay roll prior to the recent Republican primary in which he defeated Gov. William Langer, also seeking the Senate nomination. He will assemble data on which the committee will determine whether an investigation will be conducted.

Asked at his press conference what he thought of the "tidings from Indiana," Mr. Roosevelt replied he had thought Tydings was from Maryland. Senator Tydings, opponent of many Administration measures, is being opposed in the Free State by Representative David J. Lewis, who is running as a New Dealer.

Following laughter, the President replied to further questions that he didn't know anything about the Indiana situation.

Asked how, "as head of the Democratic party," he liked the new development and the prospect of Van Nuys again being the Democratic Senate nominee, he said that an astrologer would have to be consulted.

He referred to astrology again when he was told Senator Johnson, of Colorado, had indorsed his colleague, Adams, because the White House favored Adams. Mr. Roosevelt insisted that he had taken no part in the Colorado contest, has expressed no opinion and given the situation no consideration.

Adams Has Ickes Letter.

Adams is being opposed by Judge Benjamin Hilliard, of the State Supreme Court, who announced his candidacy after a call at the White House. On the other hand, Adams is said to have a letter of praise from Secretary of the Interior Ickes which might be of use politically.

There has been considerable speculation on whether Mr. Roosevelt would indicate any preference in the Colorado race when he visits that State next week.

The political broadcasting rules made public by Chairman Frank R. McNinch, of the FCC, provide that no station shall be required to permit use of its facilities by any candidate, but if it permits use by one it must give equal opportunity to all candidates for the same office, "provided that such licensee shall have no power of censorship over the material broadcast by any such candidate."

"Discrimination" Barred.

The same rates, if any, shall be charged all candidates for the same office, and there shall be no "discrimination in charges, practices, regulation or facilities or services for or in connection with service rendered pursuant to these rules."

In regard to speculation on Vice President Garner's political intentions, Senator Burke (Democrat), of Nebraska, joined Logan in doubt that the Texan would seek another term, but believed Garner would be in a "receptive mood" with regard to the Presidential nomination.

Garner is reported to have been receiving hundreds of letters weekly urging him to seek the Presidency.

Appointments Promised.

Garner has been strongly against some of the White House undertakings, it is known, though he never publicly has opposed the President.

Reporters eager for news of some of the important appointments Mr. Roosevelt soon must make were assured that he was working overtime on the selections and some would be announced before he starts his trip.

High on the list of positions to be filled is that of administrator of the new wage-hour law. Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and a C. I. O. leader, made a special call on the President yesterday to urge immediate appointment of the administrator.

An ambassador to Russia, members of the New Civil Aeronautics Board, a director of TVA and a number of judges also remain to be selected.

Asked whether he would appoint Jerome Frank, now a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission, to one of the judgeships, Mr. Roosevelt replied he had a stack of recommendations a foot high for that and other judicial positions.

Power Group Installs C. W. Jones President

The Washington chapter of the National Association of Power Engineers last night installed Charles W. Jones as president. Their meeting was held at the Raleigh Hotel.

Other officers installed were J. L. Bowsher, vice president; William C. Strickler, recording secretary; F. R. McQueenie, financial secretary; W. J. Robinson, treasurer; J. J. Huddle, conductor and W. C. Rawlinson, doorkeeper.

South 'Nation's No. 1 Problem,' Roosevelt Informs Fact Parley

ural resources and advantages but poor in ownership of the money and credit necessary for their development and exchange.

They said a rich physical heritage "has been squandered." And they declared Southern natural resources are being exploited by absentee ownership, disuse of the region's potentialities, and wasteful use by the Southern people of their own natural endowments.

Highlights of official reports laid before conferees as they began drafting their own "factual" statement of Southern problems:

Farmer has to sell his products in an unprotected market and buy at artificially high prices.

High freight rate costs to the Southern manufacturer to reach more than half of the Nation's market.

Lack of adequate capital in the South to support its farmers' needs or that of its industries.

Ownership and control of Southern industries are largely outside the South.

Average Southern farmer does not earn enough from his farm to feed, clothe and school his children decently.

Low income figures in the South have definite relationship to high sickness and death figures.

Higher education lagging; total funds available for higher institutions less than combined endowments of Yale and Harvard.

The President, in his message to the conferees, touched on some of the problems amplified in reports Mellett said were prepared by Southern officials within the Government departments.

Discussion of the wage-hour law was not listed in the original 17-point agenda, but it was added late yesterday as an eighteenth point when its relationship to the South was aired in the conference.

To Be "Factual."

The director of the National Emergency Council said the conference may be two weks in drafting a report of its own to the President, Congress and the general public. He said it will be "factual," but may contain some recommendations. Mellett said "Congress, the people of the United States and the President will determine what is to be done."

Mellett said that if "this turns out to be a successful undertaking, the same thing will be tried in other sections."

The President said the purpose was to "obtain a statement—or perhaps I should say a restatement as of today—of the economic conditions of the South."

Among the Southern problems that must be studied in order to get "a clear perspective of the task," the President listed wasted or neglected resources of land and water, abuses suffered by the soil, need for cheap fertilizer and cheap power, population problems, women and child labor, absentee ownership of capital resources, labor and employment, farm ownership and farm tenantry, farm income, taxation, education, housing and health.

These points all were covered in the preliminary Government reports. Mellett said some changes were being made in the reports by Southern leaders, but they were in general "agreement" with the official analyses.

With over half of the Nation's farmers, with two-thirds of all the land in America receiving 40 inches rainfall or better, and with nearly half the land on which crops grow for six months or more without danger of frost, the report said Southern farmers have one-fifth of the Nation's farm implements and lacks other machinery for "converting its potentialities into riches."

The report said credit needed for development of small industries that naturally belong in the South have been restricted by legal requirements and National regulations. It declared the great utility holding companies are directed and managed by outside interests, and the same also is true of the South's heavy industries, iron and steel, bauxite and sulphur, chemicals, the coking industries and many of the textile plants.

The report on taxable wealth said more than half of those in the rural south in 1936 made incomes of less than $765.

Those Present.

Present at the conference were Dr. B. F. Ashe, president, University of Miami; Gov. Carl Bailey of Arkansas; President W. B. Bizzell, State University, Norman, Okla.; L. O. Crosby, lumberman, Picayune, Miss.; Judge Blanton Fortson, of the county court, Athens, Ga.; President Frank Graham, University of North Carolina; James Hammond, attorney, Columbia, S. C.; President John C. Persons, First National Bank, Birmingham; Prof. Charles W. Pipkin, Louisiana State University; President J. H. Reynolds, Hendricks College, Conway, Ark.; S. L. Smith, Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.; Vice President J. Smith, Aviation Co., Dallas, Tex.

Also Alexander Speer, utility executive, Alexandria, Va.; Joseph G. Tillman, Statesboro, Ga.; J. Skottowe Wannamaker, president of American Cotton Association, St. Matthews, S. C.; Carl White, labor publication editor, Port Arthur, Tex.; Lucy Mason, representative of the Committee for Industrial Organization, Atlanta, Ga.; Comptroller Leroy Hodges of the Commonwealth of Virginia; Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal; President P. H. Callahan, Louisville Paint & Varnish Co.; Federal Judge Fred M. Vinson, of the District of Columbia, and H. L. Mitchell, of the Southern Tenant Farmers Union, Memphis, Tenn.

An Old Hatchet Buried.

Time was when Thomas Jefferson and all he stood for were looked upon with the same measure of dislike and suspicion by dyed-in-the-wool Republicans that dyed-in-the-wool Democrats manifested toward the shade of Alexander Hamilton.

The feud that had begun in Washington's Cabinet between Jefferson and Hamilton was continued for more than a century by their spiritual and political descendants. As late as 1928 Claude Bowers devoted almost his entire keynote speech at the Houston convention of the Democratic Party to glorifying Jefferson and denouncing the man who had been Jefferson's greatest rival. On the other hand, Republican orators rarely failed to render deep obeisance to the memory of Hamilton.

New times, new heroes. At Charlottesville, Va., on July 4, Republicans and Democrats alike paid their warm respects to Jefferson. Clearly the spirit of the Gettysburg celebration of the same day had penetrated to the Institute of Public Affairs. And it was a particularly notable circumstance that the chief Republican spokesman who praised the Sage of Monticello was a man named Hamilton. Indeed, the chairman of the Republican National Committee not only acclaimed Jefferson but even went so far as to claim him as the spiritual father of the Republican Party. And the same claim was made on behalf of the Democrats by Senator Claude Pepper of Florida.

Thus Jefferson emerges as the presumed fountainhead of American politics. And since he was a voluminous writer as well as a man of action whose deeds were sometimes based on pragmatic rather than doctrinaire considerations, both Mr. Hamilton and Senator Pepper can cite fitting texts from the founding father and third President to prove their points.

But the most curious aspect of this general acclaim of Jefferson is that it comes at a time when a strong central government, such as Hamilton always favored, is in the saddle.

Warning To Japan.

The occupation by France of the Paracel Islands in the South China Sea is obviously designed to forestall or neutralize threatened Japanese penetration of an area close to vital French interests. The move thus reflects a sharp heightening of tensions in a corner of the Far East hitherto relatively free of dangerous international rivalries.

As long as the Japanese aggressions on the Asiatic mainland were limited to Manchuria and North China, neither France nor Great Britain showed any disposition to infere, however ristasteful the development might be to them. And not even the spread of the present undeclared war to Shanghai and the Yangtze Valley has stirred these powers out of their seeming lethargy. Since 1931 they, like the United States, have pursued a wholly defensive policy in the Far East.

But the further south Japan has penetrated in China the nearer she has come to endangering French and British interests which those powers are unprepared to sacrifice without a struggle. Some months ago the Japanese occupied Amoy. Last week saw the capture of Swatow, next to Canton the most southerly of China's major ports. The seizure of Hainan, which lies off the coast of Kwantung Province and is separated from the mainland by a relatively narrow channel, is also threatened. And it is no secret that the Japanese navy some time ago began to cast covetous eyes on the Paracel Islands.

It was recognized in Paris and London that the occupation of Hainan by Japan would bring the island empire within striking distance of important French and British interests. Once master of Hainan, Japan would be in a position not only to threaten French Indo-China but also to dominate one of the principal sea lanes connecting the British colony of Hongkong with the great British naval base at Singapore.

To prevent such a development the French and British governments recently warned Tokyo that any "complications" with respect to Hainan would find those two powers acting in concert. Now France has gone a step further. The occupation of Tempest, Thitu and the other islands of the Paracel group constitutes a notice to Japan that the great European democracies are not going to stop with verbal warnings alone but are prepared to take the necessary measures to defend their interests in southeastern Asia.

Unimportant economically, the Paracel Islands can be useful as seaplane bases. Under the circumstances, Japan may think twice before carrying out her intentions of taking Hainan.

The NLRB's Record.

The National Labor Relations Board was created by Congress three years ago. For many months thereafter it was unable to function effectively as a result of numerous suits brought to enjoin its proceedings. Since April, 1937, however, when the Wagner act was upheld by the Supreme Court, it has disposed of an impressively large number of cases.

In an official survey of its activities, which constitutes an indirect reply to critics, the NLRB states that it has handled 14,832 cases since the fall of 1935, 85 per cent of which post-date the Supreme Court decision. In 55 per cent of the cases closed, involving 1,247,878 workers, settlements were reached by voluntary agreement between employers and employes. Most of the remaining cases were either dismissed or withdrawn, leaving only 5 per cent for formal hearing and eventual court review.

In refutation of the widely held belief that the NLRB has issued numerous orders that have brought it into conflict with the law, it is noted that the Supreme Court has upheld the board in all the cases that have come before it to date. Furthermore, it has won 30 out of 38 cases decided by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Undoubtedly this record of achievement is a pertinent reply to charges that the NLRB has exceeded its legal authority by issuing arbitrary decrees in disregard of the rights of employers. Nevertheless, victories in court offer no convincing defense against criticism that the law itself is defective.

The Wagner act not only permits but makes it necessary for the NLRB to exercise extensive discretionary powers in setting up the machinery of collective bargaining. For example, the board alone has responsibility for determining whether the unit for collective bargaining should be "the employer unit, craft unit, plant unit, or subdivisions thereof." In reaching such decisions administrative bias in favor of craft or industrial unionism may consciously or without intention influence selection. Whether rightly or wrongly, hostility to the NLRB has been increased by a suspicion that the C. I. O. industrial type of unionism is preferred.

Dissatisfaction is also aroused by the failure of the law specifically to empower employers to appeal to the NLRB to investigate controversies over employe representation or to conduct elections. Although the law does not forbid such requests, board regulations restrict petitions to employes or representatives of labor organizations. Moreover,, the only unfair practices which the NLRB is empowered to forbid are those perpetrated by employers. Because of this one-sided emphasis upon the protection of employes against employers, the latter feel that they are not being given a square deal. Even if the courts find that they are adequately protected against arbitrary administrative rulings, the suspicion of bias persists.

Demands for amendments to the Wagner act to enable the NLRB to curb unfair employe practices and give employers the right to request investigations into matters that vitally concern them will not be silenced by simply listing that agency's legal victories or rehearsing its administrative achievements. The need for revision indeed has been emphasized by the efforts of John L. Lewis to force last-minute passage of amendments to the Walsh-Healey act that would have deprived any firm defying an NLRB order of the privilege of doing business with the Government. Offending firms would in fact have been placed on a "blacklist" in advance of court tests of the validity of the order.

Notwithstanding the objections of labor leaders as well as the opposition of two members of the NLRB itself to plan for "mutualizing" the act, there is widespread recognition of its defects. The President's decision to send a commission to England to study the working of the British counterpart of the Wagner act is an indirect acknowledgment that our mechanism for collective bargaining needs overhauling. Despite denials that plans for amending the Wagner act are under consideration, the report of the commission cannot fail to throw some light on that controversial issue.

Changing The Airport Picture.

When Congress recently discussed the desirability of spending several million dollars on an airport at Camp Springs it seemed to be oblivious of the fact that a 200-acre landing field is being developed at nearby Hybla Valley. That terminal will soon make a bid for the patronage of commercial planes serving Washington. Before Congress meets again this development may effect some changes in the local airport situation.

Hybla Valley is three or four miles south of Alexandria. When the proposed bypass around Alexandria on Route No. 1 is constructed, however, it will be relatively accessible to Washington. Indeed, the distance appears to be about the same as that from the downtown area to Camp Springs. And in this case the necessary connecting highways are already in use, with the exception of new links designed to facilitate through traffic.

It remains to be seen whether the Hybla Valley airport will be able to attract the patronage of any of the transport air lines. It has its defects as well as its disadvantages. The surrounding low hills which make it ideal for lighter-than-air craft detract from its value as a terminal for airplanes. Experience has already proved, however, that no perfect site readily accessible to Washington is available. Should the Hybla Valley site be developed in accord with announced plans, it may have an important bearing upon the future attitude of Congress toward Camp Springs.

No doubt the city will need two major airports in the future. But careful planning should prevent location of both of them in outlying areas. If the sponsors of the development in Hybla Valley succeed in making it a first-class airport, there will be a strong incentive for Congress to select a closer site when it finally decides to develop a national terminal to serve the Capital City.

Bad News For "Yes" Men.

In some respects the about-face of the Democratic machine in Indiana with respect to Senator Van Nuys' candidacy for renomination may be even more significant than Senator Gillette's victory in the Iowa primaries. Senator Van Nuys has been a more consistent and more outspoken "rebel" than Senator Gillette. He is a good illustration of the "yes, but" type of legislator denounced in the President's recent radio address. Yet he is now welcomed back into the fold by the wery politicians who had previously closed the door to him.

Coming so soon after the President's appeal for the nomination of "liberal" candidates, this resort to expediency is particularly striking. The desire of Gov. Townsend and of the President to discipline Mr. Van Nuys can scarcely be doubted. Ever since he became one of the outstanding leaders of the fight against the Administration's Supreme Court bill the Indiana Senator has been marked as the No. 1 victim of the purge. The Hoosier State's convention method of selecting candidates seemed to offer a convenient means of eliminating him. It is not likely that the Indiana machine would have stayed its hand without some compelling reason.

Gov. Townsend's current invitation to Senator Van Nuys to seek the Senatorial nomination in a "wide-open convention" is obviously an attempt to avoid a major split in the Democratic Party of that State. When the Senator clung to his intention of running as an independent, if the nomination were denied him, advocates of the purge began to realize that they were creating an excellent opportunity for the Republicans. As Mark Sullivan has pointed out, moreover, the split might have extended far beyond Indiana, because leaders of the anti-court bill fight were ready to go to Mr. Van Nuys' assistance.

Such a setback for the purge movement on the eve of the President's transcontinental tour may soften the tone of his speeches. The President has come face to face with the fact that if he presses his move to substitute "yes" men for independent legislators, he will divide the Democratic Party into hostile camps. The reaction of Senators to his recent address should have been sufficient to point the dangers of the course he had chosen. The Indiana situation seems to leave no doubt as to the strategic position which the anti-court bill Senators occupy.

The President has every right to press for acceptance of his views. Indeed, any Chief Executive who failed to exercise this right would miss the great opportunities for constructive leadership which the Presidency offers. But there is a wide difference between the advocacy of principles and policies and attempts to defeat individuals of the party to which he belongs because they refuse to accept measures originating in the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt has given the impression that he measures party loyalty by the attitude of Democrats toward his own views. That belief is certain to foster dissension in the party ranks and to hamper the operation of our political system in accord with the democratic tradition. If that thesis is to be further stressed in the forthcoming tour, it can only weaken the hand of the President in dealing with his own party. If, on the other hand, the President's attitude has not been fully understood, his Western tour will give him an excellent opportunity to set the matter straight.

Defense Of The Press.

From the Montgomery Advertiser.

When an editor of an American daily newspaper defends the press of this country, that is seldom news. But when the editor of a journal of opinion that is one of the sharp critics of the daily press defends the newspapers, that is news.

Mr. Bruce Bliven, editor of the New Republic, admitted last week that the American press is still doing "a remarkably good job" despite the many pressures upon it.

There is less direct censorship by advertisers than is commonly supposed, the famous liberal editor said. The greatest degree of censorship, he added, was caused by writers and editors who "take the line of least resistance by dodging the troublesome issue" and the newspaper audience which "won't read you unless it is sure in advance that you will agree with its own prejudices."

Despite the manifold weaknesses in the American press, it can be said without fear of contradiction that the newspapers of this country, on the whole, are the freest and the best in the entire world. They reflect pretty accurately the demands of the community they profess to serve. And if they do not do their jobs better it is because the public does not want anything better or does not make its desire for a better paper felt.

Northeast Street Cars.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For many years there has been a marked propensity on the part of Federal and District officials to retard development of the metropolitan section of northeast Washington, the territory south of the railroad right of way to East Capitol street and eastward from North Capitol street to the Eastern Branch.

No more glaring evidence of this attitude is possible than the action of the Public Utilities Commission in ordering discontinuance of street car service to Eighth and F streets northeast. This is the last straw.

No matter how things have gone against us heretofore, we have made allowance for pressure from outside sources and endeavored to be generously tactful and long-suffering in the hope that sooner or later the light of reason would penetrate the commission's understanding.

The evidence against removal of this particular street car service was in such complete agreement, and so overwhelming, that our counsel thought it unwise to prolong the hearing by calling all of his witnesses. The case for the company was a flop. We had every reason to believe, from the actions of the members of the commission, that they were going to play the game on the level. But evidently they are not allowed to do it.

Practically every move the Public Utilities Commission has made since the merger has been a throwdown for the public. Their inability to grasp the local transit situation has helped tangle it into a knot impossible to unravel, causing unjustifiable raises in fare, interference with the service; and, by loading up the non-paying bus enterprise, then allowing the cream of the quartet to get away, left the outraged stockholders holding the bag while the favored few got the ducats.

We should have had enough punishment when this self-same commission hamstrung the people's counsel, making it impossible for us to have the representation to which we were entitled. Getting away with that foul job emboldened them, so they now try kicking us while we are down.

While Congress was making its spectacular fight against the holding companies throughout the Nation a year or two back, the one that operated in the shadow of the Nation's Capitol continued merrily on its way by grace of our Public Utilities Commission, and apparently intends holding on to its copper-riveted cinch.

We've learned a bitter lesson. Our consideration was construed as fear. Our confidence in the present setup has been destroyed. We must have our street cars on F street as they are at this writing. We are not going to give up the fight.

A Plea For Realism In Teaching.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of July 3 on "The Teachers' Role" is quite suggestive. There should be no propaganda at any time in schools or newspapers. You are quite right in opposing possible abuses that may occur in our schools.

My wish is that the truth shall be taught by all teachers who have to do with historical, economic and social matters. If our rising generation becomes aware of the blunders and abuses of the politicians of the past we may save democracy, now in such grave danger all over our Western world—England, France and even the United States. Two examples may be cited.

Washington and nearly all his coworkers, 1783 to 1797, favored free trade. But in order to get some Federal income to pay the debts due to so many people who had loaned their savings to the cause for which Washington fought seven years, they agreed in 1789 to a tariff of 8 per cent. This was the average rate. It increased exports from $6,000,000 to $60,000,000 and imports to $70,000,000. This enabled the new government to meet its obligations, though it caused too much speculation. A low tariff, say not above 20 per cent, would increase prosperity, though perhaps not in proportion to that of 1790 to 1810.

But what have minorities done since 1816, the end of the second war with England? They have ignored vast majorities in elections, except for a short time after 1844, also ignored Jackson's, Lincoln's, Cleveland's and Woodrow Wilson's urges to lower tariffs to something like 20 per cent on imports, also ignored the clause of the Constitution which was basic to the Union of the Thirteen States: Control of interstate commerce by the Federal Union. There was hardly anything which did more to lose us the $11,000,000,000 which our country had loaned during the Great War and which hastened the most terrible depression which our people have suffered.

Should not teachers of history and economics present the truth about all this, give the names of leaders who did such things and enable the rising generation to realize at least one major cause of the world's troubles? They must not be partisan, but simply give the facts as to majority and minority benefits.

One other illustration. The majority of statesmen of 1789 to 1861 favored gradual abolition of slavery. There was a clause in the Constitution which authorized Congress to abolish the importation of Negroes. President Jefferson, Albert Gallatin and other Cabinet members sought to enact a law in 1806 which would bring on gradual abolition. As all of us know, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington and George Mason had urged gradual abolition; nor was there any doubt as to the attitude of the great majority of the people. Jefferson had won the election of 1804 with large majorities in every State but two, and in 1806 his Congress had only 16 to 20 anti-Jefferson members. Yet Nathaniel Macon, a "friend" of Jefferson, and John Randolph, a distant kinsman, united low-country Southerners in Congress with commercial representatives from New England and defeated the President.

Between 1816 and 1829 Jefferson, with purely democratic ideals, lent his influence to the Virginia majority which wished to bring about gradual abolition; the Washington-Mason urge. There was an election of a Constitutional amendment convention in Virginia three years after Jefferson's death. It gave a two-thirds vote for the convention. Maryland, Kentucky, North Carolina and Tennessee awaiting the result with the idea that they would also begin gradual abolition. Jefferson said many times: We shall have a civil war if we do not abolish slavery.

What happened? John Marshall, James Madison and James Monroe united to defeat the most popular President the country had ever had. They did this in spite of instructions of delegates in most positive language. Monroe resigned and went home to Loudoun County, where the people had voted for gradual abolition. The greatest editor in all the South, who had supported Jefferson's philosophy nearly 30 years, accepted a gift of thousands of dollars and changed the attitude of his paper, two-thirds of the other papers of the South taking the same position. The Virginia convention of 1829 refused to do what the people had elected it to do; and Southern anti-slavery men moved North to begin a more radical move than gradual abolition.

Was this democracy? The failure of 1829 led to civil war and that led to the rise of another minority control which Lincoln did all he could in the last month of his life to prevent. These are two outstanding illustrations of minority domination. It is possible that the majority may at times be wrong, but not as often as minorities. Would it not be well for all teachers to present the facts without bias? Would not this help the rising generation to understand problems well enough to vote intelligently?

War and Peace.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As one connected with a peace organization whose object is "to promote the establishment of international relations on the basis of law and justice," I should like to answer today's letter of Mr. Barefoot and others who are advocating war as an instrument of national policy.

Those who advocate peaceful, conciliatory means as the alternative to war in the settlement of international quarrels, are not all motivated by an emotional reaction to the horrors of war. Under a system of law and order neither nations nor individuals can properly conduct themselves according to their emotional reactions. Reason based on knowledge is the basis for civilized conduct, and that is exactly the principle which guides most of the so-called pacifists. The principles of foreign relations which they advocate have been arrived at by a close study of the history of international relations and of all the facts surrounding international events of every magnitude.

Mr. Barefoot says that "These cringing pacifists helped Mussolini to conquer Ethiopia" because they prevented the United States from joining the League of Nations in applying sanctions to Italy. The general public is not aware, in the first place, of the various agreements between Great Britain, France and Italy, regarding spheres of influence and concessions in Ethiopia, dating from the beginning of the century down to 1935. It is not aware that in 1915 Italy was promised territorial gains for its colonies bordering on Ethiopia in consideration for its help to Great Britain and France during the World War. It has not been informed of the barbaric conditions that existed in Ethopia, which was nevertheless admitted into the League of Nations with the approval of France, Great Britain and Italy. All these facts and more can be found in the documents of the League of Nations.

As to the application of sanctions against Italy, the United States had a commercial treaty with that country which would have been flagrantly violated had embargoes been placed on any materials but arms and ammunition. Moreover, the most essential embargo in both the Italo-Ethiopian war and the Sino-Japanese war was the embargo on oil. The oil embargo has not been applied in either case for the simple reason that too many British and American businessmen are interested, and most substantially interested, in selling oil to whoever will buy.

And speaking of oil brings us to China and Japan. Regardless of the fact that war exists between these two countries, the provisions of the neutrality act have not been invoked. Scrap iron is being sold to Japan in large quantities, and oil to China. Why are there no boycotts or embargoes against Japan? Because of the great business stakes of this country in Japan. A boycott of Japanese silk would close up our hosiery mills, just to give one example. Oil appears to be the most valuable single commodity essential to modern warfare. That is why it is being shipped to warring countries, and that is why, in the course of convoying oil tankers in China, the Panay was bombed and sunk.

Regarding the situation in China, the general public seems to be unaware of the fact that just prior to the outbreak of the hostilities there Gen. Chiang Kai-shek was kidnaped and held by the head of the Communist army in China, and released only upon certain conditions, one of which seems to be that of making war upon Japan, for the events leading to it followed almost immediately after his release.

The most important question is, Shall we, by making war to carry out our policies of international relations in the affairs of other nations, who in no way interfere with us, violate our own obligation renouncing war as an instrument of national policy, and thereby become a treaty violator and a breaker of the peace?

Andrew.

HE CAME from the pond next door, and we called him Andrew. The first time we noticed him he was no longer than my little finger, but already something of an Alger-toad. He was going places. I think he must have been hatched with a good degree of that magnificent poise we so admired. He looked at us with neither fright nor curiosity. Probably he put me down, correctly, as a large harmless animal, and the two children on their haunches must have looked rather toad-like.

At any rate, he was vastly different from his small cousins, the frogs next door. They sat through the warm hours sunning themselves on lily pads and rocks bordering the pool, occasionally throwing off their placidity with startling abruptness to plunge into the water. But Andrew was a born adventurer, and the fruits of his wanderings gave him his start in life.

He soon discovered that mud daubers could be found under the drip of the faucet for the garden hose, and that large, juicy mosquitoes lurked in the cool green depths of the ageratum bed.

We regarded him with respect and considered him a very worthwhile asset to our garden. I looked forward to the day when, instead of slaping mosquitoes or swatting flies, I could simply call, "Here Andrew! Here, Toady, Toady!" and up would hop our little friend to dispose of the pests after his own fashion.

My husband made him a fine house of a flower pot turned on its side, lined with mud and reinforced with stones. It faced the drip where the wasps were thickest—an excellent situation, convenient to business, so to speak. With an amazing show of intelligence, Andrew adopted his new home immediately.

For a week, spring housecleaning kept me indoors, so Andrew thrived and grew away from my observation. Then one day I met him under the faucet, and said to myself, "Can this be Andrew?" I had previsely the same feeling one does upon going home to find the infants one left behind grown into towering young graduates.

That period, I believe, must have been the peak of Andrew's career. He was alert and trim, with gold-rimmed jet eyes eagerly and voraciously fixed upon his unwary prey. He could hardly be called venomous, but he answered to the rest of Shakespeare's description, for indeed he wore a precious jewel in his head.

Those unblinking, metallic eyes were fascinating, and there was something terrible about his absolute stillness and his sudden coming to life. It was as if a moss-covered gray stone had darted with incredible speed upon a luckless wasp, then settled into stillness again, with only the rippling of the wide white throat giving evidence that it was a living creature I was watching.

Thereafter, Andrew began his decline. It was not, I think, because life was too easy for him, but because he could never pass up an opportunity. His gem-like eyes glittered as steadily as ever, but success was success, and he could never seem to see a mud dauber without devouring it. I suppose greed and greediness are quite the same, in spite of modern usage. Andrew, to my fantastic notion, began to take on the aspect of a Wall Street tycoon—the white vest, the pompous bearing, the wide poker face, and above all, the complete concentration upon the affair in hand. It didn't take much imagination to picture him croaking to an underling to buy Bottle Flies and to corner the market on Gnats.

He grew very fat; in fact, alarmingly fat, and lost his nerve completely. I felt downcast as I remembered the perky little gray hoptoad of a few weeks back. I wondered idly if he were contemplating the equivalent of toad libraries or perhaps mosquito reserves for his lesser kin, who were at that moment tuning up for their customary evening chorus.

A kind and lovely light left over from sunset hung over my little garden. The hydrangeas and white petunias and fever-few were beginning to take on their luminous glow, and fireflies drifted about waiting for their curtain call. Even the weeds were beautifully right, creeping greenly over bare spots in the beds or hanging their heads with peculiar pleading grace, as if acknowledging their unworthiness.

And there, with the whole garden to hop about it, sat Andrew, poor glutted Andrew, with his sides bulging, moving only to catch and swallow a wasp. It made me a little sick.

I began to lose interest in him after that, and my visits to his flower pot were less frequent and more cursory. One day I recalled that I hadn't seen him for at least a week.

Then, when a neighborhood dog dropped by, my superstitious consciousness received a shock, for I realized that I would not meet Andrew again. As the cold friendly nose muzzled up against me, I saw what looked to be a large and unmistakeable wart.

Our Own Professor Quiz Again.

Q. Miss Miggles, what is the difference between an artichoke, an armadillo and an acropolis?

A. All I know is that you never use an armadillo or an acropolis in a vegetable dinner.

Q. Very good, Miss Miggles. Now we come to Mr. Steuksey. Mr. Steuksey, which makes sense: the statement "The man played the zither in a dither" or "The man played a dither in the zither?"

A. Would you mind repeating both sentences?

Q. Yes.

A. That lets us both out of a tight place!

* * * *

Q. You're next, Mr. Gripe. What is a cornice?

A. A cornice is an abbreviation for cornicecopia.

Q. There is no such word as cornicecopia. Be sharp, Mr. Gripe. Haven't you ever heard the word cornice used?

A. Not since Hoover said that business was just around the cornice.

Q. Well, you certainly make this program interesting, anyhow, Mr. Gripe. We're back to Miss Miggles again. This is going to be a tough one. If you had a Stradivarius would you eat it, play it or see a doctor?

A. What do you mean "if?" I have a Stradivarius. Boy, could he paint portraits!

* * * *

Q. Wake up, Mr. Steuksey; we're around to you again. Can't you keep your mind on this program?

A. No.

Q. Correct, Mr. Steuksey, and that's the way I like these questions answered. Now, Mr. Gripe, can you tell me the difference between a pestle, and epistle and a trestle?

A. Huh?

Q. Wrong! Try again. What's the difference between a pestle, an epistle and a trestle?

A. The difference between a pestle, a bustle and a whatle?

Q. No. Let's get this straight. I asked what is the difference between a drizzle, a trestle and a weasel, did I not?

A. You did not.

Q. Correct! It seems impossible to fool you. Now, Miss Miggles, I am going to ask you a hard one. Who was Hannibal?

A. Can I think?

Q. How do I know?

A. Hannibal? Why, er, she was a character in a poem by Edgar Allan Poe. He called her my beautiful Hannibal Lee.

Q. Miss Miggles, you slay me.

A. I'd be very glad to.

* * * *

Q. We're back to Steuksey. Steuksey, what is the largest . . .

A. Mount McKinley.

Q. I didn't finish my question.

A. That's all right. Our time is up anyhow.

Q. Right, Mr. Steuksey. Good night, folks, and if you have enjoyed this program as much as I have you're feeling pretty miserable.

Wartime Hong Kong

By Walter Bosshard

Thorn In Japan's Side.

HONG KONG'S harbor is regarded as one of the most beautiful in the whole world, excelled only, perhaps, by that of Rio de Janeiro. The approach by day through the countless green islands, and the view upon the city with its richly inhabited peak rising steeply in the background—all this leaves an unforgettable impression. By night, the city presents a fascinating view from the mainland, when the giant ocean liners are tied up at their piers in Kowloon and when, across the narrow channel, the many lights betray the pulsating life of a big city.

Until a few months ago, Hong Kong was a conservative colonial city, whose inhabitants were regarded as "more British than those of Britain." Here one would encounter people out of Dickens and Thackeray, old-fashioned in their language and their customs. Even those who were not English accepted the traditional code after a short time and came to look upon the outside world through Hong Kong's peculiar spectacles.

* * * *

NOW everything has changed. Overnight, because of the war, Hong Kong has become a capital, a world center. One need only take a walk in the forenoon through Pedder Street, which is hardly a thousand feet long, or sit in the lobby of the Hong Kong Hotel to see familiar faces from all five continents. In less than two hours after my arrival I met within these few acres the dean of a Peiping university, three American colleagues from Tokyo, Rome and Madrid, the members of a German Red Cross mission, a French writer, a Viennese eye specialist, a Prague munitions agent, Italian diplomats, the wife of a famous Portuguese throat specialist, a Swiss merchant from Manila, Swedish missionaries, Russian ballerinas—all of them people whom I had met before under entirely different circumstances.

* * * *

IN HONG KONG one can see clearly how Great Britain supports China's struggle against Japan. If Great Britain should some day decide to close this port to the importation of war materials, then China's plight would be seriously aggravated, since all her other lines of communication are of little significance for the transportation of munitions and other supplies.

The Japanese, quite naturally, find Hong Kong a thorn in their side. The Free Port lies outside their sphere of control and they realize that the establishment of a blockade might lead to dangerous complications. At the same time, they notice with grave apprehension that Hong Kong is replacing Shanghai as the most important transshipment center for the Chinese market.

* * * *

THE CHINESE, too, realize the advantages offered by this small island, which they had to cede to the British almost 100 years ago. Recently the Chinese government enacted new currency regulations which made Hong Kong the center of all its financial transactions in the territory not occupied by the Japanese. Because of this, the formerly stolid colonial city has achieved a financial status similar to that of London and New York, while Shanghai, which financed almost three-fourths of the entire Chinese trade before August of last year, recedes into the background. Pessimists are afraid that this development may some day lead to a clash with Japan; but for the present, at any rate, Hong Kong is on the winning side of the war.

Labor In The Reich

Correspondent Says New Laws Making Whole Potential Working Force Subject To Conscription Product of Labor Shortage.

By Ralph Barnes.

Berlin.

POINT X of the original Nazi party program proclaimed in 1920 reads in part: "It must be the first duty of each citizen of the state to work with his mind or his body." Through the recent decree making all Germans — with certain obvious exceptions — liable to labor conscription for limited periods, the Nazi leadership seems to have taken a new step toward putting this principle into effect.

Necessity, it is true, in the form of a growing shortage of labor in this country, precipitated the decision to place the whole potential working force of greater Germany under a regime similar to that of the military.

The shortage is especially marked in two categories: first, skilled and unskilled workers for the armaments industry and for certain key projects of the four-year plan, with special emphasis on the rapidly expanding Hermann Goering Reich Iron Works; second, workers for agriculture. The problem of mobilizing a sufficient force to harvest the forthcoming crops is causing Walther Darre, minister of agriculture, and his aides in the Reich Food Estate sleepless nights.

Those persons who can see nothing but chronic evil in the Third Reich will be likely to condemn the labor-conscription decree as a new manifestation of Prussian militarism in Nazi dress; as a final touch in the program of forcing the German civilian to do the goosestep. A regime which finds its ultimate goal in the "strong state" and thus concentrates its attention on mobilizing all material and human resources in peacetime for wartime may lay itself open to the charge of lacking "constructive" and "positive" features. Charges of this type are often preferred against the Nazis, but fairness requires that the observer seek at least to explain the case of the defense.

The labor-conscription decree is intended both to utilize the existing force of workers to the best advantage through redistribution and to tap whatever hitherto unutilized "reserves" may be available.

Labor Shortage Looms In Reich.

IN THEIR commentaries the Nazi authorities place emphasis on the virtual exhaustion of the existing labor force of the country, then hint that under the decree idlers will be brought into action.

To a degree, this may be rationalization on their part, but they speak in terms of point X of the party program and hark back to Chancellor Adolf Hitler's oft-repeated remarks relative to the dignity of labor.

The Germans have always enjoyed a reputation as an industrious folk, but like other peoples they have supported a leisure class. Whatever temporary concessions Der Fuehrer has made in the past to the "idle rich," he seems determined now to compel the able-bodied among this class to roll up their sleeves and labor in the interests of the Fatherland.

From August on, a term in the young women's section of the labor service will be a compulsory for all German maidens.

As to the compulsory element in the Nazi application of the principles of the dignity of labor, it recalls John Smith's manifesto to the Virginia colonists that if they didn't work they couldn't eat. Necessity was his excuse for this severe measure, and from the viewpoint of the Nazi leadership, need for compulsory labor is quite as great in contemporary Germany.

Labor Front's Activities Spreading.

IT IS THE proud claim of the Nazis that their provisions for the care of the workers, through the so-called Labor Front, are superior to those of the defunct unions of the old regime. Fathered and led by Dr. Robert Ley, who is also the chief of the whole Nazi party organization, the Labor Front is among the most powerful organizations developed under the present regime.

With the exception of the agricultural category, it includes within its membership the great bulk of workers and employes in Germany. Its social bureau handles wage contracts, regulates hours and working conditions and social insurance.

Its Strength Through Joy section corresponding to the Italian Dopolavero, is charged with providing workers with leisure time through sports outings, adult education and the like.

With the large funds at its disposal, the Labor Front has gradually spread its activities to include insurance, banking, journalism, theater enterprise, and even run a number of restaurants and shops. Leaving aside the questions of the standard of living of the German workers, the Labor Front undoubtedly stands out as an organization with many positive constructive features.

The President's Southern Letter

The text of President Roosevelt's letter to the conference on Southern economic conditions follows:

No purpose is closer to my heart at this moment than that which caused me to call you to Washington. That purpose is to obtain a statement—or, perhaps, I should say a restatement as of today—of the economic conditions of the South, a picture of the South in relation to the rest of the country, in order that we may do something about it: In order that we may not only carry forward the work that has been begun toward the rehabilitation of the South, but that the program of such work may be expanded in the directions that this new presentation shall indicate.

My intimate interest in all that concerns the South is, I believe, known to all of you, but this interest is far more than a sentimental attachment born of a considerable residence in your section and of close personal friendship for so many of your people. It proceeds even more from my feeling of responsibility toward the whole Nation. It is my conviction that the South presents right now the Nation's No. 1 economic problem—the Nation's problem, not merely the South's. For we have an economic unbalance in the Nation as a whole, due to this very condition of the South.

Ironic History.

It is an unbalance that can and must be righted, for the sake of the South and of the Nation.

Without going into the long history of how this situation came to be—the long and ironic history of the despoiling of this truly American section of the country's population—suffice it for the immediate purpose to get a clear perspective of the task that is presented to us. That task embraces the wasted or neglected resources of land and water, the abuses suffered by the soil, the need for cheap fertilizer and cheap power; the problems presented by the population itself—a population still holding the great heritages of Kings Mountain and Shiloh—the problems presented by the South's capital resources and the asbentee ownership of those resources, and problems growing out of the new industrial era and, again, of absentee ownership of the new industries. There is the problem of labor and employment in the South and the related problem of protecting women and children in this field. There is the problem of farm ownership, of which farm tenantry is a part, and of farm income. There are questions of taxation, of education, of housing and of health.

Basic Factors Settled.

More and more definitely in recent years those in the South who have sought selflessly to evaluate the elements constituting the general problem, have come to agree on certain basic factors. I have asked Mr. Mellett to present for your consideration a statement of these factors as prepared by various departments of the Government. I ask you to consider this statement critically, in the light of your own general or specific knowledge, in order that it may be made representative of the South's own best thought and that it may be presented to Congress and the public as such.

I had hoped to attend your meeting and listen to your discussions. Unhappily, other pressing work makes this impossible. Please accept my sincere regret that I cannot be with you and be assured that I anticipate with deep interest the result of your labors.

Blue Hen State

By Lewis Gannett

Books On Delaware.

"DELAWARE—A Guide to the First State" (Viking, $2.50)—that is an arresting title. Delaware claims it by virtue of having been the first State to ratify the Constitution. The only State smaller than Delaware, Rhode Island, boasts of its independence in another way; it was the last State to ratify that document, and continued as an independent republic long after the other 12 States had inaugurated George Washington as their President.

This new volume in the American Guide Series, prepared by workers of the Federal Writers' Project, does its best to justify the hullabaloo which Delaware is this year making over its Swedish origin. The effort seems a little forced. The Swedes were indeed the first permanent settlers in what is now called Delaware, but they came inspired by a Dutch promoter, led by a Dutch captain, sailed by a chiefly Dutch crew, to a bay which had been thoroughly explored by Dutch sailors.

The second "Swedish" expedition, in 1640, was in charge of Peter Hollander Ridder, who was as Dutch as his name, and brought with him the colony's first clergyman, a Dutchman. Fifty more Dutchmen arrived under Swedish auspices that same year, and the next year a few Finns and Swedes arrived. As late as 1648, after the "eighth Swedish expedition," there were only 79 men in the "Swedish" colony, perhaps half of them Dutch.

* * * *

OF SWEDISH CULTURE the editors of this guide find little surviving. The "Old Swedes Church" in Wilmington was built in 1698 by four Philadelphia masons named Yard, two Philadelphia carpenters named Smart and Harrison and a "glazier from Holland." The Swedish contribution seems to have been the letters of wrought iron used in certain inscriptions on the walls, prepared by "Matthias de Foss, who, according to contemporary records, was 'a smith of our own folk.'" The sermons also were in Swedish.

Even the place names are not Swedish; few, indeed, are Dutch; and even some of the more picturesque old names of English origin have been prettified by the nice Nellies of the State. Delaware's southernmost county, now called Sussex, was originally called Hoorekill or Harlot's Creek, which in time was changed to New Deal.

The Brandywine, named after a Finn, is one of the few surviving Finnish place names; it was called Fiskiekylan (Fish Creek) by the Dutch, and Wauwaset by the Indians. Delaware City was Newbold's Landing until the realtors got hold of it; Frederica was Johnnycake Landing; Smyrna was Duck Creek Cross Roads at its proudest moment, when the General Assembly at Delaware voted to make it instead of Dover the State capital. Reliance was so named in 1882 to wipe out the shameful memory of the snatchers of free Negroes who had given it ill fame under the name of Johnson's Cross Roads; Odessa was so named in 1855 in the hope that taking the name of Russia's great grain port would restore the dying business of a town which was ceasing to thrive as Cantwell's Bridge. Blackbird is supposed to have been Blackbeard in its early days; it was named after the pirate Peach.

* * * *

The Swedes made friends with the Indians 50 years before William Penn's more celebrated day—that we must grant them. The Dutch behaved much as the English did, and the Indians naturally retorted in kind—hence those fine old Dutch names in Delaware, Murderkill and Slaughterkill. But the Swedes had their martial moments, too. The guidebook quotes from a Swedish soldier's diary the account of the alarm at Fort Christina (where President Roosevelt and the Crown Prince's son made their speeches last week) on one of the first nights the Swedes spent in America. A sentry called the alarm: the drummer called out the garrison. "Look, the enemy is all about us; see their burning tapers!" said the sentry. He had his first sight of American fireflies.

* * * *

THE GUIDEBOOK summarizes the history of Delaware; it identifies the rarely abundant eighteenth-century houses; it explains Delaware traditions of today. In a remote corner of the State Delaware maintains one curious survival; separate schools for four colors. The United States census distinguishes only between "Negro" and "white," but State-supported schools in the "Down-Sockum" district distinguish between "Indian," "Moor," "Negro" and "white." The guide wisely refuses to take sides, but it explains the tradition that the "Moors" are descendants of Spanish seamen wrecked on the coast, who married Indian women. The "Nanticoke Indians," after two centuries of forgetfulness, seem lattrly to have adopted the impressive headdress of the Plains Sioux.

Delaware, a little State, has many proud traditions. It is the only State retaining public whipping as a common form of punishment. The guidebook notes the places and the occasions and the frequent efforts by out-State humanitarians to have it done away with. Maryland maintains whipping for wife beaters; Delaware makes it mandatory for a variety of crimes; the official "cat" has nine rawhide thongs, 18 inches long.

Only two daily newspapers survive in Delaware today, and they have dull names. One of them long ago absorbed the famous "Blue Hen's Chickens," which carried the State's nickname. For the first Delaware regiment in the Revolutionary War carried with it some celebrated gamecocks, children of a Kent County blue hen; no other regiment could produce cocks to outfight them, and the regiment, and the State in time, proudly named itself after the mother of those fighting cocks.

CHRISTOPHER WARD has boiled down some of his "Dutch and Swedes on the Delaware," published eight years ago, into "New Sweden on the Delaware" (University of Pennsylvania Press, $1.50). He is also the author of a sprightly "Delaware Tercentenary Almanack and Historical Repository, 1938" (Delaware Tercentenary Commission, $1), whence, though he did not name his source, President Roosevelt quoted those historic lines:

No Gov. of Delaware before or since
Has weighed as much as Johan Printz.

Very serious-minded students will find very solid meat in "The Swedes in America," edited by Adolph B. Benson and Naboth Hedin (Yale University Press, $3).

Turns With A Bookworm

ROBERT E. McCLURE, author of "Harry Pickering," is another newspaperman who was determined to write a novel, and really did . . In fact, he has written four . . . And he is still a newspaperman, out at Santa Monica . . . An illness gave him his first chance at fiction; he wrote a novel in bed, against the doctor's orders . . . We don't see what harm it could have done him, or why the doctor should protest; did he have to read it? . . .

We had a discussion with Mr. McClure of the possible reasons for the prolonged adolescence of well-to-do Americans since the turn of the century . . . The cause might be that inheritance of wealth in this country implies no particular job; there is nothing that must be studied as a preparation for responsibility; and no specific taking over . . . Passing grades of irrelevant subjects are called an education; there is no responsibility required of the heir at home, not even filling the wood box; and there are numerous privileges and luxuries as a matter of course . . . Nothing to work for or think for, and consequently no process of maturity . . .

"Harry Pickering" is such a son and heir, the inheritor of a big motor business . . . Far from being a villain, a scheming member of 60 predatory families, he's rather an amiable and bewildered sap, who never discovers what it is all about.

LIN-YU-TANG, author of "The Importance of Living," is proving his theory by a sojourn in Paris, whence he writes back that he indulges in unlimited taxi riding as a pleasure . . . Willard Price, author of "Children of the Rising Sun," was in Cairo when last heard from, and had barely escaped drowning—musta been on the Nile, he says a felucca capsized during a storm . . . He lost some manuscript for a new book . . . Not picking on Mr. Price or his works, we feel strangely resigned about the loss of manuscripts of unpublished books. ISABEL M. PATERSON.

'Voteless' Orator Held as Inebriate Finds Sympathy

Andrew Michael found a fellow-enthusiast for the cause of District suffrage in Police Court yesterday.

Michael, who is 47 and lives at 1108 L street northwest, was in the midst of an oration on the subject of voting in a Fourteenth street restaurant earlier in the day. He was interrupted by Policeman Joseph P. Miller, who is all for District suffrage, but thought Michael was intoxicated.

Brought before Police Court Judge Edward M. Curran, Michael said he had lived in Washington for "15 voteless years," and thought something should be done about it.

He was released to continue his campaign after Judge Curran took his personal bond not to repeat the intoxication offense.

U.S. Joins Nations In World Survey Of Weather Aloft

For the twelfth consecutive year the United States Weather Bureau has joined metorological services of other nations in an "international month" for intensive, simultaneous exploration of the upper air in most countries of the world.

This month daily upper-air observations will be held at a designated place in each country. Omaha Nebr., has been selected for the United States.

Purpose of the observations is to give a detailed picture of the sequence of changes in weather from the equator to the poles, Dr. W. R. Gregg, chief of the Weather Bureau, said yesterday.

Merriam Is Feted By Phone Officials

Samuel F. Merriam, general traffic manager of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., was guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday at the Annapolis Hotel, given by fellow officials and associates, celebrating completion of 25 years of telephone service.

Charles A. Robinson, general manager of the company, presented Merriam a ruby service pin.

The Federal Diary

Both criticism and praise fell about the head of Harry G. Ritner, editor of the Washington Federal Bulletin, as soon as he wrote to this column a couple of weeks ago suggesting some sort of united front among Federal employe unions when they present demands to Congress.

Most recent comment on the question comes from Henry G. Nolda, chairman of the organization committee of Federal Employes Union No. 2, N. F. F. E.

Complaining that "some of your correspondents have overlooked the forest for the trees," Mr. Nolda writes:

"There has been and now is a united group of Federal employe organizations which his been doing a wonderful work in the few years since it was brought into being. I refer to the legislative council of Federal employe organizations consisting of those Federal employe groups not affiliated with any outside group." (Italics Mr. Nolda's.)

"It consists of the National Federation of Federal Employes, the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, the National Association of Post Office Supervisors and the National Rural Letter Carriers Association. Its officers are John J. Barrett, U. N. A. P. O. C., chairman; Raymond H. Combs, N. R. L. C. A., secretary, and Luther C. Steward, N. F. F. E., chairman legislative and publicity committees.

"Presenting, a united front, yet with each retaining its full individual autonomy and independence, this group has done much to forward the cause of legislation affecting Federal employes. The work these organizations have done jointly has been very edident in the restoration of pay cuts, the extension and preservation of the merit system and more recently their united stand on retirement legislation.

"As more and more Federal employes see the need of united effort on the part of all Federal employes to accomplish their objectives, these organizations have been growing in membership and esteem in which they are held by legislators and executives alike. It is a significant fact that the letter of the President of the United States outlining the scope of Federal employe organizations within the Federal service was sent to Luther C. Steward, the president of the N. F. F. E. . . .

"The Legislative Council represents the largest group of organized Federal employes."

The Department of Labor is 25 years old, but John R. Demorest, chief of the Division of Budgets and Accounts, entered Government service five years before the department was organized. Fellow employes last week marked Mr. Demorest's thirtieth anniversary by presenting him with a handsome traveling bag.

No academic administrator is Leroy K. Smith, who has just been appointed chief of the operating section of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Mr. Smith now lives in Arlington, where there isn't much wheat, but since 1920 he has been operating a 1,200-acre wheat farm out in Nebraska. He was chairman of the Nebraska State Grain Board, and, until recently, a member of the Nebraska State agricultural conservation committee.

Mr. Smith comes from a family of farmers—his father owns acres and acres of corn in Iowa. And by the way you city slickers, don't make the mistake your correspondent (no farmer) made in talking to Mrs. Smith about all that corn. He called it a corn ranch.

It's just a farm, no matter how many counties it covers, and its midget Eastern counterparts, so we are told, aren't much more than garden patches.

Judge Barham, 74, Resigns After 42 Years of Service

Newport News, Va., July 5 (AP).—Judge Thomas J. Barham, who has presided over City Corporation Court since it was established 42 years ago and is one of Virginia's oldest jurists in point of service, today announced his resignation from the bench.

Judge Barham, born November 21, 1863, in Surry County, is a member of the managing board of Randolph-Macon College at Ashland and the Board of the Methodist Orphanage in Richmond.

U. S. and Reich Seen in Battle For Americas

Institute

Carson Cites Propaganda.

Unless the third Reich then corrects the world's "deep-seated impression of its insatiable acquisitiveness and wanton disregard for legal obligations," he gravely warned that "there will remain no alternative for Great Britain but to rely upon her reborn military strength to redress the balance of power."

Mr. Carson told the gathering that Germany, Italy and Japan were trying to convince the nations of the Americas that might makes right, that war is noble and that only through armed strife will nations attain an important place in the world."

"A Tactical Blunder."

Alluding to those members of Congress who suggested that the United States build radio stations to combat Nazi and Fascist propaganda, he said:

"There are many who believe that the whole idea of Government controlled and operated radio stations would play right into the hands of Mussolini and Hitler. At the present time the better elements in the cultural, political and commercial fields throughout Latin America welcome the news which they receive through the medium of our radio and of the great press associations, such as the Associated Press, because they believe it to be impartial and unbiased.

"If we should attempt to meet the efforts of the European dictators with the weapons which they know how to apply so skilfully, we would lose much of the position we now have insofar as it concerns the public opinion in that part of the world. It would be a tactical blunder to 'fight fire with fire.'"

Frank's talk was an attack on fascism and a defense of the New Deal.

Frank Assails Radicals.

"The extreme radicals are the best friends of the worst reactionaries," he contended, branding them "allies of the Bourbons." At the same time he counseled American businessmen that a resort to fascism in this country would be "incredibly stupid."

Fascism in America "would result in a far greater reduction in the power of the economically dominant class than would an intelligent reconstruction of the profit system under a political democracy," said Frank.

In a spirited defense of "liberalism" and the virtues of "compromise," the New Deal lieutenant appealed for popular appreciation of America's vast resources, asserting that the Nation's unique advantages invalidate both fascism and communism as realistic programs for this country.

"Save America First."

Advocates of these doctrines "are, in fact, urging Americans to engage in war," Frank charged, "for neither fascism nor communism can prevail in this country without a war—the most savage and repulsive kind of war, a civil war."

Lack of "continental integration," he said, has led European nations to embrace extremist philosophies. He ascribed the struggle between fascism and communism to "the grim fact that no industrialized national state, if isolated and founded on an insufficent geographical and economic foundation, can today achieve anything but misery."

While suggesting "one government with full interstate commerce powers," as the answer to Europe's difficulties, Frank insisted on the importance of "saving America first." The Old World is facing calamity, he said, and "by continuing too intimate economic relations with a nonintegrated Europe we can do nothing to help Europe and will merely undermine our own economy."

Filipino Lauds U. S.

Earlier Vincente Villamin, Filipino lawyer and economist, declared that the Philippine Islands today injoy greater freedom "than 90 per cent of the countries which are technically independent."

Terming the United States "the great moral bulwark of the world," Villamin said with feeling, "if your people will permit it, we want to remain under the American flag."

Price-Fixing Attack.

A sharp attack on the price-fixing policies of "politicians who wear statesman's pants" was voiced by S. Wade Marr, of Elizabeth City, N. C., vice president of the Atlantic Securities Co.

"This generation," he predicted, "will see the end of America's dominance in the production of cotton. The South will go into a period of readjustment comparable to the days of our Civil War, and America will suffer irreparable loss of prestige and power."

Attempts to "tell the world that American products have value beyond a price at which the world can use them and stand to profit" have led to an annual decline in foreign purchases of American cotton and a great increase in production abroad, he contended.

Wives of Africans Average $4.50 on Installment Plan

Special Dispatch to The Post.

New York, July 5.—Miss Myrtle L. Wilson, missionary, who has worked in the Belgian Congo for the last 20 years, arrived today to report to her organization, the Africa Inland Mission, Brooklyn.

Miss Wilson said she worked principally among the Zande tribe of African bushmen, who have many strange customs. Polygamy is rather common, she said.

Among the Zandes, Miss Wilson said, the standard price for a wife is about $4.50 in currency or goods, paid to the girl's father by the prospective husband. Installment buying is well established, she said, and if a husband doesn't keep up his payments the wife's father or brothers can repossess her.

Roller Skate at the Lotus

THE "CONTINENTAL THRILLERS," whose roller-skating can be seen at the Lotus.

Capital Night Clubs

By Mary Harris

Now that theaters are pleading with the leddies to remove their hats, we wonder if it wouldn't be a good idea for floor show ringsiders to doff those cartwheel models for the show's duration. It would give you a chance to show off your new hair-dos, too, girls.

If she weren't such a shimmering dancer, Marion Wilkins (Shoreham Terrace with partner Jack Walters) would be an equally good actress. She's a student of drama and the results show in the jaunty gayety of her "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the ardent romance of her waltz mood. Also at the Shoreham you'll find little Virginia Barrie doing a tango in taps; Goodrich and Nelson, muscle men with special controls. The bigger of the two looks loke Gene Tunney.

A free roller-skate whirl is the customers' bonus currently offered by Lotus. Meaning that the "Continental Thrillers" who do swing adagio on roller skates, will swing around any and all daring customers who want to copy the "Young Man on the Flying Trapeze." Dinner customers are a little shy on taking up this offer, but that supper dance crowd, you know—they'll try anything. We'll give you odds that the customers will steal the show before the week is over.

Emcee Al Norton, who hefts around 200, is going to try to stymie the "Thrillers" by getting in on this roller-skate adagio. That, my friends, will be worth going miles to see.

Phyllis Cromling and Frances Gill, Mayfair's cute canaries (Frances pianos, too), plan to do a lot of bicycling while they're here in Washington. But no need to rush down to Potomac Park, my lads. Both girls say that shorts are anathema (ladylike cuss word, that) to them. Phyllis will wear culottes and Frances prefers slacks.

Just like a string of firecrackers is the new Bamboo Gardens floor show. Tap and strut numbers packed with explosive are popped off by Winton and Diane. Incidentally, Diane has the prettiest sun-taned underpinnings you'll see this July. Then there's acro-dancer Mildred King, who practically takes herself apart in slow motion. Best of all are Alexander and Evelyn, the "All Balled Up" pair, who have everything on the ball. Sam Richardson, barytone; Judith Gales, soprano; Leo Lislee's all over the place; Emory Daugherty dance music. 'S perfect.

Johnny Slaughter and his Metronome Room orchestra wouldn't know what to do with a day off. True, they play only six nights a week at Metronome, but for the last week they've also played special Sunday parties. "It's good for us," says stout fella Johnny. "Keeps us in training. But I would like to see a baseball game some time this summer.

There's another celeste in town besides that one in the Mayflower Lounge. It's on the Powhatan Roof and saxophonist Donald Shook whacks it lustily a couple of times an evening. But he irreverently calls it the "lily bells."

Organist Larry Hendrick, of the Hay-Adams House, has what looks like a record. Since coming to the Hay-Adams House in August, 1937, he's played upward of 3,500 request numbers.

Lou Berman, comedian-drummer-singer of the Rainbow Room, is a collector of song lyrics. He likes 'em medium "blue" and plenty funny, suited to the midnight whims of Rainbowers. He's putting music to about ten of these juicy ditties right now, but you'll probably first hear the one about the hermit who went swimming.

July coolers: Mint juleps a la K g Cole Room. They're in big silver cups, plantation style. The silver cups keep them cooler.

Hawaiian coolers at Hi-Hat They're made of gin, apricot brandy and other things, with mint sprouting from the side. And darned if Oscar doesn't put little parasols over them. To protect them from the customer's burning gaze, I guess.

Frozen Daiquiris at the Anchor Room, where the thoughtful management will give you a spoon in case you can't wait for the confection to melt.

Howard Beck's "Parade of Youth" at Glen Echo is just that. The average age of the orchestra is 22 and Howard himself is just 22. But in other three months the average age of the outfit will go up to 23. That, Howard says, will make him feel like an old man. He's been leading the band for five years.

Drummer Al Spiel, of the Madrilloon, is also a teacher. He teaches a big class of youngsters how to get the last quiver of rhythm out of any drum. We'll bet the neighbors just love to hear them practice.

Thethree Dees (Show Boat out Laurel way) made their first smash hit down in Miami last winter, later being snapped up for Willard's Blue Grotto. That steamy, varied style is all their own though some folks compare them to Dick Himber's radio trio.

Jack Torry's ork at Brinkley's is getting ready to put in some alto horns ("hot peck horns") and trombones. It's lucky that Brinkley's is always cool, because the Torry outfit is always turning on rhythmed heat.

Manuel Bofill (Griffith Farms) can play 14 string instruments and a hand saw. He'd probably have a jam session with a tool chest.

18,000 on Relief Rolls Given WPA Jobs in N. Jersey

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Trenton, N. J., July 5.—The State works progress administration, charged by legislative leaders with playing politics in making assignments to employment, reported to Gov. A. Harry Moore today that 18,161 relief clients in New Jersey had been transferred to WPA jobs from February 23 to June 22.

In submitting the names and addresses of these persons to the Governor, Robert W. Allen, deputy State WPA administrator, said he considered the report "an effective answer to charges that politics is being played in WPA hiring." Such charges were made repeatedly by Speaker Herbert Pascoe of the House, and Senator Robert C. Hendrickson, of Gloucester, Republican leader.

Concern Sues SEC For Papers' Return

The Resources Corporation International, a Chicago concern controlling 2,000,000 acres of Mexican timberland, yesterday filed suit in District Court to compel the Securities and Exchnage Commission to return the company's registration statement. The commission was given until July 12 to show cause why the statement should not be returned.

In an application asking the commission for permission to withdraw the statement which was filed in February, 1936, the company declared it needed the proceeds of the projected sale of 35,000 shares of stock at about $11 a share to finance future operations. Sale of the stock could only be made after favorable action on the registration statement, it was pointed out.

Woman's Lost Lip Is Sewed Back On

Asheville, N. C., July 5 (U.P.).—A colored woman's lower lip was bitten off in an Independence Day fight. An hour later, doctors at Mission Hospital sent police back to hunt the missing lip. They found it at the scene of the fight. The doctors sterilized it and sewed it back. Today the lip apparently was healing satisfactorily.

Bodies of 3 Recovered In Mine Blast, 11 Unhurt

Fernie, B. C., July 5 (AP).—British Columbia police said late today bodies of three men trapped by an underground mine explosion at Michel had been recovered. Eleven other men escaped uninjured when the blast ripped through workings of the Crows Nest Pass coal mine.

Doran Resigns Liquor Institute Chairmanship

not been fully developed. I consented to do what I could in an executive capacity under the immediate direction of our board. The job has been a difficult one and with many pressing industry problems present now and looming up in the future I think the board should select as soon as possible a successor president of the institute. It seems to me essential for the good of the industry that this be done without undue delay.

"As my abilities and personal desires run to the purely technical aspects of our problems it is my wish that the board relieve me of administrative responsibilities not later than September 1. In the meantime, it is my wish that the board grant me time at once to make some extended study of the present manufacturing practice and curent working of the excise system as applied to distilled spirits in the United Kingdom. I believe this will be valuable to our members in the future.

"I have worked under considerable pressure and feel physically the need of a break. After September 1, I will be very glad to serve the institute as technical consultant or director, as the board may wish. The arrangements discussed by us in New York last Tuesday are wholly satisfactory to me and can be made a matter of written understanding at any time convenient to yourself and the board. I am certain that such an arrangement will work in the interest of our people and I know that a national institue working on enlarged lines as social problems develop is essential to industry welfare."

Girl, 5, Turns 'Toy' Gun on Father; He Goes to Hospital

Sacramento, Calif., July 5 (U.P.).—Alfred Latona, playing with his 5-year-old daughter, Mary, put her toy pistol on a dresser near his own .32-caliber revolver.

The girl picked up the revolver instead of the toy, pointed it at father and said "bang." Latona went to the hospital with a bullet in his shoulder.

Funeral Is Held For Arthur Giard

With the Rev. Walter P. Plumley officiating, funeral services were held yesterday for Arthur Victor Giard, an electrical contractor who lived in the District 40 years. He was 64.

Following the service at the Speare funeral home, 3200 Rhode Island avenue northeast, burial was in Fort Lincoln Cemetery. Mr. Giard died Saturday in Homeopathic Hospital.

Born in Manchang, Mass., June 9, 1874, Mr. Giard came to Washington 40 years ago. He was a member of the Elks.

A brother, Louis I. Giard, of Worcester, Mass.; four sisters, Miss M. Giard, Mrs. J. Glaude, Mrs. D. Bruso and Mrs. T. Glaipeau, and a nephew, Floriman Giard, of this city, survive.

Capt. Hemenway Rests in Arlington

Funeral services for Capt. Newell L. Hemenway, 41, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, who died Saturday in Blacksburg, Va., were held yesterday in Fort Myer chapel, with Chaplain Ora J. Cohee officiating. Interment with full military honors was in section 7 of Arlington Cemetery.

Capt. Hemenway, a native of Portland, Me., was on duty with the Reserve Officers Training Corps at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg at the time of his death.

He graduated from West Point and was commissioned a second lieutenant of Engineers in 1918 and was promoted to the rank of captain three years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Evelyn M. Hemenway, of Blacksburg.

Funeral Is Today For J. E. Reagle

Last rites for Jacob E. Reagle, building contractor, will be held at 10:30 a. m. today at Hines funeral home. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mr. Reagle, who was 76 and lived at 71 V street northwest, died Saturday. A native of Mount Bethel, Pa., he had lived in Washington since 1909.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Ellen Reagle; two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Ghee and Miss Hilda Reagle, and two grandchildren, Mary and Norma Ghee.

Services Today For Mary Hayre

Funeral services will be held at 12:30 p. m. today at the W. W. Chambers funeral home, 517 Eleventh street southeast, for Miss Mary Louise Hayre, an employe of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The Rev. H. A. Kent will officiate. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Miss Hayre died Monday at her residence, 540 Fourteenth street southeast. She was 38. Three sisters and a brother survive. They are Mrs. Susan E. Dyer, the Misses Sara and Helen B. Hayre and John F. Hayre.

Col. Wallace Rites Held at Fort Myer

Funeral services for Lieut. Col. John H. Wallace, U. S. Army, who died Saturday at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., were held yesterday in Fort Myer chapel, with the Rev. Oliver J. Hart, of St. John's Church, Washington, officiating. Interment with full military honors was in section 7 of Arlington Cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers were Lieut. Cols. Henry McK. Pendleton, John W. Leonard, Orlando Ward, Walter W. Hess, jr., Robert W. Strong, Roscoe B. Woodruff and Edward G. Wallington.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

When Mature Woman Renounces Lover for Ethical Reasons, Can She Hope for Forgetfulness?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: When a grown woman loves a man very sincerely and separates from him because she feels it is the right thing to do, do you think it is possible for her to forget when each has loved and brought happiness to the other? When she goes out with others she doesn't want to admit that she would rather be alone—absolutely alone. She is trying to pretend that she is happy without him—when there seems to be no happiness without him. She is trying to adjust herself when it would be so much easier just to go on and take happiness as she finds it, thus making both happy.

• • • •

Is it likely when one loves so late in life that it is possible to forget? Especially when the man is one who could have completed the woman's life, had circumstances been different. This love hurts no one and has brought great happiness, in the past, to the two persons concerned. ANXIOUS.

• • • •

DEAR ANXIOUS: This business of helping persons solve their problems, with nothing but a few one-sided statements to work from, is difficult enough at best, but when one's questioner goes all around Robin Hood's barn (as you have done here) in an effort to camouflage his problem, it is well nigh impossible to be of assistance. The least you might have done would have been to state your case factually and succinctly, instead of vaguely, rhetorically, and in the third person. However, let's see what we can make of it.

• • • •

I assume from what you say that you are a woman of middle age or past, in love with a married man who has given you some reason to believe that he loves you in return, but that now, for reasons of conscience or for reasons of social expediency, one decided, or perhaps both agreed, that the only wisdom was to break off the relationship and go your separate ways. One gathers that subsequent to the break you find yourself anguished and forlorn without the man, wondering if you were wise to relinquish the illicit romance; wondering if, after all, it might not have been just as well to continue feeding your hungry heart on whatever crumbs of happiness you could steal or snatch behind society's back. One gathers that you are being rather self-consciously brave about the whole thing, and that you are definitely aware of having done a rather noble and Quixotic thing in giving the man up when (presumably) nobody compelled you to.

• • • •

Now, I believe that a woman who actually—of her own accord, and for reasons that made sense to herself—had given up the man she loved, would not continue looking backward at what she had relinquished; nor would she try too hard to rend the veils which obscure the future in an effort to out what that remote land held for her. The philosophy of life which impelled her to renunciation would sustain her in renunciation; she would be buoyed up even in her hours of blackest bereavement by that exaltation of spirit which accrues to him who knows, to the very core of his being, that in an hour of trial he has chosen the better path.

• • • •

Step by slow step would she advance to meet the future, asking only that the immediate moment be rendered endurable. And gradually, almost imperceptibly, would she discover a growing strength and steadying peace enfolding her. She would find herself translating, in terms of personal experience, those magnificent words of Cardinal Newman's hymn:

"Lead, kindly light, amid the encircling gloom,
Lead thou me on!
The night is dark, and I am far from home—
Lead thou me on!
Keep thou my feet; I do not ask to see

• • • •

Sustained by such a philosophy, she would realize that it mattered little in the long run, whether she remembered or whether eventually she forgot the man. She would be happy in the thought that she had done the right thing as she saw it; that she had paid their love the tribute of considering it too fine to be dragged down to the debasing level of furtive intrigue, and that in so doing, she had given that love its greatest chance to be a beneficent influence in both their lives.

• • • •

I am inclined to believe, in your case, that the man was at least as instrumental as yourself in terminating the relationship. You seem a little too despondent over the turn of events to have been altogether responsible. And now, as to whether you will ever forget him—I refer you to my column of June 16, in which this exact question is discussed at some length. M. H.

Verse From Lady of 92.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: To give you a well-earned smile, an old woman who has reached the forgiveable age of 92 years (birthday in August) takes this way of thanking you for the pleasure, interest and profit she gets from your column every morning in The Post. I love your patient helpfulness, but also I glory in the keen rebukes you mete out to a few of the many who deserve them. Oh, what fools these mortals be, but I am thankful for Mary!

Oh, Mary, Mary, often contrary
To what some want you to be—
But telling the truth
Without favor or ruth—
What a great joy you are to me.

Once—no, twice—I disagreed,
'Twas a little hard on the woman.
For woman surely has most to bear
Being female as well as human.

But your wonderful acumen
Seems almost superhuman.
What lies behind the written lines
Seems patent to your magic eyes.

Your clinics are beyond all price.
Your tolerance, your kind advice—
So helpful, true and feeling—
Are solacing and healing.

Yet you have never been in love
A sapient one surmises! Ooh la la!

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

Rainbow Striped Fine Net Popular for Afternoons

Paris (U.P.).—Mainbocher is one of the biggest exploiters of the short net dress. He makes a youthful afternoon dress of rainbow-striped black fine net. From a very tight waist come a bouffant short skirt topped by an exceedingly blousy blouse. A sash-belt is of the same net. Sleeves are elbow length.

Another of the refreshing afternoon dresses is of fine black net with an all-over printed design of large white polka-dot.

Mid-season Hats With a Touch of Fall

Doll-Size Hat Craze Started By Schiaparelli

New Style Meets Great Vogue in New York and Paris.

THE midseason hat is always a problem. You want something that is summery, yet it must also show that you are "fall" minded and know what is going to be what a little later. Then frequently the fall hat must do travel duty. And above all, it must give a dash of drama to your costume and make all your old summer dresses look a little livelier.

Schiaparelli has launched a craze for doll-size hats that sit jauntily on top of upswept coiffures. These tiny midsummer hats, which have a great vogue in Paris and New York, are described as "something between a nickel and an ash tray in size." These novelties include tiny straw pie plates centered with pompoms or clusters of flowers; miniature dark felt tricornes with pastel-colored ostrich tips nestling in the brim and infinitesimal dark felts turned down in front and up in the back are worn aslant the top of the head.

Fad Offers Difficulties.

While these hats are the fad of the moment, the average hat patron finds them too difficult to wear. Moreover, they are certainly impractical for July and August days in Washington. Here the tendency is toward a more conservative midseason headgear.

White pique pillboxes and Bretons, or small sailors, are very popular now. Many of the white hats are accented with bright veils or with colored flowers or ostrich tips. In fact, ostrich trimming is becoming increasingly prevalent on summer headgear. The tips are used widely and are often found in several colors on one hat.

WALDORF SALAD WITH PEANUT BUTTER DRESSING.

Toss 2 cups of diced apples and 1 cup of cut celery together with ½ cup peanut butter dressing and place in lettuce cups on salad plates.

PEANUT BUTTER DRESSING

Blend together teaspoon salt, teaspoon mustard, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, a dash of cayenne pepper, then add beaten yolks of 2 eggs. Mix well, add 1 cup of evaporated milk (irradiated). Cook over boiling water until mixture thickens. Stir in 2 tablespoons peanut butter, then ¼ cup of vinegar slowly. If dressing is too thick, thin with a little evaporated milk.

Leg Defects May Be Remedied By Exercise and Good Posture

By Ida Jean Kain.

KNOCK-KNEES, bow legs, skinny legs, thick calves and ankles and summer shorts and bathing suits . . . You get the picture! And according to Jane Lingg, instructor in corrective exercise at the Y. W. C. A. in New York, 9 out of every 10 girls now are trying to do something about a leg defect.

As Miss Lingg will tell you, there is nothing to be done about true bow legs. But you may be knock-kneed and only look as if you were bow legged. The root of the trouble is your posture. When the knees are rotated inward you have "knock-knees," an inclination of the pelvis which shows up as sway-back, and your feet hurt.

The correction of all this is amazingly simple. The idea is to roll the legs outward, beginning at the hips, turning the knees out, and placing the weight correctly on the longitudinal arch. Practice and you will see for yourself what an improvement it makes in the appearance of your legs. If it is very difficult, take up bicycle riding this summer. That exercise forces you to hold the legs correctly and counteracts the habit of rotating the hips inward.

As soon as you have strengthened the leg muscles so you stand correctly naturally, with the knee-caps straight instead of turned inward, your legs will lose that bowed appearance.

If Miss Lingg were analyzing your mistakes in walking for you, the chances are she would list first the failure to correctly use the arch. Most of us have a spring from the knees as we step along, but there should also be a spring from the ankles. She suggests plenty of stair climbing to foster the habit of using the arch normally, to strengthen foot and leg muscles and to promote lovelier contours.

And if your special grievance is legs that are too thick, try this:

POSITION: Sit on the floor, hands braced at the sides of the body, knees flexed and feet in front.

MOVEMENT: Work the legs like pistons, shooting first one then the other straight out on the floor, letting it strike with a resounding spank. As one leg moves forward, the other is drawn up again in the flexed position. Work the legs rhythmically.

And here's another exercise that puts all your leg muscles to work:

POSITION: Stand with feet wide apart, knees straight and hands on hips. Have the feet parallel and the weight evenly distributed.

MOVEMENT: Rising on the toes, shift the weight to the right foot by bending the right knee. As the shift is made, come down flat on the feet again, and holding the left leg straight, bend sharply to the left at the waist. Then with the hand on the left hip force this leg downward as the bend of the waist and of the right knee is increased.

A WOMAN'S NEW YORK

By Alice Hughes.

New York, July 5.

THE REVIVAL of two of the late Rudolph Valentino's silent pictures have brought more to sun-baked Broadway than the shadow of the greatest matinee idol the screen has yet produced. As originally presented a few weeks ago here, his most famous picture, "The Sheik," had no sound track to furnish music and atmospheric noises—and for a little while we were way back beyond the dawn of science, when a pianist played tunes to match the action. The management resurrected this classic accompaniment partly for laughs, but I took it very seriously, for my first spending money was earned as relief pianist at the Elite Theater, when knighthood and Pearl White were in flower, and movies moved!

Let this date me if it must, but as a high school girl I developed that appalling ability to rattle out appropriate sounds as the cowboys and Indians galloped across the screen. In the trade jargon, these noises were "hurries. There were hurries for the dastardly Redskins and heroic hurries for the noble cowboys and the United States Cavalry, which always arrived just in time. I hurried my way through "The Perils of Pauline" and "The Million Dollar Mystery" and the rest, and thanks to a desperately retentive musical memory, every bit of that old movie music clutters up the attic of my brain to this day. In fact, it is the basis of my only parlor trick, fomented by my humorous spouse.

When a few other old fogies are gathered in our parlor, he likes to make me sitdown at the piano, and then he cues me with all the old scenes—the Indian prowl, the cavalry gallop, the sneak of the burgler, the shot of the tiny girl in her white nightie—Shirley Temple's spiritual mama. Almost automatically I pound out the old, appropriate jingles—and all laugh heartily. So when I heard the bald-headed pianist rattling out "The Sheik" music, I laughed a little—but I also remembered fondly a young girl thumping the yellow keys of an antique upright in the old Elite Theater, when the movies were truly colossal!

The GENTLER SEX

By Malvina Lindsay.

The Charmer.

He is taking you to dinner . . . the new man you met at the cocktail party. How fortunate that you have just been reading all those books on how to be charming! If you had only known a little earlier in life what you know now . . .

• • • •

You study the menu, wrestling with your longing to order a cold plate or some chicken salad. ("Men like for women to have a gusto for food.") If you don't order a big meal he might think you were dieting. ("Nothing irks a man so much as a woman on a diet.") All right, you will take a steak. "Well done," you start to say, then change the order to "medium." ("Men like red-blooded women.") You order French fries, combination salad—that's the one salad most men approve of—iced tea—no you had better make it coffee.

• • • •

You sip your ice water and turn to him vivaciously. ("Men like for women to look gay and animated.") "Does it get very warm in Illinois?" you ask, and lean forward raptly for his reply. "It's a dry heat out there," he tells you. "Say, did you ever hear the one about the New Yorker who went out to Chicago?"

"No?" you gasp eagerly. He is off. But . . . there is something vaguely familiar . . . oh, yes, it is the one he told you at the cocktail party. You double your efforts to look entranced. ("A woman should always look as if she were hearing a man's favorite story for the first instead of the seventeenth time.")

• • • •

The conversation comes to politics. "Roosevelt's crazy," he announces flatly. "Oh, but—" you start to say, then end weakly, "Is—is that so?" ("Men do not like women to be argumentative.") He pushes his plate back savagely. "And Mrs. Roosevelt, she is crazy, too!" You stiffen instantly. Now really for the sake of your sex . . . still . . . ("Men like for a woman to be sympathetic and assisting in their thought.") You hear yourself saying apologetically, "Well, of course, I suppose . . ."

He has other definite ideas. "The whole trouble with women today is they won't live on their husbands' salaries." You smilingly acquiesce. "Now Spencer Tracy, he's the rottenest actor on the screen." You nod affably. "Now I don't approve of everything Hitler's done, but I will say he has his points." You smolder inwardly. ("Men do not like women to be opinionated.") You find yourself grimacing. "Well, of course, I suppose . . ."

• • • •

His tie clasp is on the verge of slipping off. What on earth shall you do? You start to warn him, then think better of it. ("Men do not like for women to make intimate gestures in public.") You sit with your eyes riveted on it, helpless to help. It drops to the floor. He retrieves it, at the same time sending a hard roll bounding across the floor. You stifle your impulse to giggle. ("Men are sensitive plants when it comes to ridicule.")

He suggests peach shortcake with whipped cream for dessert. You agree enthusiastically with dark thoughts of a night session with bicarb of soda.

• • • •

He asks what picture you would like to see. You start to say, "Mad Manhattan," then defer to his judgment. ("Men do not like women who dictate the form of social entertainment.") He choses an historical romance.

You feel your nose is gleaming, start to reach for your compact. No, that will not do. ("The one thing men dislike most in women is making up in public.") You feel soggy and dull after your heavy dinner, but try to chat gaily on the way to the theater. ("One of the chief things to remember in pleasing a man is never to look bored.") The conversation gets around to the heat. "Did you ever hear the one about the New Yorker who went out to Chicago?" he asks. "No?" you gasp eagerly.

• • • •

Alone in your room, you yank off your hat, kick your shoes across the floor, sink exhausted into your big chair. Suddenly you sit up straight and belligerent. "Mrs. Roosevelt is NOT crazy!" you declaim angrily. "Spencer Tracy can TOO act" "Hitler' is a louse" Waiter, bring me some tomato aspic and Melba toast. And be darned quick about it.

Paris (U.P.).—Alix follows the international trend of the season by borrowing inspiration from those glamorous costumes Indian women wear in the Far East. She drapes yards and yards of chiffon jersey or crepe into elegant effects and often uses a headdress which frames the face in nun-like severity. With these costumes, she presents flat barefoot sandals which are worn sans stockings.

Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Grady Widely Feted in Europe

Stream of Parties Begun in Rome Continues in Geneva; C. A. Livengoods, G. H. Paines, Phillipses Entertain the Visitors.

By Hope Ridings Miller,
The Post Society Editor.

From Rome comes word that Dr. and Mrs. Henry F. Grady were widely feted during their recent visit there and that the whirl of parties for them has continued since they have been in Geneva, where they have a host of friends. Dr. Gardy, who is now of the United States Tariff Commission, formerly was connected with the State Department. His wife, the vivacious and attractive Lucretia del Valle Grady, who spends much too much of her time in their home in California to suit her Washington frends, knows shoals of people everywhere in general, and in Rome in particular.

HOPE R. MILLER.

A brief letter written in an interval of spare time she had in Mussolini's land describes a steady round of parties. "Rome has been so socially engrossing," she averred, "that even St. Peters has had to wait." Among functions they attended was the garden party given a couple of weeks ago by the United States Ambassador to Italy William Phillips, and Mrs. Phillips. A few days later, the Ambassador and Mrs. Phillips entertained 36 guests at dinner for the Gradys.

In the company were the honeymooning Walter Lippmanns, who are now in Paris after an extended stay in Italy. The Commercial Attache of the United States Embassy, Charles A. Livengood and Mrs. Livengood feted Dr. and Mrs. Grady at a dinner and the Military Attache, Col. George H. Paine and Mrs. Paine gave a tea for them. Mrs. Paine, as many of her Washington friends remember, is an accomplished artist and is devoting much of her time to completing some pictures begun since she has been in Rome.

Other parties arranged in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Grady included a musicale given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fulloni at their lovely villa in the suburbs of Rome. At this function, in contrast to most of the others the Gradys attended, the guest list was chiefly Italian and the entertainment entirely so.

An audience with the Pope just before they left Rome rounded out the calendar of events for Dr. and Mrs. Grady in the Italian capital. Prior to going to Rome they visited in Palermo, Naples and Venice, happening to be in the later city on Pentecostal Sunday when, as Mrs. Grady put it, "the whole countryside flocked to St. Mark's Square in the evening to enjoy Verdi under the stars."

According to present plans, Dr. and Mrs. Grady will return to Washington early next month, when Mrs. Grady will go on to Berkeley to spend some time, coming back to Washington in November to spend the winter.

* * * *

SOCIETY-GO-ROUND: The Attorney General and Mrs. Homer S. Cummings will entertain at a buffet supper Monday evening in compliment to Chief Justice and Mrs. James L. Coke, of Honolulu . . . Mrs. Harold Hinton will be among the small number of American women making her bow at the Court of St. James's today . . . Despite Ambassador Kennedy's stringent ban on American presentations at the British court, Mrs. Hinton "made the grade" because her husband is connected with the American Embassy at London . . . But Mrs. Hinton will be one in the group whose hair won't be dressed by a high-priced coiffeur . . . Shortly before leaving here she confided to friends that no one was going to touch her hair when she is dressing to be presented at court; said she was going to arrange her own locks and feather—no court hairdressers for her . . . As Mrs. Hinton's friends here know, her long glistening black hair enhances her loveliness no end . . . Probably there'll be no more attractive lady in the whole line-up than Mrs. Hinton.

Lt. Close, Fiancee To Attend Fete

Mrs. Katherine Fielding Phelps and Lieut. Forrest Close, U. S. N., who will be married tomorrow in Baltimore, will be guests of honor at a dinner given tonight by Mrs. Ellen Donahue at her home in Green Spring Valley, near Baltimore.

Lieut. Close returned early this morning by plane from a visit to his mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Bedford Forrest Close, of Savanah, Ga.

The wedding will take place at the home of John Phelps, father of the bride-to-be. After a reception the couple will leave for the West Coast, where Lieut. Close is to serve as executive officer of the U. S. S. Hull.

With several Washington notables aboard, the Batory, of the Gydnia American Line, sailed last evening for northern Europe.

Among the passengers were the Polish Ambassador, Count Jerzy Potocki, who will spend the summer in Poland, and the Czechoslovak Minister, Aladimir Hurban, with Mme. Hurban. Just how long the Hurbans wil remain abroad depends on the situation in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chapin Huntington, of Washington, sailed on the Batory for a motor tour of Europe, during which they will visit Latvia and other Baltic countries.

Emilio Garcia Godoy, Counselor of the Dominican Legation, has been named by his government Minister to Haiti, and will sail tomorrow from New York for his new post.

The newly appointed Minister's wife and family will remain in Washington before joining him the end of the month.

John F. Cremen, Jr., Will Be Married aSturday in South

Plans have been completed for the marriage of Miss Eleene Register, of Savannah, Ga., and John F. Cremen, jr., of Washington, on Saturday at the Cathedral of St. John in Savannah. The prospective bridegroom will leave today for Georgia.

Miss Regina McKeever, of Washington, will be maid of honor at the ceremony which is scheduled for 6 o'clock. Bridemaids will include Miss Frances C. Maggioni and Miss Lufred Brooks, of Savannah, and Mrs. James M. Carr, of Washington, sister of the bridegroom.

James A. Purcell, of Washington will be best man. Ushers will be Murray F. Sands, Burt Page Smith and Richard Kimball, of Washington, and Johen E. Lyons, Robert S. Register, Sydney W. Register, and William E. Register, of Savannah.

There will be a reception at the Hotel De Soto. The bride-elect's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Register, will greet guests at the reception.

To Return End of Month.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Casper Miller are expected to return July 21 or July 22 from a trip to Italy. They left early in the spring.

1,500 Montgomery Democrats Bolt as 100 Hecklers Yell 'No!'

Fifteen hundred Montgomery County Democrats last night confirmed the bolt of independent leaders from the regular party ranks at a riotous meeting in the courthouse at Rockville.

About 100 of those attending were hecklers who stood in the rear of the courtroom and with shouts of "throw him out" created such a disturbance that for a time it appeared it would be necessary to call police.

All seats and standing room were occupied and at least 900 persons followed the proceedings from outside the courthouse by means of loudspeakers.

Hecklers Shout "No!"

The hecklers shouted "no" to all resolutions, but it was apparent that a majority of those attending were in favor of an independent Democratic ticket for county offices at the primary.

Eugene Casey, of Washington Grove, president of the United Young Men's Democratic Club and leader of the bolt, was elected permanent chairman of an Independent Democratic Organization. Mrs. Marguerite Fischer, of Chevy Chase, president of the Democratic Women's Club of the county, was named vice chairman.

J. Somervell Dawson, jr., of Rockville, was chosen recording secretary, and E. G. Adams, of Takoma Park, corresponding secretary.

Pugh Scores Pact.

The meeting heard States Attorney James H. Pugh read a resolution scoring the agreement of party leaders to harmonize as a pact to "sell out, trade, or agree to sell out, trade and barter the more than 25,000 Democratic voters of Montgomery County by preventing . . . the right . . . to nominate candidates at the primary."

Another resolution put the meeting on record as not entering the fight for State-wide offices.

Meanwhile, Montgomery County Republicans were the only happy persons in the county as the Democratic schism grew. Republicans wore broader grins on their faces yesterday than in a long time.

Earlier, Robert Peter, Democratic organization chairman, accepted the resignation of Eugene Casey, of Washington Grove, leader of the revolting forces. Peter's letter indicated that he believed Casey's action in sponsoring the mass meeting last night was occasioned by a "sour grapes" attitude. Casey had resigned as a candidate for the Democratic State Central Committee on the organization slate.

The board of commissioners, meeting for the first time since the Democratic harmony agreement was announced, held the shortest session of the year.

Conflicting Rumors Spiked.

When the board convened the county seat was alive with rumors that Republican and Fusion officeholders would be dismissed wholesale.

The rumors were speedily replaced by a report Democratic Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, of Bethesda, an outspoken opponent of the Democratic "peace parley," had agrede to join two Republican members of the board and dismiss all Democratic appointees.

Neither threat materialized, the meeting instead being confined largely to banter between the Democrats and Republicans, with the lone antiorganization commissioner and former Fusionist, Clay Plummer, bearing the brunt of the repartee.

Magner told the board, "I am not going to join with the Republicans, and I am not going to vote against the Democratic organization, but I certainly am not going to campaign for a ticket that has Fusion Democrats as candidates. I will not vote against it, but I will not work for it and I will not contribute one cent to the campaign."

Peter's Letter to Casey.

Chairman Peter's letter to Casey, mailed yesterday, read:

"I received your telephone call yesterday, informing me that you desire to withdraw from the Democratic organization ticket, for the office of a member of the Democratic State central committee, and, of course, if this be your pleasure, it is hereby accepted.

"It was no surprise, as it has been generally known for some time that your sympathies have been elsewhere. It has also been generally known and discussed that you have been keenly disappointed since my election as chairman of the Democratic organization committees by a county congress consisting of approximately 500 Democrats from every section of the county, feeling that you, yourself, would like to take over the leadership of our party in this county. My understanding is that you are 32 years of age and have resided in the county about six years, and it is not unreasonable to conclude that the Democrats of this county desire a little older and more experienced leadership than you now possess.

Charges Leadership Bid.

"I noticed in the press that you severely criticise the harmony move that has been made in order to try to present a united Democratic Party at the coming election, and it appears that you foresee in it a possibility of tryng to effectuate yourself as the leader of the Democratic Party in this county. The man against whom you now express opposition was supported by you in the last primary election against David J. Lewis, whom I now understand you are supporting.

"I also notice that you always, in press and otherwise, refer to yourself as president of the Young Men's Democratic Clubs of this county. Your constitution, adopted by the young men themselves, prohibits your participation in the primary, and it is apparent to the most casual observer that the primary has not as yet been held. The purpose of the provision being to promote harmony and strengthen the Democratic Party in the general election. My predecessors, and myself, have always, and I intend in the future to co-operate in every way with the Young Men's Democratic Clubs and the Women's Democratic Clubs of this county.

Denies "Deal."

"The recent harmony movement was in no way a deal, but was an agreement reached by representatives of the two factions, promoting a feeling of harmony for our party. Those who oppose it can certainly not have the interest of the party at heart, but must have some personal ambition that they feel would be hurt by a united front in the Democratic ranks.

"They who care to follow your leadership in place of mine will, of course, make the choice themselves, but I intend to promote at every opportunity, any movement that has as its object, getting the Democratic Party together in Montgomery County, without any feeling of hatred on my part toward them who have not seen their way clear to support our party in the past."

Lockwoods Due Here This Fall

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sewell Lockwood, who had planned to visit the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall J. Gleason, in July, will not be able to leave London, where he is Trade Commissioner, until late in the summer. They will arrive in Washington on September 9.

With the last of the British "courts" scheduled to take place today and tomorrow, it will be recalled that Mrs. Lockwood was one of the few Washingtonians presented at the court of St. James's early this spring, her three year's residence in England making her eligible under Ambassador eKnnedy's ruling.

Before leaving for this country, Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood will have as their guests, in London, the American Trade omCmissioner in Batavia, Donald Smith and Mrs. Smith. The Smith's plan a visit to America some time during the early autumn.

Mr. Lockwood is the son of Warren J. Lockwood of the Federal Housing Commission.

Roy O. Brogdens Off to West Coast

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Osborne Brogden, whose weding took place last Saturday afternoon at Mount Vernon Baptist Church, are now motoring to the West Coast.

The bride is the former Miss Inez Coffee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Coffee, of Forest, Va.

The Rev. Willard R. Pierce officiated. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a pink embroidered organdie dress of period design with a picture hat. She carried a bouquet of sun glow roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mildred Waldman, her cousin, served as her maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a long blue marquisette dress and a blue horsehair hat trimmed with matching velvet ribbon, and carried roses and delphinium.

Dewey E. Boatman, of Arlington, Va., was the best man, and the ushers were Roy Fildman and Fred Booth.

Mrs. Brogden attended Blackstone College, and the bridegroom studied at Duke and George Washington universities.

At the Shoreham.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dickerson, of London, who are touring the country, are at the Wardman Park Hotel for several days. Other Britishers stopping there are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brooks of Nottingham, England, and Miss L. M. Marson of Coventry.

New Chevy Chase Home Being Built By Women's Club

Work is progressing steadily on the new clubhouse of the Woman's Club of Chevy Chase, which is to be dedicated October 19 according to present plans. The first meeting of the season will be held there October 21.

Although there is always an "if" in the completion of a building, the club members confidently expect their new home to be ready for occupancy by the date set. Already the foundation is up to the first floor, window frames are in place, the two fireplaces and steel columns for the auditorium have been set up. Every day sees interested club members stopping by to observe the progress of the building.

Mrs. Joseph Travers Maguire, the club president; Mrs. Frank A. Linzel, president of the building company, and the other members, Mrs. Frank P. Wilcox, Mrs. George Finch, Mrs. Frederick Kerby and Mrs. Harrison Fitts, chairman of the new house committee, are receiving estimates on equipment. These will be submitted to the building company for approval before purchase.

Rudolph Worchs On Nuptial Trip

Now on a wedding trip to Montreal, Quebec and other parts of Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Christian Worch will live at 713 Webster street on their return. Their marriage took place Saturday afternoon at St. Charles Catholic Church in Arlington. The Rev. J. A. Curran officiated at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Worch is the former Miss Marjorie Louise Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Reynolds Preston. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Rudolph C. Worch and the late Mr. Worch.

The bride wore a white satin gown made princess style with a high neckline and small collar. The skirt terminated in a graceful train. Her long tulle veil was edged with a deep border of Chantilly lace, arranged in a halo-cap effect and caught with tiny sprays of lilies of the valley. She carried a white prayer book, from which fell a shower of ribbons and lilies of the valley.

Miss Lilly Mae Preston was her sister's maid of honor and was attired in white mousseline de soie. Her poke bonnet of white net was trimmed with lilies of the valley and she carried an arm bouquet of mixde flowers. The bridesmaids were Miss Edna Cowell, Miss Anita Beauchert, Miss Doris Pursell nad Miss McDonnell and Norris Hardy, of Washington, and Franklin Preston and Howard Preston, of Arlington brothers of the bride. Following the wedding, a reception took place at the home o fthe bride's parents.

Miss Martha Merrill Slagel Bride of William F. Lemke, Jr.

Daughter of Pomeroy, Ohio, Couple Is Married to Son of North Dakota Representative; Newlyweds to Make Their Home in Chicago.

Before an altar decorated with white lilies and tall candles, Miss Martha Merriell Slagel yesterday afternoon became the bride of William F. Lemke, jr., son of Representative and Mrs. William Lemke, of Fargo, N. Dak.

The formal ceremony was performed in St. Alban's Church by the Rev. Charles T. Warner who officiated at 4 o'clock. The former Miss Slagel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Slagel, of Pomeroy, Ohio.

Given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Frederick K. Slagel, of Lexington, Ky., the bride wore a gown of white lace and marquisette fashioned on simple and gracefully flowing princess lines. Her finger-tip veil of delicate tulle was held in place with orange blossoms and she carried a white prayer book showered with lilies of the valley and forget-me-nots.

Sister Serves As Maid of Honor

Her sister, Mrs. Gilbert P. Walter, was her matron of honor and wore a silver blue princess frock. Her large leghorn hat was trimmed with velvet streamers to match her dress. Blue delphinium and yellow daisies formed her bouquet.

The bridesmaids, Miss Mary Lemke, of Fargo, and Miss Mary Gleason, of Washington, were both attired in costumes of pastel pink, and also wore leghorn hats with matching velvet ribbon. They carried blue delphinium and yellow roses.

Robert Lemke, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, while the ushers were M. E. Slagel, of Uniontown, Pa., and Gilbert P. Walter, of Washington.

Chicago Will Be Residence

Following the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert P. Walter the couple left for a wedding trip. They will reside at 1656 Juneway Terrace, Chicago, Ill.

The bride, whose traveling ensemble was of striped blue sheer with navy blue accessories, is a graduate of Wilson Teachers College and Columbia University. Mr. Lemke is an alumnus of George Washington University and is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

Bedtime Stories

Mrs. Snapper's Purpose.

Who from his purpose none can sway
Can hardly fail to have his way.
—Old Mother Nature.

Mrs. Snapping Turtle is not fond of the land. Neither is Snapper. They prefer the water. While they can walk on land and breathe air they seldom leave the water unless urgent business of their own forces them to. Snapper and Mrs. Snapper had lived a long time in the Smiling Pool, a very long time. It was home to them. They knew every inch of the mud on the bottom. They knew every stick and stone along the banks. They knew all about all the other folk who lived there. They made it their business to know.

They were not popular with the other folk of the Smiling Pool. Goodness, no! They were unpopular. Indeed, by many they were hated. Yes, sir, the feeling of some toward them was more than dislike—it was nothing short of hate. There had been many disappearances in the Smiling Pool and too often Snapper or Mrs. Snapper had afterward been discovered in the neighborhood where one of these disappearances had occurred.

She forced her way through the grass, leaving a flattened path behind her.

They spent most of their time doing nothing. At least they seemed to be doing nothing. As a matter of strict fact they were lying in wait for the careless and the unwary. Also there are many people of many kinds in the Great World who are given to doing that very thing. They did little honest hunting for their living. Now and then when an innocent little duckling would swim overhead Snapper or Mrs. Snapper would silently rise beneath the young swimmer and it would disappear. That was about the extent of the hunting that the Snappers did. It was much easier to lie buried in the mud, all but the head, with neck drawn back for someone to unsuspectingly and unseeingly swim within reach. Then a lightning-like dart of that long neck and head and a fish or a frog would be seen no more. Snapper the Turtle and Mrs. Snapper prefer to have food come to them to going after it.

But there is one time in every year when the Smiling Pool will not provide Mrs. Snapper with what she needs. There is one time—it is in early summer—when Mrs. Snapper simply must go ashore. She has business that requires a journey on land. At least it is a journey for her. She must find a place to lay eggs. If she lays them in the water they will not hatch. No, sir, the water will not do at all for those eggs. She, who spends practically all her life in water, must lay her eggs on land, and Mrs. Toad, who spends most of her life on land, must lay her eggs in water. Sometimes this seems like a topsy-turvy world, doesn't it?

It happened that the very morning that Sue had chosen to visit the Smiling Pool was the one that Mrs. Snapper had chosen for her annual journey ashore. This is how it happened that they met. It wasn't Mrs. Snapper who stepped aside. No, indeed. She had no intention of stepping aside for any one. It was Sue who stepped aside, and she did it in a hurry. With a parting hiss Mrs. Snapper moved on. Sue didn't know what it was all about, but she did know that from the determined manner in which Mrs. Snapper moved along that she had a purpose and didn't intend to allow anything to interfere with that purpose.

She hesitated a bit. Then curiosity overcame timidity and she followed at a safe distance. "I haven't the least idea where that Turtle is going, but it certainly is on its way," said Sue to herself. You see, for all she knew this might be Mr. Snapper instead of Mrs. Snapper. "I should hate to try to stop the hateful thing. It looks as if it could bite a nail in two. It looks positively dangerous."

Mrs. Snapper was dangerous. She might not have been able to bite a nail in two, but she could easily have bitten off one of Sue's dainty fingers in a single snap. And she would have done it had one of those fingers come within reach.

She forced her way through the grass, leaving a flattened path behind her. It was hard going, but she persisted. She crawled through some bushes. She came to a piece of newly plowed land. She made her way with difficulty along one of the furrows for some distance. A couple of times she stopped for a moment to scratch at the side of the furrows, then went on. She climbed over into another furrow and pushed her way along this. At last she stopped.

Judge Sustains Special Election At Alexandria

16 Voters Lose Suit to Set Aside Charter Amendment Poll.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Temple 3767
Delivery Service, phone Alex. 1400.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy, acting for Judge William P. Woolls, in corporation court yesterday dismissed a petition to set aside a special election last June 14, on the grounds that there is no special statutory authority for a contest of a referendum election.

Judge Woolls disqualified himself in the case, as he had voted in the election, and requested Judge McCarthy to hear the arguments for him.

Attorney J. Randall Caton filed the suit, signed by 16 voters who claimed to have been disqualified illegally in the election. Defendants were represented by Attorneys Charles Henry Smith and Armistead L. Boothe.

The amendment to the city charter adopted in the recent election provides for the election of the city collector and city attorney on November 8, and at the regular municipal election the second Tuesday in June, 1940, and every three years thereafter.

Police Sergt. Fred Kaus yesterday staged a one-man rodeo when he caught a steer escaped from the cattle pen of the Southern Railway at Duke and Henry streets. The steer was taken from the train here to be fed, when it made a wild dash from the pen and across town.

Miss Dorothy Monahan will start a three-weeks vacation Bible School this morning at 10 o'clock, in the Full Gospel Tabernacle, 300 block King street. Classes will be held daily from 10 a. m. to 12.

Teachers will include Miss Marsland Penn, Mrs. George James, Miss Evelyn Smith, Mrs. Allen Smith, Mrs. Everett Reeves and Mrs. Walter Rogers.

Miss Anne Duborg and Mrs. I. Clark will conduct a class for mothers.

Prince Georges Board Praises Bridge Project

Commissioners Unanimous in Resolution for Potomac Span.

Unanimous support of a proposal to construct a bridge across the Potomac River, from Charles County, Md., to Dahlgren, Va., was voted yesterday by the county commissioners of Prince Georges County, Md.

Two members, Joseph H. Blandford and Capt. Vinton D. Cockey, were named to represent the board at hearings to be held July 15 at the Washington district Army engineer's office, to discuss the bridge.

The county commissioners yesterday adopted a resolution favoring the bridge both for its value in peace and its potential necessity in war time.

One application for a dancing permit was denied by the commissioners, while action on a second was postponed for a week.

The permit denied was that sought by Frank L. Holmes for a dance hall in North Brentwood, Md. A petition bearing the names of 60 citizens, including several town officials, who opposed granting of the license was presented to the commissioners. Application of James H. Lee, for a dance license for the Star Light Inn, in Berwyn, was continued for a week.

Virginia Employment In June Shows Climb

Richmond, Va., July 5 (AP).—Employment in Virginia manufacturing, construction and commercial enterprises increased in June as compared with May, but fell short of employment in June a year ago, reported today on the basis of occupational accidents.

Increases over May were: Manufacturing, 15.5 per cent; commerce, 14, and construction, 11.7. Decreases from June last year were: Manufacturing, 23; commerce, 19, and construction, 5.

Art Board Waives Building Assent

Richmond, July 5 (AP).—The Virginia Highway Department instructed contractors today to proceed with construction of offices for resident engineers at Louisa, Bedford, Warrenton, Halifax and King George.

After bids had been received, the department was notified by the State art commission that the latter agency would have to approve the plans before the offices, first to be built by the State, could be erected.

Upon being informed by Chief Engineer C. S. Mullen that construction costs would increase if there was delay, Chairman Phillip N. Stern, of the art commission, agreed that the projects could proceed.

Fairfax School Building Is Set To Start Soon

Supervisors, Board Act to Begin Program in Next Eight Weeks.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. BOX 345, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Falls Church 2088-M.

A school building program totaling $375,000 will be launched in Fairfax County in the next eight weeks as the result of the action of the county board of supervisors and the county school board in a joint meeting yesterday.

The program will be financed by a PWA grant of $189,000 allocated on June 22. The balance of $206,000 will be obtained from the State Literary Loan Fund. The school board already has $82,000 in literary loan funds approved with which to match $67,000 of the PWA grant. Under Federal regulations the project must be completed within the next 12 months.

The supervisors yesterday voted permission to the school board to borrow an additional $124,000 from the State literary fund to match the balance of the grant. Miss Edith Rogers, supervisor from Dranesville magisterial district, bitterly opposed the project, declaring that according to the present assessed valuation the present maximum school levy of $1.25 may not be enough to run the schools and repay the indebtedness and the supervisors would then be forced to supplement school funds by an appropriation from the general county fund.

Plan Opposition.

Commonwealth's Attorney Paul E. Brown ruled that under the State law the school levy could be supplemented by an appropriation by the supervisors, from available county funds. Supervisor D. W. Buckley of Centerville district also voted against the project.

A resolution adopted by the school stated the additional funds would be spent for the erection of a Woodlawn High School, to cost approximately $100,000, and elementary schools at Dunn Loring, $50,000; Burke, $30,000; Fairview, $30,000 and colored schools at Vienna, $6,000; Gum Springs, $4,000; East Woodford, $2,000, and Merrifield, $3,000.

Included in the project and previously approved by the two boards will be additions to the elementary schools at Annandale, Franconia, Groveton, Herndon, Chesterbrook and Fairfax High School, which will total $149,000.

The $124,000 State literary loan approved yesterday will require payment of $4,133 principal annually and interest of $4,960 for the first year, which will decrease annually.

The borrowing of $206,000 to match the $169,000 PWA grant will bring the total indebtedness of the county for school purposes to $412,940, County Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson told the two boards yesterday.

The Fairfax County School Board yesterday re-eleted Trustee John T. DeBell, of Centerville, chairman; Mrs. Mildred L. Finks, trustee from Mount Vernon district, vice chairman, and Superintendent Woodson as clerk.

The regular meeting date of the board was set as the fifth day of each month, except when that date falls on a legal holiday, Sunday, or the first Wednesday of each month, which is the meeting date of the county board of supervisors. In such cases the meeting will be held the following day.

It was voted that the school board would continue to distribute school books to the pupils under the same arrangement as has been followed in the past 10 years.

McGrath Heads Welfare Board For Arlington

New Body of Three Will Pick Superintendent by September.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Clarendon, Va., Tel. OXford 0500.

Hugh J. McGrath yesterday was elected chairman of the new county welfare board at its organization meeting at courthouse.

The board of three members, replacing the five member board in accordance with the new State welfare setup, is composed of Chairman McGrath, Mrs. Dorothy Dunn and George A. Collier. Mrs. Dunn was appointed for a term of three years, McGrath, two years and Collier one year.

The new board will consider old age pensions and care of the blind until September when they will take over all county welfare work.

Sometime between now and September 1, the board will appoint the superintendent of welfare from an eligible list furnished by the State Welfare Department.

Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, who has been superintendent of welfare for a number of years, has accepted a temporary appointment until that time.

Building Increased.

Records released yesterday by the department of buildings here show operations for the first six months of this year exceed those of the same period last year by $970,788, an increase of 33.51 per cent.

During 1938 so far, the records show a total of 893 permits for new construction representing an expenditure of $3,867,283. For the same period last year there were 725 permits issued representing an outlay of $2,896,495.

During last month, the records show a total of 198 permits for new construction, representing an outlay of $684,368, of which 116 permits were for family dwellings costing $613,450; 5 business properties costing $41,900, alterations to old property, 37 permits costing $22,038, and 31 garages costing $6,980. Records for June of last year show a total of 105 permits for new construction representing an expenditure of $393,822, which shows an increase for the month of $290,546.

Error Corrected.

In an article appearing in yesterday's Post, entitled "Smith Partisans Plan Arlington Primary Drive," it was erroneously stated that the Democratic Executive Committee of Arlington County is co-operating with the Smith Campaign Committee. Charles R. Fenwick, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, stated that under the rules of the committee and the party plan, the executive committee, as such, can support no candidate prior to the primary.

The Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution is being represented at the Institute of Public Affairs at Charlottesville by the following delegates: Mrs. Robert E. Johnson, regent; Mrs. William E. Williams, organizing regent; Mrs. Carl D. Crist, Miss Myrtle Rose, and Mrs. J. W. Palmer, jr.

Announcement was made yesterday at the Arlington Postoffice of the appointment of John J. White as foreman of letter carriers.

White was born in Keesville, N. Y. He served in the World War with Troop 8, Second United States Cavalry, and saw active service in France, Belgium and Germany.

Returning to the United States, he passed a Civil Service examination for letter carrier and served in Washington Postoffice from October 20, 1920 to January 1, 1921, when he was transferred to the Clarendon office.

The Edward Douglas White Council, No. 2473, Knights of Columbus, meet tomorrow night in its clubrooms on North Washington Boulevard at Clarendon.

Final action on proposed amendments to the by-laws will take place at the meeting tonight of the Arlington Fire Department in the firehouse.

Foreign Markets.

By the Associated Press.

London, July 5.—The stock market opened much quieter today, awaiting the resumption of business in Wall street, but became more active and firm during the afternoon. Industrials sold higher and the mining section was also firm. Rubber and oil shares reacted slightly and coppers lagged. There was considerable investment buying of British funds and American shares also moved upward. Domestic rails moved irregularly while German and Austrian liens continued their upward swing.

Paris—Price movements were irregular in the bourse, although the tone were generally firm at the finish of trading. Bank of France issue moved up 80 francs and Royal Dutch about 100. Rentes were in demand and closed 15 centimes down to 35 higher. Suez Canal declined about 300 francs.

Liverpool—Cheaper Canadian offers of wheat coupled with favorable European weather and crop reports and extremely slow milling demand caused wheat futures to sag and close ¾d to 1¼d down. Cotton futures were steady but featureless in early trading with some spot house buying.

Comdr. Galloway Funeral Is Held

Annapolis, Md., July 5 (AP).—Funeral services, with full naval honors, were held at the Naval Academy today for Commander Richard somers Galloway, United States Navy, retired, who died at his home here Thursday.

Commander William N. Thomas, chaplain of the Academy, conducted the services from the Academy chapel. Burial was in the Academy Cemetery, near the graves of Commander Galloway's father and mother.

Suspect Is Seized In Virginia Slaying

Bowling Green, Va., July 5 (AP).—Commonwealth's Attorney Bernard Mahon said today he was holding Harry Curry, 35, colored, of Mica, Caroline County, for the slaying of William Richardson, 47, colored, of Bowling Green, at a house near here Sunday night.

Mahon said investigation revealed that Curry allegedly struck Richardson in the head with a brick following a row over a woman. He died instantly.

Burial Set Today For Mrs. M. J. Birch

The Rev. H. A. Kester will officiate at funeral services at 3 p. m. today for Mrs. Mary J. Birch, 92, who died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hetty M. Cleven, 610 Ninth street northeast. They will be held at Congress Street Methodist Protestant Episcopal Church, with burial in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Birch was born near Leesburg, Va., and came here 68 years ago. Survivors, besides the daughter, are a son, J. Arthur Birch, and a sister, Mrs. Mandy Trammell.

Felons, Irked at Food, Subdued in Va. Jail

Richmond, Va., July 5 (AP).—Seventeen prisoners awaiting transfer to Federal prisons became unruly today when served sandwiches for breakfast in the Henrico County jail.

Sheriff T. Wilson Seay promptly placed eight of the men in solitary confinement.

Law Obstructs Police Increase In Montgomery

Welsh Tells Board Force Is Limited to Its Present Size by Statute.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9213 Clark Ave., Silver Spring, Md.
Telephone SHepherd 4200.

Statutory provisions apparently block any method of increasing the Montgomery County police force, F. Barnard Welsh, counsel to the board of county commissioners, told the board yesterday at its weekly meeting in Rockville.

Welsh said a perusal of the statute books disclosed that the police force is limited to 31 men, the size of the present force.

The only possible remedy, he said, appears to be to have the county sheriff appoint a number of deputies throughout the county. However, he pointed out, the law does not permit the county to pay salaries to the deputy sheriffs, who receive their compensation in fees only. Since a large part of the police work would be of a type not likely to produce fees, the board expressed doubt that satisfactory men could be secured for such appointments.

A petition of Charles F. Miller for rezoning from residential "A" to commercial "D" of a tract of land west of Wisconsin avenue and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad tracks in Bethesda, failed when the four members of the board present split on the motion. Commissioners Robert D. Hagner and Richard H. Lansdale, Democrats, voted against the petition, while Republican Commissioners Frank H. Karn and Paul M. Coughlan voted to grant the plea. The petition previously had been disapproved by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Mrs. Alice Lyddane, president of the Takoma Park Women's Democratic Organization Club, yesterday announced that the newly formed group has been accepted as a member of the United Women's Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

Plans for the second of a series of bingo parties for Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church, Takoma Park, Md., will be made at a business meeting of the Boosters Club today at 8 p. m. at the church hall, Ethan Allen and Jackson avenues. The party will be held July 15 at the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department Hall, on Carroll avenue.

Another step in the campaign of the transportation committee of the Central Committee of the Eastern Suburban Area toward securing more adequate bus transportation in the Silver Spring area will be taken tomorrow night when the committee will meet with D. J. Locke, staff engineer of the Capital Transit Co., at the Liquor Control Board Building. Walter C. DeGroot, chairman, said yesterday Mr. Locke was expected to divulge then what his company had agreed to in a program submitted by the transportation committee last month.

The program as proposed by the committee includes shuttle service on the Forest Glen and Four Corners buses, with a minimum 20-minute service; erection of a terminal at Georgia and Alaska avenues; establishment of a weekly pass and extension of certain routes, including a Dale drive belt line.

Turbulent Rio Grande Rapids Take Another Victim

Raging rapids of the Rio Grande wrecked the home-made boat in which E. R. Wakefield and A. S. Hunt, middle-aged Denver men, attempted to ride the unnavigated canons to Albuquerque, N. Mex. The wrecked boat can be seen at left. Wakefield is feared drowned. Hunt escaped the rapids and made his way through desolate and rattlesnake-infested country for help.

Over the Coffee

By Harlan Miller

CAPITAL CAVIAR: Col. Jimmy Roosevelt, of the White House secretaria', is one of the best dancers in the Capital . . . He's full of rhythm and, the girls say, has avoided the stiffness which afflicts many a son of Harvard on the dance floor . . . His wife, the magnetic Betsy, hides her face against his chest when she dances with him.

* * * *

Now that Elliott Roosevelt has seemingly criticized aloud, over the radio, some of Father Roosevelt's policies, all five of the Roosevelt children seem to be, in one way or another, aligned partially or superficially with the opposition.

Ambassador de los Rios . . . on scales

* * * *

Daughter Anna is married to a Hearst publisher; Jimmy, an efficient New Dealer, is anachronistically known as a conservative in the inner circle who sympathizes with businessmen; Franklin, jr., is married to a duPont, and John has a job waiting for him in the advertising firm of Representative Bruce Barton, a Republican Presidential possibility . . . Maybe this should restore confidence in the business heart?

"—on the scales together."

DIPLOMATIC DIDOES: Ambassadors Wang of China and Saito of Japan, whose countries are unofficially embattled in Asia, would weigh about 200 pounds combined.

Ambassadors de los Rios of Spain and Dieckhoff of Germany, at odds on the Iberian Peninsula, would tip the scale at a total of over 400.

If you don't believe it, get them on the scales together.

* * * *

Try as I will, I cannot concentrate on a radio program without doing something else, too, like reading or eating or shaving or bathing . . . but when the President goes on the air I try to concentrate completely on what he is saying, in search of the ultimate revelation . . . Last time I found myself a little fidgety. I couldn't discern whether he was in a conciliatory mood or a truculent mood.

* * * *

Finally I began to walk around my room, picking up things, hanging them up in the closet, putting them in drawers, and generally tidying up . . . All the while I was listening like a hawk, alert for every inflection, every delicate shade of meaning . . . When the President had finished I had the room completely neat for the first time in weeks, and was convinced withal that his speech was reasonably conciliatory. I suggest that some of those who get heartburn during a fireside chat try knitting.

* * * *

POTOMAC PIFFLE: Tommy Corcoran made one of his rare night club appearances recently as an extra man with a White House group . . . Senator Lodge, of the opposition, asked Maxim Lowe's orchestra to play the "I Married an Angel" music right after the John Roosevelts chose it as the theme song for their wedding . . . (Well, they like the same music, anyhow) . . . The 31 Senators who wore white suits on the last day of the session probably wouldn't think of making a campaign speech in a white suit.

"—the hidden ball trick."

That mystical quality some people discern in the utterances of some of the more tactful New Dealers is a political variety of the hidden ball trick. They have learned to their sorrow that too crystalline an exposition of what they intend to do and how they intend to do it alarms certain people who wouldn't object so much if it happened to them gently and imperceptibly . . . So there is a sagacious obscurantism invoked; the castor oil is half concealed, the syrup brandished under the patient's nose. The theory is that the patients are a bit childish and don't know what's good for 'em.

* * * *

At last some shrewd entrepreneur has stumbled across those dresses of the wives of the Presidents at the Smithsonian Institution and trotted them out in the form of paper dolls. These are authentic portrayals of what Dolly Madison and Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. Coolidge wore, and ought to give the young a clear idea of what the little women thought fitting to wear at great moments in the White House . . . Some of the dresses must have come to 'em in a vision, egad.

* * * *

When this Washington melee wears me out, I shall devote my declining years to a compilation of the wit, humor and comic bits found in the Congressional Record . . . Right now what appeals to me most is the famous speech by Champ Clark, which was read into the Record at the end of this session, as it always is. The gist: That it's a smart district which reelects its representatives to Congress steadily, year after year, so they may attain seniority, prestige and usefulness to their constituents.

What can the opposing candidate say to that?

Lewis Too Old For Race, Says Hungerford

Congressman's Bid at 69 Assailed by Rival Camp.

Aspirant's Allies Open Office In Time to Receive Blast.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, July 5.—Supporters of Representative David J. Lewis opened his senatorial campaign headquarters in a Baltimore hotel today, in time to receive a blast at Lewis from the rival campaign camp of Arthur E. Hungerford.

Kent R. Mullikin, Democratic floor leader of the House of Delegates, and reported a likely choice to manage Lewis' campaign against Senator Millard E. Tydings, opened the Western Marylander's offices.

Hungerford issued a statement challenging Lewis' desirability as a senator on grounds of his age. The Congressman is 69.

"The candidate must not only be a man able to withstand the rigors of a hard general election campaign, but also be able after that to champion the rights of the people in the Senate for six years. That is why I am running."

Eldridge Hood Young, manager of Hungerford's campaign, issued another statement asserting Lewis "is a fine old gentleman, 69 years old—should he be sent to the Sentae he will be 75 years old by the end of his term."

"President Roosevelt has stated that when a man reaches 70 years, he is too old to serve as a judge," Young continued. "Being a Senator is twice as hard as being a judge. President Roosevelt did not ask Congressman Lewis to run for the United States Senate in opposition to Senator Tydings. Congressman Lewis says so himself."

Tydings, against whose re-election Lewis is waging a "Roosevelt and Lewis vs. Tydings" fight, has had headquarters in another hotel here for some time. He is expected to open his campaign, probably on the Eastern Shore, early next week.

Death of Unison Churchman Laid To Spotted Fever

Leesburg, Va., July 5.—The first death in Loudoun County from Rocky Mountain spotted fever occurred yesterday when L. Hatcher Piggott, 46, died from the disease at the home of H. L. Keen, Unison, where he was employed. Piggott had been ill for a week. He is thought to have contracted the fever from a tick while unloading Western cattle.

Mr. Piggott was an active church wroker and superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School at Unison. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Leila Piggott, of Atoka; one brother, William Piggott, Middleburg, and four sisters, Mrs. Warren Kines, Atoka; Mrs. Robert Leith, Philomont; Mrs. Harry Hatcher, Middleburg, and Mrs. Virginia Piggott, Ashburn.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Methodist Church in Unison Wednesday morning.

W. Va. Youth Dies As Car Overturns

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 5.—Arch Cameron Butts, 17, was injured fatally early this morning when the automobile which he was driving went off the road near Largent, Morgan County, and turned over. He died as he was being taken to Berkeley Springs.

Marvin Butts, a brother, with him was not injured.

The victim, a resident of Morgan County, was a member of the May graduating class at Berkeley Springs High School.

Blues, Grays in Last Retreat As 'Time of Our Lives' Is Ended

By the Associated Press.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 5.—Veterans of the Blue and of the Gray bade one another sad farewells tonight and started home from "the greatest time in our lives"—their last reunion.

Special trains bore the old Civil War soldiers homeward, leaving sectional enmities dead of the battlefield with the thousands who fell there 75 years ago. The happiness of reunion memories crowded out the thought that time is closing in and that the remnants of the once proud Union and Confederate armies soon must join their comrades.

Departing for his St. Louis home, John M. Claypool, 92-year-old commander of the Confederate veterans, exulted:

"I've just been tickled to death. I've been to lots of reunions, but never anything like this. I knew it would be good, but it turned out better than anything I could conceive."

Claypool and Dr. Overton H. Mennett, G. A. R. commander, declared they had the "time of our lives."

About 1,000 veterans, half of those at the reunion left for the West on the first two trains. The remainder start tomorrow.

A few veterans who needed rest before departing were transferred from the army's camp hospital to hospitals in Gettysburg and nearby Carlisle. None was in serious condition.

Almost $500,000 of the $1,126,000 appropriated to pay the bill for the reunion probably will be returned to the Federal treasury.

U. S. Representative Harry L. Haines, who introduced the legislation, said the appropriation was made large enough to take care of the maximum number who might attend. The official count was 1,918.

Md. Youth, 22, Hit by Trolley, Dies of Hurts

Witnesses Report That Victim Let Trolley Car Run Over, Crush Legs.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Hagerstown, Md., July 5.—Thomas Schroyer, 22, Myersville, Frederick County, died today at the Washington County Hospital here from injuries received last night near Beaver Creek, when both legs were crushed by a Boonsboro-Hagerstown trolley car.

An investigation of the circumstances leading up to the accident is being made by county police. Deputy Leister Isanogle said witnesses told him Schroyer had alighted a short time before the accident from a car bearing Pennsylvania license tags and went to the trolley tracks, lay down in a clump of bushes with his legs extended over the rails.

State Senator Lesner Dies; Active on Highway Bodies

Ex-Norfolk Postmaster, 70 Served as Legislator Since 1912.

Norfolk, Va., July 5 (AP).—State Senator John A. Lesner, 70, for many years prominent in the business and political affairs of Norfolk and Virginia, died today at his cottage at Ocean View.

Funeral services for Senator Lesner will be conducted Friday at noon. The Rev. Taylor Willis, rector of Christ and St. Luke's Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Sparks W. Melton, D. D., pastor of Freemason Street Baptist Church, will officiate.

He had been in poor health since December, when he suffered a stroke.

Senator Lesner served as postmaster at Norfolk during the World War. He was president of the Federal Mutual Savings & Loan Association here and was formerly president of the Tidewater Automobile Association. He was first elected to the State Senate from Norfolk County in 1912 and had served continuously since 1923 as a member of that body from Norfolk City.

During his first term in the Senate, ending in 1912, he supported the first appropriations made by the General Assembly of Virginia for State road work, and he took an active interest throughout his legislative career, in highway improvements.

During an active public life he served at various times as director of the American Automobile Association, the Virginia Good Roads Association, Virginia State Automobile Association, the Bankhead National Highway Association, the Norfolk-Elizabeth City Highway Association and president of the Norfolk Board of Trade and the City Planning Commission. He was a director of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem and a member of the executive committee of the United States Building and Loan League.

Surviving besides his wife, Mrs. Rose Lesner, are a stepson, L. C. Isaacs; a brother, William H. Lesner; one half-sister, Mrs. Amy King; three half brothers, Fred K., Charles B. and Edward D. Lesner, all of Norfolk.

Baltimore Names New Vice Squad

Baltimore, July 5 (AP).—Investigation of widespread vice and gambling reported following a survey ordered by a citizens' committee was placed tonight in the hands of a special seven-man plain clothes squad.

The squad was named today by Police Commissioner William P. Lawson, and placed under the command of Capt. Joseph Itzel, who was relieved as commander of the central police district.

Lawson said the squad would investigate all "confidential complaints," especially those relating to vice and gambling. The squad will begin work, he said, as soon as he receives a key to the committee's report, giving names and address not listed in the report itself.

Luray Moves to Acquire Land for Water Supply

Special Dispatch to The Post

Luray, Va., July 5.—The town of Luray has served notice on Misses Barbara and Mary Hite, of Spring Farm, 2 miles east of Luray, that on July 25 they will ask for a commission to condemn a portion of their land and springs located thereon.

Rights to a part of the spring were purchased by the town some time ago from heirs of the Brown Milling Co., but the Misses Hite refused to sell. The town seeks to develop the site for a supplementary water supply.

2 Painfully Hurt In Md. Boat Blast

Salisbury, Md., July 5 (AP).—Two men suffered painful burns today when a can of gasoline exploded aboard the small motorboat they were running near the Camden street bridge.

The men, Merrill Shores, who was operating the boat in midchannel, and Mervin Bounds, leaped overboard and made their way to shore with the aid of life preservers tossed from a nearby freight boat.

'Bomb' Kills Md. Boy, 11; 2 Mutilated

Homemade Projectile Explodes in Cellar at Shad Point.

Brothers Suffering From Critical Injuries at Salisbury.

Salisbury, Md., July 5.—Benjamin Rogers, 25, and his brother, Paul, 15, remained in serious condition here today from injuries suffered in the State's only fatal "fireworks" explosion yesterday, a blast fatal to 11-year-old Douglas Brewington.

Young Brewington was killed and his companions critically injured while preparing a "homemade" bomb in the basement of the Rogers' home at Shad Point, near here.

Hospital attendants here said the Rogers brothers were "doing as well as can be expected." Officers said force of the blast tore off Benjamin Rogers' left leg and fingers of his left hand. His brother lost the toes of his left foot. Young Brewington was killed instantly.

Though the three were alone in the basement, officers who investigated said they apparently had been pouring powder from firecrackers into a piece of pipe, and that it exploded prematurely. The basement of the home was badly damaged.

Chemical Analysis Fruitless in Death In Creek of Widow

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Prince Frederick, Md., July 5.—State's Attorney Arthur W. Dowell last night admitted that he and others investigating the death of Mrs. Esther Lewis still are "up a blind alley."

Commenting on an analysis of the Washington widow's stomach contents, recently completed by a Baltimore physician, Dowell said, "There's nothing at all sensational in the report. I think there will be no arrests made in the case for some time."

He declined to say whether the analysis revealed evidences of poison. Police are working on the supposition that the woman was poinsoned or suffocated before being placed in nearby Lyons Creek, where she was found June 20.

Dowell indicated he would confer with State police and Washington officers tomorrow.

2 Doctors in Crash; 3 Sent to Hospital

Three persons were sent to Emergency Hospital with slight injuries in an accident yesterday at Glebe road and Lee boulevard, in Arlington County. Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Cobey and Nancy Hitchens, all of Frostburg, Md., were released after treatment.

Mrs. Blanche Price, 63, of Frostburg, remained with a fractured nose and right arm. Dr. E. C. Shull of Herndon, Va., driver of the automobile with which they collided, did not need treatment. Police made no arrests.

Several persons aboard a street car were shaken up when it collided with a truck in front of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. The truck was driven by Hugo Stribling, 25, of Falmouth, Va., and the street car by Joseph Hewett, 72, of 1349 Florida avenue northwest.

A colored man, William Thompson, 75, of 342 L street southwest, was cut about the head when he was struck by an automobile while shoving his pushcart in the 900 block G street southwest. The automobile was driven by Thomas Beasley, colored, 23 of 512 Twentieth street northwest.

Hungry Mother Park Leads in Attendance

Richmond, Va., July 5 (AP).—Hungry Mother Park in southwest Virginia continues to draw the largest attendance of all six State parks, reports to the State Conservation Commission show. The Fairy Stone Park ranks next in popularity.

Last attendance reports for the week ended June 25 showed 3,777 persons visited Hungry Mother that week, raising its season total to 11,804. A total of 9,229 have passed through the gates at Fairy Stone since the parks opened May 1.

DR. JOSEPH I. FRANCE.

Ex-Sen. France Given Divorce By Md. Court

5-Year Separation, Marital Discord Cited; Alimony Left to Future.

By the Associated Press.

Elkton, Md., July 5.—Dr. Joseph I. France, former United States Senator from Maryland and candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1932, won a divorce today from former Princess Tatiana Dechterey, the pretty Russian emigre he married in Paris in 1927.

The decree, culminating long litigation during which Mrs. France vigorously denied she deserted the former Senator five years ago, was handed down in Cecil County Circuit Court by Judge J. Owen Knotts.

The question of alimony, "if any," was held by the court for "future determination." France paid his wife $300 a month while the case was being argued and depositions were being obtained from Parisian doctors who treated Mrs. France during the separation.

She testified she left the United States because France "had to devote all his time to his campaign" for the Presidency and contended he refused to send her money to return from Europe.

Judge Knotts held the evidence showed a "large part" of the France married life was spent "more or less in a state of turbulence and discord." "Troubles and misunderstandings" arose soon after the wedding, he said.

Swedish Prince Visits Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., July 5 (AP).—Prince Bertil, son of Crown Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden showed a keen interest in the aviation activities of midshipmen today when he paid a short visit to the Naval Academy.

The prince, accompanied by an aide, Lieut Col. Gunnar Ekeroth, of the Swedish army; a secretary, B. G. R. Haeggloef, and Commander H. V. Bryan, U. S. N., representing the Navy Department, received a royal salute on his arrival and departure.

Capt. Milo F. Draemel, U. S. N., commandant of midshipmen, acting superintendent of the academy, greeted the prince as he left the automobile that brought him from Washington. The Naval Academy Band played the Swedish national anthem, a company of marines saluted and the academy battery fired a 21-gun salute.

New Highway, Potomac Span Are Proposed

Md., W. Va. Boards Plan to Ask $200,000 U. S. Grant.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Hagerstown, Md., July 5.—The State roads commissions of Maryland and West Virginia are planning to ask for a Federal grant of approximately $200,000 for a new highway and bridge across the Potomac River, which will connect the National highway (Route 40) and the Shenandoah Trail (Route 11).

An official of the Maryland roads commission said that about 5½ miles of highway would be constructed from the National highway at a point 2 miles east of Clearspring to the Potomac River, while West Virginia plans to build about 4½ miles of highway from the river to Four Mile Woods, where the new road would intersect Route 11.

The piers and abutments of the abandoned Nessles spur railroad would be utilized for a highway bridge across the Potomac, while the bed of the Western Maryland Railroad spur from Charlton Station, in Washington County, to the Potomac River would be the base for a section of the highway. The present St. Paul's road from the National highway to Charlton Station would be rebuilt and relocated in some sections.

The new road and bridge would reduce the distance for motorists from the National highway desiring to go south over the Sheandoah Trail, about 15 miles, and vice versa.

Engineers have estimated the cost for the bridge and about 10 miles of highway in the two States at approximately $200,000.

Application for a Federal grant for the proposed highway and bridge will be made within the next week, it was stated.

Alderson Crowded, Dallas Site Picked For Women's Jail

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings yesterday announced he has decided upon a site near Dallas, Tex., for a new $1,700,000 Federal prison for women.

Acquisition of the land is now in process and construction will be started as soon as the transfer of title is made. The institution's annual pay roll will be more than $300,000.

Cummings said the new prison will house 500 women, enabling the Government to provide for a large number of Federal offenders now in State and municipal jails and reformatories because they cannot be accommodated at the Federal Industrial Institution for Women at Alderson, W. Va.

Vander Meer, Gomez Clash Today in All-Star Tilt

Sports | The Washington Post | Sports

16 WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY, JULY 6, 1938 ***

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 5. All-Star stuff and things: Bill Terry, looking not a bit enthusiastic over his job of managing the National League entry, walked into a roomful of baseball writers at All-Star headquarters today and said he was ready to announce his opening line-up.

POVICH

Then, without removing his pipe from one side of his mouth he went into a rapid monotone on the other side and rattled off nine names. Then he started to leave as if he had given quite all of his time that he could spare.

"How do you like the National League team, Bill?" asked some boy, by way of attempting to start a conversation.

* * * *

Terry stared him down as if a Terry-picked team was not open to any suspicion. Then he melted a bit. Perhaps he was thinking of his own light-hitting Giants with their certain weaknesses in both the infield and outfield.

"Well," said Terry, "I'd like to have it."

* * * *

There was some surprise when Terry picked big Ernie Lombardi, of the Reds, as his starting catcher rather than the reliable Gabby Hartnett, of the Cubs, or his own Harry Danning, of the Giants. Both catchers are rated far superior to the ponderous Lombardi defensively, and both can hit, though neither boasts Lombardi's imposing batting average.

"Lombardi's going to be my catcher and he's going to catch the whole game said Terry somewhat defiantly.

And, then as an aftermath, probably inspired by Lombardi's .362 batting average for the Reds in the National League, Terry added:

"If those American League pitchers can stop Lombardi from hitting, I want to see it. It will be nice to know what you can pitch to that guy to get him out. Every manager in the National League except Bill McKechnie will be grateful for that."

* * * *

Terry was a most charming personality later tonight. The chairman of the baseball writers at the game sought him out to learn what kind of credentials would be needed to admit newspapermen to the National League team's dressing room after the game tomorrow.

"No kind," said Terry gruffly.

"You mean everybody will be admitted?" Terry was asked.

"I mean no newspapermen can come into our dressing room after the game," said Terry. "Is that plain enough?"

Terry took the stand that inasmuch as the All-Star Game was not a World Series affair and was being played for charity, he did not have to grant any interviews after the game.

Manager Joe McCarthy, of the American Leaguers, invited the baseball writers to drop around before, after or during the game, if they chose.

Washington's Buddy Lewis, honored with a starting assignment in the All-Star game, suddenly discovered on his arrival in Cincinnati this morning that he had neglected to bring any of his favorite bats to the game.

For the Nats' young third baseman, who is particular about his bats, it was something of a calamitous situation and he went into deep thought about the subject.

"I know what I'll do," said Lewis as a bright idea dawned. "I'll use Lombardi's bats. They've got plenty of hits in 'em."

Lugging their bats to the All-Star game is one trouble that the Louisville bat factory, which manufacturers 95 per cent of all major league bats, saves the players. When the two squads report on the field at noon on the day of the All-Star game, there awaiting them are two new bats of his favorite model for each player—the gift of the factory.

Joe McCarthy, who as manager of the Yankees, is a confirmed disciple of batting power as rated against defensive strength, was ready three days ago to attempt to overpower the National League All-Stars with sheer slugging.

* * * *

He admitted today that until he learned that Detroit's Hank Greenberg would be unable to play in the game owing to a wrist injury, he had planned to utilize every bit of his team's power by playing Greenberg at first base and shifting Jimmy Foxx to third base.

"Never waste power," said McCarthy dryly. "Home runs are very discouraging to the opposition."

That there would be no Bob Feller—Johnny Vander Meer duel in the All-Star game was apparent as early as last Sunday afternoon when Feller was batted off the mound by the Detroit Tigers.

* * * *

McCarthy is definitely committed to Cleveland's Johnny Allen as one of his pitchers and is not tempted to use Feller despite the fact he is available.

"I want to use Allen and that means if I worked Feller I'd be using two Cleveland pitchers. That wouldn't be fair the way the American League race is shaping up. I wouldn't want any manager to use two of my best pitchers in the All-Star Game."

McCarthy revealed, however, that he had been prepared to employ Johnny Murphy, the Yankees' relief king, in addition to Lefty Gomez tomorrow if a late-inning situation had called for it. But that little plan was abandoned after McCarthy was forced to use Murphy in both games of the Sunday double-header at Griffith Stadium.

* * * *

Bashful Buck Newsom, on the American League squad as the representative of the St. Louis Browns, is hankering to get a chance to pitch in the game tomorrow.

"After Gomez and Grove get through with 'em, I'd like to show those National League semipros some real fast-ball pitching," said Buck, who hasn't changed much.

Ken Keltner's Fiancee

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

Evelyn Goniu, 21, insurance office secretary, smilingly admitted yesterday her engagement to Ken Keltner, of Milwaukee, rookie third baseman of the Cleveland Indians. Shortly after this picture was taken in her Milwaukee office, Miss Goniu said they would probably marry in a year. "Kenny gave me the ring Friday night," she said.

Maryland's Tracks Get 'Take' Boost

To Receive 8½% of Bets; Must Improve Plants, Aid Breeders.

Baltimore, July 5 (AP).—Maryland's four one-mile racetracks won a 1 per cent increase in their "take" from betting today, in a State racing commission ruling which specified the additional income must be used for racing and track improvements and aiding agriculture.

The commission, by its favorable action on a joint request from Pimlico, Havre De Grace, Bowie and Laurel, boosted the "take" to 8½ per cent, including the 1 per cent tax paid to the State.

"This increase . . . is desirable provided it is used in improving the quality of racing the tracks offer," the commission said in a prepared statement, "and in improving facilities for the comfort and convenience of the general public, the working force employed on the tracks and the horsemen who contribute so much to the success of any meeting."

"The commission refuses to consider favorably the increase in the mutuel charges as a method of providing means whereby any track may protect its present dividends or increase the amount paid to stockholders," the racing body warned.

The increase should mean between $250,000 and $300,000 a year to the tracks, based on past betting at the spring and fall meetings. Pimlico will get about $90,000 more, Laurel and Havre de Grace about $70,000 each, and Bowie $65,000.

Each oval should contribute $5,000 for "general agricultural and breeding purposes" from this increase, the commission said, with $4,000 to go to the State Fair board and $1,000 to the Maryland Horse Breeders Association.

The added "take" will become effective September 16, with the opening of the Havre de Grace fall meeting and will continue "for such time as the commission feels that the increase in revenue is being used in accordance with the understanding herein provided."

Everybody's Happy on Eve of All-Star Game

American and National Loop Rooters Gather in Redland.

By Shirley Povich.
A Staff Correspondent.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 5.—Those two old feudists, National League pitching and American League power, pick up their favorite weapons again tomorrow and blaze away with arm and bat.

This is what the sixth annual All-Star Game has again resolved itself into: The skill of National League pitching versus the destructive power of American League bats.

LEWIS.

And the betting odds are that American League power will, as usual, prevail. Bookmakers in Cincinnati's betting centers are offering odds of 8 to 5 that the American League will triumph tomorrow for the fifth time in the half-dozen All-Star Games. Twenty-eight thousand Cincinnati citizens who long ago bought up every seat in none-too-spacious Crosley Field will sit in on the proceedings. Cincinnati tonight is a veritable hotbed of big league baseball, with 50 hand-picked stars of the two big leagues, managers and coaches, congregated in local hotels and awaiting the morrow.

Line-Up Surprising.

Two pregame surprises developed today as Manager Joe McCarthy, of the American Leaguers, and Manager Bill Terry, of the National, announced their starting line-ups. Those surprises were created by the American League manager.

McCarthy strangely omitted from the American League line-up the name of Red Rolfe, his Yankee third baseman, and inserted Buddy Lewis of the Nats, whom Rolfe is outhitting by 20 points. And he chose as his lead-off man in the American League batting order, Mike Kreevich, the White Sox's .290-hitting outfielder in preference to the heavier-hitting Johnson of the Athletics.

It will mark the debut in All Star classics for young Lewis who, in his third season in the big leagues thus crashes into the hand-picked line-up.

Vander Meer Starts.

But overshadowing every other pregame topic of discussion is the name of Johnny Vander Meer, home-town pride of the Cincinnati club who has been named by Bill Terry as the National League's starting pitcher to take the mound against Lefty Gomez.

Vander Meer—the name is magic in National League circles—the 22-year-old southpaw, figuring in his first full season in the big leagues, is the No. 1 hope of the National League to end American League dominance in the All-Star clashes.

Bill Terry, who qualified as the National League manager tomorrow by winning the 1937 pennant with his Giants, left no doubt that the Reds' rookie would be his first pitching choice. He announced that fact early today at a press conference.

"Double no-hit" Vander Meer they now call the youthful southpaw of the Reds and he is the greatest sensation to burst upon the pitching scene in modern baseball history. A no-hit game against the Boston Bees and then, in his next start, a

Adamick Gets One-Year Ban

Trammell Barred From Ring for 5 Years.

Caicago, July 5 (AP).—The Illinois State Athletic Commission suspended Jack Trammell, Youngstown, Ohio, Negro heavyweight, for five years, placed a one-year ban on Jimmy Adamick, of Detroit, and handed out five-year suspensions to four of their associates today following a three-week investigation of a bout held here June 8.

The four were James Buchanan, Trammell's manager; Jimmy Brady and Jack Kearns, associates in the management of Adamick, and Tommy Walsh, connected with promotion of the bouts.

The commission ruled the bout, won by Adamick, no contest and ordered the license of Promoter Jerry Lavan revoked, but declared the $1,500 unpaid purse money, held up since the fight, should revert to Lavan.

The commission also indicated it would ask the New York, California and Missouri State Commissions, with which it has working agreements, to uphold the suspensions.

Temporary suspensions against Jack O'Keefe, Adamick's second, and two of Trammell's handlers, Cornelius Johnson and Jules Gonzales, were lifted.

At the same session, the commission suspended Davey Day, Chicago welterweight, until he meets Nick Camarata, of New Orleans. Irving Schoenwald, Chicago promoter, testified Day had twice been scheduled to face Camarata and had failed to meet him both times.

Budge and Mako Down Hungarian Net Stars

Budapest, July 5 (AP).—Fresh from their triumphs at Wimbledon, Don Budge, of Oakland, Calif., and Gene Mako, of Los Angeles today made a clean sweep of three exhibition matches with outstanding Hungarian tennis stars.

Budge defeated Otto Szigeti, 4—6, 6—4, 6—4 and Mako triumphed over T. Gabri, 6—2 6—2 in singles, and in doubles the two-time Wimbledon champions beat Georges Dallos and P. Asboth, 6—3, 6—0, 6—3.

Prince George's Wins.

With Lee Lodge striking out 9 and allowing but six hits in the opener, and Willie James hurling shout-out ball in the nightcap, the fast-stepping Prince Georges Athletic Club nine won a double-header from the Southwest Cardinals and the Anacostia Motors squads, 8-3 and 4-0, respectively. The tilts were played on the McGruder Park diamond. Cliff Edwards hit a homer to feature the day's stick attack.

Pros to Play Here Monday

Also Meet to Compete the '38 Schedule.

Cliff Spencer will play host to the Middle Atlantic professionals next Monday at Beaver Dam in a pro-lady one-partner tournament, without handicaps. Spencer is the first pro to hold a tourney this year with the handicaps discarded, although the other pro-ams where the professionals played with either handicaped men or women partners have been continually knocked.

The visiting pros will bring their own players, although Spencer can furnish partners upon request. It will be a selective drive, alternate shot tourney.

Amateurs are also invited to play with lady partners, in a special event of their own. A meeting of the pros to complete the '38 schedule will precede the tourney.

The Maryland State Golf Association Junior Open tourney, open to all boys under 21 years of age that are able to swing a golf club, members, junior members, unattached players or caddies, in the State is scheduled for Tuesday over the Roland Park course of the Baltimore Country Club. Bobby Brownell is the defending champion.

The first of the State association's mixed two-ball events follow on Wednesday at Manor, with a field of over 100 expected to play in the popular tourney.

The city will have one and maybe two entrants in the Western Open in South Bend, Ind., starting July 12. Billy Shea, District champion, will play while Harvey Johnson also may make the trip. Johnny Burke, intercollegiate champion and semi-finalist in the tournament last year, is virtually certain of competing.

Max Baer Hits Galento's Rating.

Little Rock, Ark., July 5 (AP).—The National Boxing Association's action in ranking Tony Galento, New Jersey bartender, second only to Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis "simply doesn't make sense" to Max Baer.

"I can't understand the association's action," the former titleholder asserted today.

"Two years ago they called me a playboy, a detriment to the boxing game, all because I had a little fun and didn't take training too seriously," he said. "I've quit all that and I've made a fine record in the last two years.

"And still they name Galento, who poses drinking beer and smoking cigars while training, as the No. 1 contender for Louis' title. It simply doesn't make sense."

1939 All-Star Game in New York.

Cincinnati, July 5 (U.P.).—The 1939 All-Star Game was awarded to Yankee Stadium, New York, at a joint session of the two major leagues late today. The game will be a feature of the World's Fair program.

The involved situation regarding broadcasts of major league games was discussed for almost two hours without any decision. The magnates voted to take it up at the December meetings.

Briggs Softball Team Is Winner

Ed "Fireball" Filgurski, relieved Chet Tarnacki and hurled the Briggs Beautyware team, champions of the softball world, to a 5-2 victory over the Dr. Pepper squad at Griffith Stadium last night.

Five thousand fans watched the Detroit aggregation get away to a one run lead in the first frame. Toviaggio singled to send Lipinski over the plate after Lipinski had been safe on a fielders choice and advenced to second on infield out. But Abe Rosenfield, Dr. Pepper's pitcher, was not in fault. In fact, he pitched a nice ball game, but errors afield hurt him plenty.

The local team came back in the third to tie up the game after giving up a run in the second. But it was walks and not hits that got the home team runs. Taracki suddenly went wild and before he was ushered out of the game had given up four consecutive free trips to first base.

From here on. Filgurski was just too good, and when Briggs shoved over three runs in the sixth, that was enough to clinch victory.

Vander Meer Happy to Be In Star Game

Rookie Pitching Sensation Calm Over News He Will Start Tilt.

By Arthur E. Patterson.
Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cincinatti, July 5.—The amazing sage of the southpaws, Johnny Vander Meer, hero of double no hit, no run fame, will add another and perhaps a brilliant chapter tomorrow afternoon when the New Jersey fireballer faces the greatest collection of sluggers he has ever opposed. Chosen to start for the National League against the American League's All-Stars, and Lefty Gomez, he has been honored as no other rookie in the history of the senior circuit.

When told that he had been selected by Bill Terry, Vander Meer took the news with the same modesty which has accompanied all his triumphs during this glorious first year in the major leagues.

"I consider it a great honor even to be on the team, let alone start it," he told your correspondent.

Ded he think he would be fully rested after his hard game against the Cubs Sunday when his nine-game winning streak was ended?

"Well, to tell the truth, I usually get better as the game goes along after a short rest, but I guess I'll be O. K."

Had he ever faced any of the stars who are in tomorrow's opening line-up?

"Yes, I've pitched against Gehringer, Foxx, Cronin and Lewis in exhibition games but those others are just strangers. Maybe it's just as well."

Vander Meer and Frank McCormick, the big first baseman, are the only rookies who ever represented the National League. Joe DiMaggio played his first year up and was something of the "goat" in the American League's only setback in Boston in 1936.

Two or three hours' discussion at the joint meeting held this afternoon produced the following:

A—Selection of the Yankee Stadium as the site for the 1939 game.

B—Postponement of further debate on the involved radio situation.

Lou Gehrig will be on the bench for the first time when play begins tomorrow. Jimmy Foxx's selection was a natural. Crosley Field's left-field wall, 328 feet from home plate, should be a most convenient target for the Maryland Mauler.

That left-field barrier, incidentally, moved Terry also to select Ernie Lombardi as his full-time catcher.

"If he hits one or two over the fence, O. K.," said the National League pilot. "If he doesn't, then I'll learn what to pitch to him to stop him. It may come in handy later on."

Queer thing about the big league standings at the July 4 turn is the fact that the first two teams in both circuits have lost 25 ball games.

The surprise starters were Kreevich, Lewis and Durocher. The managers had explanations for all three:

"Kreevich has a better chance to get a base on balls against Vander Meer if he's wild. Lewis is hot," said McCarthy.

"I need defense at short," said Terry.

If the seats were available tomorrow's crowd would be 143,000. That was the number of requests. Unfortunately, only 30,000 will be on hand with 2,500 standing room admissions on sale tomorrow morning. Speculators were getting $25 for a pair of $2 box seats, $20 for two $1.75 ducats and one broker sold a dozen grand-stand perches for $100. Another

All Nat Players May See Action.

Special Dispatch to The Post

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 5.—Manager Joe McCarthy of the American League All-Stars tonight hinted strongly that all three of the Washington players on his squad—Buddy Lewis, Cecil Travis and Rick Ferrell—would see action in tomorrow's game.

Lewis already has been named to the starting line-up at third base and Ferrell is expected to take over Bill Dickey's catching duties in the late innings. McCarthy hopes to spare Dickey, who is nursing a slight injury, from the full nine-inning toil.

It is when Mace Brown, National League right-hander, goes to the mound in the late innings that Travis is expected to break into the American League line-up at shortstop, replacing the right-handed hitting Joe Cronin.

Johnny Fallon Leads British Open With 142

Tops Defending Champion Henry Cotton by Single Stroke in 36-Hole Qualifying Round; Lacey, Whitcombe Find Trouble.

By the Associated Press.

Sandwich, England, July 5.—Johnny Fallon, 25-year-old Scottish internationalist, today took a one-stroke lead over Defending Champion Henry Cotton in the 36-hole qualifying round for the British Open golf championship.

Drenched and buffeted by a storm early in the day, Cotton beat par by a stroke at Prince's course with a 71 for 143, while Fallon, who went out after the storm had died away, shot a 73 over the same course to add to the 69 he posted yesterday at St. George's.

Cotton three-putted the sixth and seventeenth greens but otherwise played faultless golf.

A. J. Lacey and Eddie Whitcombe, first-day leaders with 68's, both scrambled out in 37 at Prince's and had even more trouble coming home. Whitcombe three-putted No. 17 and had trouble with his irons all day as he took a 76 for 144, and Lacey had a 77 for a 36-hole total of 145.

Perry Misses Chance.

Former Champion Alf Perry missed a fine chance to lead the field. Working on an opening 69, he went out in 34 at St. George's, then took 41 to get home for 75 and 144, which tied him with Whitcombe, Bobby Locke, the young South African sensation, and four others. Locke bogeyed himself to death in taking a second-round 75, missing a short putt at the thirteenth and topping his second shot at the twelfth.

Alf Padgham, another former champion, appeared sure of a spot among the leaders when he went to the seventeenth tee needing two 4's for his second straight 71. But he hooked into the side of a hillock at the seventeenth, finally wound up with a 9, and finished with 77 for 148.

The storm was so bad in the early morning that one pro reported lightning had struck his umbrella. But he kept right on playing.

Charles Whitcombe, perennial gallery favorite, had to battle to get in under the qualifying limit of 157 for the 72-hole championship proper. After his 80 yesterday, he started badly through the storm but managed to score a 76 for 156.

Americans Eliminated.

The two American entries, Page Hufty, of Chevy Chase, Md., and Ross Thompson, of Uniontown, Pa., were eliminated. Hufty added an 80 to his opening 86, and Thompson, with an 86 today, finished three strokes farther back.

The qualifying round leaders, with Royal St. George's scores given first:

John Fallon, 69, 73—142; Henry Cotton, 72, 71—143; Dai Rees, 71, 73—144; Bobby Locke, 69, 75—144; Syd Brews, 72, 72—144; Leonard Crawley, 71, 73—144; Alf Perry, 75, 69—144; J. J. Busson, 72, 72—144; Eddei Whitcombe, 68, 76—144; H. W. Hattersley, 75, 70—145; Norman Sutton, 70, 75—145; A. J. Lacey, 68, 77—145; T. B. Haliburton, 71, 75—146; Fred Robertson, 73, 74—147; Earl Watson, 73, 74—147; Arthur Havers, 76, 71—147; C. S. Denny, 72, 75—147; W. J. Branch, 71, 76—147; Cyril J. H. Tolley, 75, 72—147.

Japan Must Stage Olympics in Tokyo.

New York, July 5 (U.P.).—The next Olympic games in 1940, awarded to Japan, must be held in Tokyo unless that country voluntarily withdraws its participation, J. Siegfrid Edstrom, vice chairmar of the international Olympic committee, said in an interview tonight.

Edstrom said he was "rather sorry" that the games were to be held in the Japanese capital, but added that there was "no law that can make Japan give up the games unless she wants to."

Down In Front

By Richards Vidmer.

Fire Crackers.

New York, July 5.—There was a single sudden explosion that seemed to shake the house, a brief moment of silence, then all the vicinity seemed to be in a state of siege as there was popping and booming and whizzing sounds completely drowned out the chirp- of the early birds and other pleasant morning noises.

VIDMER.

The little visitor from across the seas sat bolt upright in his bed, listened with his head cocked on one side and his eyes growing wider and wider in mingled alarm and fascination. He leaped to the door and rushed out into the hall and collided with his sleepy-eyed host.

"I say, Gov'nor," he asked in awed and wondering tones. "I say, what is all the beastly shooting about?"

The man looked down at the startled young face before him and laughed, suddenly realizing that there are some holidays not celebrated in England.

"Why, it's the Fourth of July," he said. "We're celebrating America's victory over England. Ye see——"

• • • •

But he didn't have a chance to finish his explanation. Another small figure burst out of a door, grabbed the young visitor from across the seas and shouted: "Come on, come on! Hurry up and get dressed. It's the Fourth of July."

Both lads rushed into their clothes, the visitor somewhat dazed but quite ready to join in the obvious fun ahead. They rushed down stairs, grabbed a huge cardboard box and dashed out into the yard. There the American lad applied a match to a giant firecracker and hurled it into the air. As it went off with a terrific explosion, awakening the few remaining sleepers in the neighborhood, he shouted:

"Hurray, for the Fourth of July!"

• • • •

New Version.

"I say, you Yankees do take your sports rather seriously, don't you?" asked the little visitor.

"Why?"

All this beastly racket. Your father told me you were celebrating America's victory over Great Britain. Which one, especially?"

"Oh, yes," the American youngster replied rather vaguely.

He never had given much thought about why the Fourth of July was a day of celebration. Always he simply had taken it for granted as a day set aside when he could get up early, make as much noise as he wanted and go to bed later than usual in order to see the fireworks in the sky at night. But his father had said it was to celebrate America's victory over Great Britain, and he didn't want to appear ignorant before his little friend. His imagination went quickly to work.

"All of them," he said. "Every year on the Fourth of July we celebrate all our victories over Great Britain. See," and he selected eight firecrackers from the box, twisted their fuses together and set them off. As they exploded with machine gun syncopation, he explained. "That's for Helen Wills Moody. She just won the English tennis championship at Wimbledon. I fired eight of 'em because it was the eighth time she has won it."

He reached into the cardboard box again and flung a baby cannon cracker into the air. It burst with a deafening roar.

"That's for Helen Jacobs, the runner-up," he said. "She's an American, too, you know."

• • • •

The Big Noise.

He next took out a big red torpedo, turned and flung it up against the fence, where it exploded on impact.

"That's for Don Budge. He won the English men's tennis crown. I guess I ought to let a few more go off for him because he won the Davis Cup from England last year and it was after the Fourth of July." And another handful of torpedoes banged against the fence.

Next he reached into the box and brought out a great pinwheel that went "putt-putt-putt" as it went off.

"That's for Charlie Yates. He's a boy that comes from down in Atlanta and he beat all your best amateur golfers in the British championship about a month ago. It's too bad we haven't some of our best professionals over there now. One of them would be sure to win the British Open. now, let's see——"

• • • •

Again he reached into the box. This time he came out with a sky rocket.

"You're not really supposed to set off these until after it gets dark, he explained, but it seems to be the only thing suitable for Battleship, the American horse that won the Grand National Steeplechase.

And off it went, soaring high into the air, explodfng and sending a shower of stars against the blue background of the sky. There followed a volley of whizzbangs for the Wightman Cup team.

"And these are for the Kent School crew," said the American boy, bringing out a whole package of baby crackers and setting them off all at once. "Those are for the best 150-pound crew in the world. They beat everybody on this side and then went over to England and won the Thames Challenge Cup. Gee! I'll bet they're sorry they aren't back here to shoot off firecrackers,too!"

Bommerang Bang.

All the while the young visitor from England stood by with an expression of fascination that was rapidly growing into excitement. His eyes sparkled with eagerness and as his American companion paused for a moment, trying to think up another American vic-

Miss Clarke, Mrs. Miller Win

Field Is Cut To 15 Netters In D. C. Play

No Upsets Mark Matches in Tennis Tourney at Columbia.

By Jack Munhall.

Favorites, led by Defending Champion Edith Clarke and unseeded Mrs. Dorette Miller, who won two matches, each reduced the eligible field in the District women's tennis championships from 32 to 15 yesterday in first day play at Columbia Country Club.

Not a single upset was recorded as Miss Clarke, who is visiting here from San Diego, where she moved after winning the title last summer, and Mrs. Miller, moved all the way to the quarterfinals, and other choices easily won their first round matches.

Miss Clarke, who took straight love sets from Jane Summer and Edna Vest, and Mrs. Miller, who defeated Janet Maze, 6—1, 6—0, and Frances Carter, 6—3, 6—4, meet today at 3 o'clock.

Possibilities that Miss Clarke's crown would be toppled by a strong outsider faded yesterday when Virginia Wolfenden and Patsy Canning, California's fourth and tenth ranking players, defaulted. The girls, both top-notch and well-known amateurs, who are visiting here withdrew at the last minute.

The feature match of the day found Hazel Bishopp justifying her "dark horse" rating by outlasting Eleanor Fishburn, 9—7, 7—5, after more than an hour's play. Other winners were second-seeded Mrs. Margaret Robinson, who beat Margaret Graham, 6—2, 6—4; third-seeded Willie O'Steen, who trounced Harriet Williams, 6—4, 6—0. Elinor Finckel, who drubbed Barbara Conway, 6—1, 6—2; Margo Lee, Vassar graduate, who barely got by Jeannette Kantstorrom, 7—5, 7—5.

In order to allow every entry to play at least two matches the tournament committee decided yesterday to hold a consolation round today in which the first round losers were paired by a draw.

Yesterday's results and today's pairings:

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.
First Round.

Edith Clarke defeated Edna West, 6—0, 6—0; Frances Carter defeated Virginia Wolfenden by default; Mrs. Dorette Miller defeated Janet Maze, 6—1, 6—0; Willie O'Steen defeated Harriet Williams, 6—4, 6—0; Elinor Finckel defeated Barbara Conway, 6—1, 6—2; Kay Baker defeated Kathleen Klotz, 6—3, 6—4; Mrs. Margaret Robinson defeated Margaret Graham, 6—2, 6—4; Ella Owens defeated Gertrude Smith, 7—5, 6—3; Jeanette Kantstoroom defeated Margo Lee, 7—5, 7—5; Joan Bransford defeated Doris Rothwell, 7—1, 7—5; Dorothy Bender defeated Patsy Canning by default; Anne Dayette defeated Lisa Bloede, 6—1, 6—1; Edith McCulloch defeated Johanna Zetlmeier, 6—2, 6—2; Hazel Bishop defeated Eleanor Fishburn, 9—7, 7—5.

Second Round.

Edith Clarke defeated Jane Summer, 6—0, 6—0; Mrs. Dorette Miller, 6—3, 6—4.

TODAY'S PAIRINGS.
Quarter-final Round.

3 p. m., Miss Clarke vs. Mrs. Miller.

Second Round.

4 p. m., Miss O'Steen vs. Miss Finckel; 2 p. m., Miss Baker vs. Miss Bishopp; 3 p. m., Mrs. Robinson vs Miss Owens; 2:30 p. m., Miss Lee vs. Miss Bransford; 3 p. m., winner Ellis-Decker match vs. Miss Bender; 3 p. m., Miss McCulloch vs. Miss Dayette.

First Round.

11 a. m., Anna Ellis vs Charlotte Decker.

Consolation Round.

4 p. m.—Jeanette Kanstoroom vs. Doris Rothwell. Harriet Williams vs. loser Ellis-Decker winner and Dorothy Bender; Johanna Zetimeier vs. Vest. Eleanor Fishburn vs. Conway. Janet Maze vs. Kathleen Klotz, Gertrude Smith vs. Lisa Klotz, Margaret Graham vs. Frances Carter. Loser Ellis-Decker match draws a bye.

Black Snake Wins Unusual Race.

The Boy Scouts held an outdoor derby Monday, at Camp Roosevelt, which featured a free-for-all race, which was captured by a pilot black snake from the Nature Lodge. The pilot black snake was the entry of Cliff Curran, assistant nature director of the camp.

In the first heat of the day's festivities, Lightning, a fast-stepping turtle, entered by Bobby Grafton, of Big Horn Ranch Cabin, romped home the winner in a closely contested race. The second heat went to Big Horn III, entered by Jack Curran, who is also of the Big Horn Ranch Cabin.

Hunter Dyer's entry, Lucky, was the winner in the third heat of the day's program. Hunter Dyer is of the San Diego Cabin.

In the feature race, the free-for-all, the entries included a pilot black snake (the winner), a bull snake, some turtles, a collection of lizards and a grasshopper, which found the going too fast for his hopping legs.

Cards Undefeated.

The Cardinal A. C. Insects added another victim to their long list of victories with a 9-2 win over the Southeast Boys Club nine. McGraw was the winning hurler, with Coppage and Hampton sharing batting honors. The Cards are the only undefeated team in the Southeast Boys Club League.

N.B.A. Rating Makes Tony Galento Feel Tough!

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

In this rustic setting, Tony Galento, the pride of Orange, N. J., and probably the most colorful sports figure since John L. Sullivan, shows his feelings toward Joe Louis. The National Boxing Association rated Tony as No. 1 challenger in its ratings, announced Monday. The announcement was made the excuse for a party at Tony's bar and here is the two-ton lad himself with the taunting poster. What Mr. Louis has to say about these proceedings he will probably reserve until such a time—if and when—he gets Mr. Galento within the confines of a boxing ring.

Leny Manor Show July 16

Entries for Benefit Event Will Close July 9.

By the Associated Press.

Warrenton, Va., July 5.—Entries for the third annual Leny Manor Horse Show, to be held July 16 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ripley Buchanan, near Warrenton, for the benefit of the Fauquier County Hospital, will close July 9 with the secretary, Miss Jane Wilbur.

All riders, officials and judges of the show are under 21 years of age.

Miss Ellie Wood Keith, Charlottesville, and Miss Nancy Penn Smith, The Plains, have been asked to judge the events, which will include the following classes:

Saddle ponies, pony jumping, green hunter horses, pony hunter hack, children's hunters, pony handy hunter, handy hunter horses, touch and out ponies, working hunter horses, open jumper stake horses, open jumper stake ponies, high jump contest, bareback class, groom's class and a pony and horse championship.

D. C. Board Approves Tourney of 'Feathers'

Local Ring Body Will Seek N. B. A. Sanction of Turner-Ahearn Elimination Bouts; Belloise and Archibald Open Event.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

Recognizing the move as a good one, almost certain to inject new vigor into the city's sluggish boxing veins, the District Boxing Commission yesterday approved Promoter Joe Turner's plan for an elimination featherweight tournament, the winner to be recognized as the outstanding contender for Henry Armstrong's title.

The governing body even went a step farther to assist the promoter, promising to seek national recognition for the bouts from the National Boxing Association. If it is granted, the winner will get a bout with Armstrong, or automatically take the title in September. The N. B. A. has announced that Armstrong must defend his laurels by the time it convenes in that month or the crown will be declared forfeited.

Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn, who handles Turner's ring business, was jubilant when the District commission made its decision, for it just about guarantees successful shows for the remainder of the outdoor season. Most of the 10 ranking featherweights already are under contract to the Washington fistic firm, and should the N. B. A. approve the venture, the remainder is certain to come in for a shot at the title.

Ahearn plans to operate every Monday night at the Stadium, running an elimination contest about every third week until the winner is decided. That means the town will see plenty of small men over the rest of the summer stretch, with emphasis on the 126-pounders.

Mike Belloise and Joey Archibald lead the parade, going 10-rounds Monday at the ball park. Belloise was rated fifth and his prospective opponent tenth in the rankings released Monday by the N. B. A. Tony Dupre, Leo Rodak, Pete Scalzo and Al Reid are others already obligated to the matchmaker, and will be paired and spaced judiciously on the calendar.

Two heavyweight bouts were being considered for featured spots, but with young Jimmy Adamick's suspension for one year by the Illinois Athletic Commission, his proposed bout here has been cancelled.

Navy Crew Gets Fulton

Annapolis, Md., July 5.—Bob Fulton, who held the lines when the Navy crew won at Poughkeepsie in 1931, the last victory for the Middies in the big aquatic event prior to this year, will direct the work of the plebes this summer, in the absence of Buck Walsh, injured head coach, assisted by Irvin Peters and Hank Lee, of this year's winning varsity, and several members of the jayvee crew.

Walsh, from his bed in the local Naval Hospital, will supervise the work, however, and hopes to be regularly on his job later in the season.

Tomorrow was named for the reporting of the plebe candidates, but a great many reported at the boat house this afternoon, eager to get to work.

Candidates for the baseball nine of the second class began work under Max Bishop this afternoon. The squad includes Bob Wooding, varsity first baseman; Ralph Anderson, one of the catchers; Dick Niles, a promising pitcher; Dick Cady, infielder, and Sam Noll and Bob Clements, outfielders. The first game will be played July 16.

Plebes will be handled by Keith Molesworth. An inter-battalion series is now going on, and a class team, which will play several match games, will be picked later.

Bacon Takes Feature Race at Delaware Park, Pays $3.50 Mutuel

At The Post

With Bill Bennings

Dear Al:

Selections at Delaware Park.

I found almost everybody at the track today kicking themselves for not playing the hunch horse yesterday. Exploded, a long shot, won on Fourth of July. They tell me that 15,000 of the 22,000 customers here for the Independence Day program didn't sit down once during the afternoon. Looks as if the stands will be enlarged before the next meeting. The boys and girls really tossed in the coin, too. The wagering totaled $600,541 and set a new record. The previous mark, registered on the opening day of the track last year, was $490,072. The filly, Autumn Quest has been barred by the stewards. She tossed Jockey Robert Dotter several times before the start of the Delaware Oaks yesterday and then ran while Dotter's feet were out of the stirrups. The boy was lucky to escape injury, I'm told. The many friends of Eddie Hurley, turf writer and handicapper for the Boston Record, were shocked to hear of his death. Senator James B. Lattimer, of Calvert County, Md., was a guest of Steward William L. Harron at the holiday races. Jockey Ken McCombs has joined the benedicts. He was married to Jane Hibditch, of Havre De Grace at Bel Air, last Saturday night. R. J. Walden has sold the Maryland-bred fillily, War Streak, to Jim Kelly. Royal Roberts has been named trainer of the W. W. Vaughan horses. Chris Wood, jr., turf writer, claimed Nymph out of today's fourth race for $2,500. The game must be good up here.

Bill.

First race—Carlport drops back with maidens after running over his head. Seems nicely placed despite 120-pound assignment, and and I'm going to string along. James Pal has that recent smashing second to recommend him and is dangerous. Doplay is a fair sort.

Second race—Apprehend on general form deserves the call over this field. He is not consistent, but is the logical chaice. Spittenimage turned in a good race last out and could take it all. Broadstep for the show end.

Third race—The Brady-Mellon entry of Toolbox and Crooning Water gets the call in this abbreviated steeplechase field. Toolbox is the chief reliance of the pair and has been good at hunt meetings. Homesteader and Long Shot to complete the field.

Fourth race—War Moon lost his rider last out. He is in good hands, however, and has worked well. Needs only the right saddle help. Oak Apple runs good race. Xanthein won last out over cheaper company.

Fifth race—Bud's Bell is a student in this company. Needs only to run back to winning stake effort. Birch Rod was scratched out of an entry yesterday to take on these. May be dangerous. Cherolize to account for the minor award.

Sixth race—Dah He has given a good account of himself hereabouts and seems ready to add this purse to this string. Hypocrite has plenty of speed and looms as the one to beat. Brown Moth surprised the talent in that last and may be prominent.

Seventh race—White Sand ran a good second in that most recent outing and appears primed to win this. Golden Vein was third in the same race and should go well. Sun Antioch for the minor cash.

Eighth race—Pirate Lass has run good here and seems well placed. Lady Dunlin turned in a fair effort here and was a bear at Charles Town. Mischiefmaker for the third position.

Best bet—Bud's Bell.

Gelding Wins Third Purse Of Season

Chief Cherokee Finishes in Second Place Over Teddy's Star.

By Walter Haight.
A Staff Correspondent.

Delaware Park, Stanton, Del., July 5.—Favorite players wagered that Bacon would bring home the bacon in the outstanding race here this afternoon, and Bacon brought home the bacon—in the form of a $3.50 mutuel. In winning his third purse of the year and his first of the meeting here in the DuPont country, the veteran Epinard gelding led every step of the way and was running easily at the end of the 6-furlong dash. Operating in the colors of the Tall Tree Stable, Bacon stepped the distance in 1:13 1-5 and could have cut that time by a good margin if Apprentice Jockey D. Driscoll had so chosen.

Chief Cherokee, in the silks of Bobby Curran, of Silver Sring, Md., came with a rush in the last part of the stretch run to take second money from Teddy's Star, of Charles Town fame.

Following the reported jam of Independence Day, the 6,000 present fit snugly in this beautiful park and they saw racing conditions at their best. The track was fast, the sky clear and a cooling breeze came from over Atlantic City way.

Jockey Johnny Gilbert, tops in riders at this meeting, piloted the winners of the first three of the flat races. Added to his triumph in the last race on yesterday's card, Gilbert made it four in a row before being stopped.

The veteran, of course, brought home both ends of the $31.10 daily double which rewarded those who bet the "3 and 7" combination. In the first race Gilbert had the leg over Prospectus, a $6.80 shot, and the son of High Strung bounced to the wire two and a half lengths in front of War Streak, the favorite.

Gilbert then came back with Hal Price Headley's Superstition in the second race. The young gelding found conditions to his liking and took the measure of In Range and Sonny John, the latter the public's choice. Superstition rewarded the faithful with a mutuel of $17.70.

The third race was a steeplechase and Gilbert elected to stay in the jockey's room. Little Marty, remembered because he was disqualified after winning at Pimlico last fall, proved the best of a field of eight over the 2-mile course. The crowd recognized his ability before the action began, with a $3.50 mutuel resulting. Zadora was second and Wellstepped third. Gentleman Jockey Willie Jones, son of Trainer J. P. Jones, rode the winner.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PROSPECTUS, $6.80, $3.50, $3.10; WAR STREAK, $3.50, $3.10; REPELLER, $3.90.

PROSPECTUS disposed of SIS LOTTIE to get to front, drew out while saving ground entering stretch and easily held WAR STREAK safe in closing stages. WAR STREAK broke in tangle, moved up with a rush, was steadied along and rallied nicely in final test. REPELLER was forced wide for racing room after being away slowly.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place same. Went to post 3:16. Off 3:25. Winner, H. P. Headley's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUPERSTITION, $17.70, $6.60, $3.10; IN RANGE, $10.00, $3.30; SONNY JOHN, $2.40.

SUPERSTITION, not hurried in early stages, came to outside for racing room entering stretch, responded to intermittent punishment and won going away. IN RANGE, taken back while running head and head with leaders, came gamely when placed to drive in final eighth. SONNY JOHN was rushed to hold slight lead in midstretch, but weakened nearing close.

Daily Double, Prospectus and Superstition, Paid $31.10.

THIRD RACE—About 2 miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. Steeplechase. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post 3:50½. Off 3:52. Winner, G. Black's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LITTLE MARTY, $3.50, $3.20, $2.70; ZADORA, $7.20, $3.80; WELLSTEPPED, $4.20.

LITTLE MARTY, confidently handled, was allowed to settle into stride, moved up to be under restraint while close to pace, was kept clear of trouble while fencing nicely, took command on final flat and was running easily to hold ZADORA safe. ZADORA was rushed to front going to first fence, set good pace and finished under punishment. WELLSTEPPED saved ground while in thick of contention, moved up menacingly approaching fourteenth fence, but tired at close.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stall gates. Won handily; place driving. Went to post 4:20½. Off 4:30. Winner, R. Parr's ch. f. 7 Favorites Win in College Tennis

Outdoors
With Bill Ackerman.

We are noting for Marylanders, whose Department of Conservation is interested in fish propagation mainly as a commercial asset, the mid-year report of an inland State, Wisconsin, whose plantings are made to attract the sportsman, because they know well he is willing to pay many times the actual value of any game fish, merely for the right to take them, and in accordance with any reasonable sporting code.

ACKERMAN.

Aiming at a goal of 1,000,000,000 fish hatched and planted in her lakes and streams this year, Wisconsin has already exceeded that figure with 1,101,114,500 of various species during the first half of the year.

Particularly outstanding is the muskellunge distribution. This State has always led in propagation of this largest and finest of all freshwater game fish, and this season has planted 17,437,112 muskie fry. In addition, several thousand young are being held in rearing ponds for distribution as large fingerlings in the autumn. Place this against the fact that until a few years ago it was considered impossible to rear this species.

In point of numbers of fish planted, wall-eyed pike lead with 809,800,867; next in number, perch with a total of 213,467,520; while of the three favorite trout, brook, brown and rainbows, the number is 6,119,966 (mostly as fingerlings and yearlings). For breeding stock and later planting there are in reserve in state hatcheries and rearings ponds more than six million more.

Lake trout, primarily a commercial fish, was planted to the number of 20,815,816, northern pike 3,882,867, and crappies 20,896,095; while for forage fishes, several hundred thousand golden shiners. Others forage fishes, such as bluegills and minnows were not included in the report. Interesting is the fact that Wisconsin raises her planting on food made from her rough fishes, mostly carp.

A report from Capt. Applegate in charge of the yacht basin at Forked River, New Jersey to the effect that the school tuna are running in good numbers. In one day last week six boats brought in more than 50, weighing from 30 to 50 pounds.

Large schools have been reported off Seguin, Maine, headed inshore, and following the huge schools of herring, that this year have been thicker than usual.

There are a few rock showing in the section around Point No Point—one weighing 17½ pounds being taken a few days ago on rod and reel. Capt. Taft Tippett, running out of Ridge continues to get the hardheads and catches of seatrout, that are daily getting better.

The upper Potomac above Harpers Ferry, as well as all its forks and branches, supplies some of our best hot-weather bass fishing. Barring immediate rains, every stream will be in good shape this week, with plenty of large bass—to be taken, if you are good enough.

Reports from the south branch of the Potomac show that all streams in Pendleton County, W. Va., have been above normal, but are now in fine shape. Twelve Fork, and the water south of Franklin, will be all right today. In Hardy County, the South Branch is practically clear. South Fork, Lost River and Cacapon, all clear. In Nicholas, clear; in Pocahontas, clear but waters high, and the same in Jefferson County. In Berkeley, the Potomac is clear enough to supply good fishing.

So many vacationists, whom we sent to the State Parks of West Virginia last season, were so completely captivated in being able to get back to nature, while enjoying facilities approaching those enjoyed at home, that we feel it is almost mandatory to make note of them again this season. They have been open more than a month, and will continue so until late autumn.

The four major areas are Watoga State Park in Pocahontas County, Babcock State Park in Fayette County, Lost River State Park in Hardy County, and Cacapon State Park in Morgan County. Each of these areas offers to the vacationist cabins completely equipped for every comfortable living, with electric lighting, sanitation, linens, silverware, in fact, everything necessary with the exception of the food, which is obtainable at closeby points.

Each of the parks has miles of roads, picnic areas, and many places of scenic interest. The lover of the outdoors finds true delight in the miles of horse and foot trails, for they lead into quiet byways where deer, grouse, turkey and squirrel abide unmolested. For the camera enthusiast, here is an excellent "shooting ground."

One would have difficulty matching the quiet majesty of Lost River Park, with its stately pines and heritage of the generations past who drank of its white sulphur water, when the area was known as Lee Sulphur Springs.

Boating and fishing are completely enjoyable at Watoga and Cacapon, for each contain a lake whose sole purpose is one of recreation. Swimming and fishing are found at Babcock, lying in the heart of the gorge country, which is living proof of nature's serious handiwork.

There is a real demand for the facilities of the parks. All reservations must be made in advance through the West Virginia Conservation Commission, Charleston, W. Va. Full information is also to be had by writing the same address.

Only One Easterner Left as Tourney Reaches Fourth Round.

By the Associated Press.

Haverford, Pa., July 5.—Seven of the remaining seeded players moved into the fourth round of the intercollegiate tennis championships on the Merion Cricket Club courts today.

There was a hint of the unexpected when the seventh and eighth favorites were playing, but a close haul brought them through. Lewis Wetherill, of the University of Southern California, dropped a set, but beat Chauncey D. Steele, jr., of Columbia, 8—6, 3—6, 6—0, and William Murphy, University of Chicago, did the same thing before he could conquer Robert Peacock, of the University of California, 6—3, 7—9, 7—5.

Top-seeded Joseph Hunt, Southern California; Frank D. Guernsey, jr., Rice Institute, Texas; Julius D. Heldman, University of California at Los Angeles; Robert Kamrath, University of Texas, and Robert Harmon, California, won their third round matches as they pleased. Only one Easterner is left in the tournament—Joseph Fishback, St. John's University, Brooklyn, Eastern collegiate champion. He moved into the fourth round by a default.

Isadore Bellis, University of Pennsylvania, crumpled before the steady game of Russell Bobbitt, of Georgia Tech, 6—4, 6—3, and L. Gilkey, of Harvard, was pushed aside by Milton Ruehl, of Western State Teachers (Michigan), earlier in the day in a belated second-round match, 6—2, 7—5.

Three Races To Flemings

Three Entries Victorious in Grand Circuit.

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, Ohio, July 5.—Vic Fleming, former Canadian whose headquarters now are at Syracuse, N. Y., and his three sons, Charley, Jimmy and Billy, who serve as his assistants, made the North Randall grand circuit today a family celebration.

The Flemings sent three horses to the post and each one clicked. Lou Bell's Boy won the 15 pace. Nate Hanover took the $1,000 17 pace stake and David Glow was first in the 24 pace.

The success of the Fleming stable recalled the spectacular feat the elder Fleming recorded here last year by winning four races in one day.

Lou Bell's Boy took the first and third miles of his race for Owner T. W. Games, of Sherburne, N. Y.; Nate Hanover, owned by J. W. Gleason, Williamsport, Pa., who owned the former world champion trotter, Peter Manning, triumphed in straight heats, and David Glow, which belongs to Adam and Matilda Leipf, of Providence, R. I., scored at a mile and a sixteenth and then a mile.

The carded feature, the $2,650 Rainy Day Sweepstakes for 2-year-old trotters, went to Peter Astra, owned by Dr. L. M. Guilinger, of Andover, Ohio, and driven by Dr. H. M. Parshall, champion reinsman, in straight heats.

Peter Astra defeated Belmont Hanover by a length in the first mile and then triumphed by a head in the final when Nibble Hanover, leading by a length with only 15 yards to go, bounced into the air.

$2,193.60 'Double' Is Paid at Detroit

Detroit, July 5 (AP).—Taking the lead shortly after the field of seven left the starting gate, the Parkview Stable's Congressman made every post a winning one in capturing the $900 Oxford Purse, feature event of the day's racing program at the Fair Grounds.

Jack Dunn Ill In Hollywood Hospital.

Hollywood, July 5 (U.P.).—Jack Dunn, world ice skating champion, was in a serious condition in the Hollywood Hospital tonight with a streptococcus infection.

His personal physician, Dr. Edward Ruth, said he expected a crisis within the next 48 hours.

tory over the British to celebrate, the English boy hesitantly asked:

"May I set off one?".

"What for?" asked the American, then added, "sure, help yourself, if you can think of anything to celebrate."

The young Briton struck a match and before his playmate could stop him he had applied it to the cardboard box. There was a sudden sputtering and whizzing and banging and booming as the entire works went off. Roman candles, skyrockets, sparklers, firecrackers and torpedoes.

The two lads rushed to cover, the door flew open and an irate parent stood on the porch watching the conflagration. Finally when it had ceased and the last explosion had gone off and only a thin wreath of smoke curled up in memory of the day's supply of fireworks, the youngsters emerged.

"What in the world did you do that for?" demanded the parent.

"I did it, sir," said the little Briton, his eyes glowing and his chin lifted proudly, "it was for the English Walker Cup team. They won this year, you know, and they never have won before. I thought nothing was too much for them!"

Doyle Rates Griffs 12-1 in Flag Chase

Yankees Still the Favorite in July 'Call-Over'—Cleveland Is 2-1—Giants Are Even Money in National League—Bucs Are 5 to 2.

By the Associated Press.

New York, July 5.—A July 5 call-over on the big league baseball pennant derbies with all odds quoted by Broadway Jack Doyle, the betting commissioner who loses about as often as War Admiral:

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Team	Position	Games Left	Open. Odds	Odd T'day
New York	Tied First	88	7 to 10	7 to 10
Cleveland	Tied First	88	3 to 1	2 to 1
Boston	Third	87	20 to 1	4 to 1
Detroit	Fourth	83	3 to 1	5 to 1
Washington	Fifth	82	30 to 1	12 to 1
Chicago	Sixth	93	8 to 1	30 to 1
Philadelphia	Seventh	89	75 to 1	40 to 1
St. Louis	Eighth	88	100 to 1	*100 to 1

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Team	Position	Games Left	Open. Odds	Odd T'day
New York	First	84	8 to 5	Even
Pittsburgh	Second	91	6 to 1	5 to 2
Chicago	Third	86	2 to 1	3 to 1
Cincinnati	Fourth	88	30 to 1	6 to 1
Boston	Fifth	81	20 to 1	15 to 1
St. Louis	Sixth	90	3 to 1	15 to 1
Brooklyn	Seventh	86	50 to 1	*40 to 1
Philadelphia	Eighth	90	100 to 1	*100 to 1

(*) Means if you show Doyle the current standings of these clubs, he'll feel sorry for you and give you 1,000 to 1—and still feel sorry for you.

AMERICAN LEAGUE COMMENT.

New York—Despite spavins and listlessness, this Yankee hide has his nose right on the line. Jockey McCarthy is just beginning to use the whip. Looks like a bigger cinch than ever.
Cleveland—Going, going, going . . .
Boston—Will stay red hot till they hit Yankee Stadium.
Detroit—Just starting to run. Look out; still dangerous.
Washington—Strictly a second division sightseer.
Chicago—Still too many spavins; an unlucky hide.
Philadelphia—Will come again, but doesn't like the going.
St. Louis—88 games more and they can start all over again.

* * * *

NATIONAL LEAGUE COMMENT.

New York—Can't see what makes 'em run so fast. Due for plenty of trouble, but still the champ of photo finishes.
Pittsburgh—Best club in the league—has been for five years—but due for slump with the hot weather. Still a lazy hide.
Chicago—Can't get started, but ready to run to the moon. Still the danger.
Cincinnati—The next 10 days will tell. An entry capable of taking it all—if it can take a slump.
Boston—Should have been scratched June 1. Suffering from stringhalt, spavins and too much tape.
St. Louis—Pay no attention to odds. This one still is capable of a great rush. Too much power to stay in second division long.
Brooklyn—All is chaos. This hide ready to run wrong way any day now. Baffled by the stretch turns.
Philadelphia—Running in new home park won't do any good except fool some ivory buyers looking for pitchers and home run hitters.

American and National Loop All-Stars Will Clash Today

Star

second consecutive no-hit game against the Brooklyn Dodgers, sealed the fame of the moderate-sized left-hander who reigned as the strike-out king of the minor leagues before he brought his terrific speed and wide-sweeping curve to the Reds.

Manager Joe McCarthy was almost as quick to announce that Lefty Gomez, of his Yanks, would start for the American Leaguers. Four times previously, Gomez has fired the opening pitch for American League all-star teams and in only one game was he scored against. In recent starts he has been unbeatable under discouraging early season experiences.

Thus it will be speed vs. speed when Vander Meer and Gomez take the mound, for Gomez is rated high among the fast-ball pitchers of the American League.

Allen, Grove.

With All-Star game rules limiting each pitcher to three innings of work, Manager McCarthy has announced that Cleveland's Johnny Allen will pitch the second three-inning shift for the American League and Lefty Grove will finish up.

Bill Terry has announced that either the Cubs' left-hander, Bill Lee, or Carl Hubbell, will pitch the second three-inning shift for the National. He leans heavily toward Mace Brown, the Pirates' sensational relief hurler, as his third pitcher.

It is, indeed, a dream game, this midsummer clash of the stars of the two big leagues. At once fanciful and real are the line-ups that will take the field—the best players culled from each league. Every name that has known the headlines—DiMaggio, Foxx, Averill, Cronin, Dickey, Medwick, Ott, Lombardi, Herman, Hack—will be in the line-ups, a situation possible only in an All-Star conflict.

That will be first of the tasty dishes served to the 28,000 tomorrow—Vander Meer, king in his own league, pitching to batting talent that the National League doesn't boast—Foxx, DiMaggio, Dickey, Averill, Gehringer and Cronin. Can his pitching beat that kind of hitting power?

Even with McCarthy passing up Rolfe and Bob Johnson in his opening line-up, the American League still overshadows the National in batting prowess. And Rolfe and Johnson doubtless will find their way into the game in the later innings. The National has none to match the power that McCarthy can bring to bear.

National League batting averages, while imposing in their own right and overshadowing the American Leaguers at certain positions, do not compare with the A. L. distance hitting. Six of the fellows in McCarthy's line-up are famed home-run hitters—Foxx, DaMaggio, Averill, Gehringer, Dickey and Cronin. And on the bench will be Bob Johnson and Lou Gehrig.

Some Clubs Skipped.

The National League batting order contains only four names associated with home-run drives—Lombardi, Ott, Goodman and Medwick. In an attempt to put more power into his team, Terry is playing Ott in the outfield and employing Lombardi as his catcher despite the fact that, defensively, he is rated as one of the poorest receivers in the league.

Neither Terry nor McCarthy has made any attempt to give every club in his league representation on the All-Star line-ups. They have been given the office by their league presidents to win at nearly all costs in this struggle for big-league prestige, and it is without regard for injured feelings among the players that they have chosen their teams.

Thus Terry's starting line-up contains four members of the Cincinnati team, two Cardinals, two Cubs, one Dodger and one Giant. The Bees, Phillies and Pirates are not represented. And similarly McCarthy has packed his line-up with three Yankees. The Athletics and Browns are not represented on the American League team.

Ambers Called Okay By Commission Doctor.

New Park, July 5 (AP).—Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers, of Herkimer, N. Y., who hurt his hand in his last bout with Jimmy Vaughn, today was found to be in "fine condition" after an examination by Rr. William Walker of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Ambers will defend his 135-pound title August 10 at the Polo Grounds against Henry Armstrong, Los Angeles Negro who holds the featherweight and welterweight crowns. Ambers will begin training July 15 at Summit, N. J.

Small Montana, San Francisco Filipino, appeared before the commission to put in a claim for the flyweight title which was vacated last week when Champion Benny Lynch, of England, failed to make the weight for a bout with Johnny Jurich, of San Jose, Calif., at Glasgow, Scotland. The commission told Montana, who lost the title to Lynch, that they might return it to him if he could find a suitable opponent for a championship match.

Vander Meer

rabid fan who arrived in Cincinnati today offered $100 for two tickets of any sort.

The betting, man to man, was 7 to 5, favoring the Americans. Bookmakers are laying 13 to 10 and taking 5 to 5. American League the favorite. The odds, it was learned, jumped to 2 to 1 when Gomez was named as starter.

There is an amazing aversion on the part of some players to participate in this game. Many would rather have the full three-day vacation, forgetting, of course, that if there was no all-star game there wouldn't be any vacation, either.

If it rains tomorrow the game will be played at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. This would be most unfortunate for the National League team would have to go through batting practice at the usual breakfast hour. And it's against fraternity rules to disturb breakfast even for an All-Star contest.

First Federal Dividend.

A dividend at the annual rate of 3½ per cent has been declared by the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. According to Carl H. Ellingson, secretary, checks have been mailed to all investment share accounts. Savings share accounts will have the devidend credited to their balances. The payment is as of June 30.

Steel Production Reduced by Holiday

New York, July 5 (AP).—Operations in the steel industry for the current week will decline 6.3 points to 22.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 28.7 per cent last week, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated today. Curtailment of activity due to the Fourth of July holiday was credited in steel circles with the drop from the preceding period.

A month ago operations were at the rate of 26.2 per cent of capacity, while a year ago they were 67.3 per cent.

Stock Seat $68,000, $17,000 Up From Low

New York, July 5 (AP).—The value of a New York Stock Exchange membership, in a little over two weeks, has increased around 33 per cent, arrangements made today for the transfer of a membership at $68,000 indicated.

The price was up $3,000 from last week, and $17,000 higher than the sale price of $51,000 on June 15, the lowest for the year. The highest price for 1938 was $75,000 on January 12.

Daily Oil Output Drops 32,906 Bbls.

Tulsa, July 5 (AP).—A decline of 32,906 barrels daily in the Nation's production of crude oil during the week ended July 2 was reported today by the Oil and Gas Journal. Daily average production declined 21,875 barrels daily to 376,575, East Texas was up 1,081 to 364,930 and the State of Texas increased 3,789 to 1,191,982. Louisiana increased 647 barrels daily to 259,277. California decreased 1,850 to 663,150 and Kansas was down 8,725 to 143,150.

Business Failures.

New York, July 5 (AP).—Business failures in the United States for the week ended June 30 totaled 242, a gain of 9 over the preceding period, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. A year ago they amounted to 155. Total for the first half of the year was 6,709, a gain of 45.5 per cent over 4,612 in the comparable 1937 period.

Railroad Drops Life Insurance

New York, July 5 (AP).—The Delaware & Hudson Railroad will drop its group life insurance on employes August 1, partly because of its contributions to the social security, the railroad retirement and the State unemployment funds, H. M. Irwin, assistant to the president, said today.

About 9,000 persons will be affected. Irwin said the company, at the end 1937, carried about $17,000,000 life insurance—an average of $2,000 a person. Employes, he said, may continue to pay the premiums themselves if they wish. The change will not affect the group insurance on health, accidents or accidental deaths, Irwin said.

"It wasn't mainly our contributions to social security," he added, "but the feeling that the Government is entering more and more into these matters—taking care of old age, retirement and unemployment."

He estimated that the company paid about $600,000 or $700,000 to the various Government funds last year.

Retail Advertising 11% Under Year Ago

Chicago, July 5.—Volume of display advertising placed by retailers in 80 important markets for this year through June 25 was 11 per cent below the corresponding period of last year according to a report today by Advertising Age.

The report shows a total of 476,629,483 lines for the measured cities for the period reported against 535,507,598 lines for the comparable period of 1937.

Wheat Drops As New Crop Fills Market

Kansas City Receipts Set Record for Any U. S. Center.

Chicago, July 5.—Enormous arrivals of new wheat, with Kansas City's total the largest ever received at any American market, helped plunge prices down about 3 cents today.

Contributing to the tumble was 3,082,000 bushels increase of the United States visible supply total, together with rains beneficial for spring crops both south and north of the Canadian boundary. Persistent dearth of any significant North American wheat export business acted also as a weight on values.

Something of a check against price declines however, was evidence that approximately half of the arrivals of new wheat were going into storage to await official notice of the actual rate for the government's wheat loan plan.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 2⅜@2¾ cents lower compared with Saturday's finish, July 70½@70⅝, September 71¾@71⅞, corn ¼ off to ⅜ up, July 57⅜@57½, September 58⅝@58¾, oats ⅜@⅝ down, rye varying from 1¼ decline to ⅛ advance, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents setback.

Year's Gasoline Tax Nearly a Billion

New York, July 5.—The American gasoline tax sky-rocket reached a record height of nearly $1,000,000,000 during the fiscal year ended June 30, the American Petroleum Industries committee announced today.

The 30,000,000 motorists in the Nation paid an average of more than $30 in gasoline taxes to the Federal and State governments during the fiscal year, an amount about twice what they paid in the pre-depression years prior to 1929.

The Market

By C. Norman Stabler, A Special Correspondent.

Stocks Advance When Ambassador Joe Kennedy Comes Home, Decline When He Goes Back to London.

New York, July 5.—The stock market went up when Joe Kennedy came to the United States, so we should not growl too much when it went down on his return to London. "Sir" Joseph is far more important to Wall Street men than his position as Ambassador to the Court of St. James's makes him to the politicians. He may be the best whisky salesman in the eyes of America's No. 1 reporter; and he may not, if we are to go by Mr. Kennedy's word on the subject; but be that as it may, he is a factor in Wall Street——before SEC, after SEC, and now.

The stock market went down today in a gentlemanly manner. The composite average showed a net loss of 0.59 point, which is not enough to weep about considering the advances of the last two weeks. Trading dwindled away a bit on the reaction, which is entirely to the liking of the bullish forces, which have had things their way for the last few sessions. Only 1,694,840 shares changed hands on the big board. A few weeks ago that would have looked like the coming of the dawn but now the brokers have come to expect 2,000,000 or more.

It is no doubt no more than a coincidence, but the fact remains that the recent bulge in securities, which the investment counsels have had a hard time explaining, has coincided very exactly with the visit to these shores of Joseph Patrick Kennedy. Wall street has heard the name before.

When he arrived, there were more stories going the rounds than Wall Street has tipsters. Among them were that a new tripartite currency agreement would be entered into and would bring an inflationary trend through further cuts in the gold value of the dollar. It was also rumored that England might offer a settlement on its war debt.

Steels Under Pressure.

In any event, Wall street thought that Mr. Kennedy had a white rabbit in his pocket. However, while Mr. Kennedy was bullish, in talking with his friends he gave no evidence of secret plans. Since his departure the market has been looking for something new to explain the revived confidence in security values.

Steels bore the brunt of today's reaction, the reason being that there is still no evidence of what will happen in the matter of wage cuts. Some fear labor trouble if C. I. O. Chieftain John L. Lewis will not accept the propositions which supposedly have been put to him by United States Steel Corporation. United States Steel was off more than a point, as was Bethlehem, and Republic was down a fraction.

Motors went along with the steels, both Chrysler and General Motors closing down nearly a point. Among the utilities, Consolidated Edison was in favor in view of its new contract to furnish power for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and among the rails there was some support for Baltimore & Ohio. Most active stock of the day was Anaconda, which closed unchanged.

If the buying side had been a bit more aggressive, copper shares would have provided a good rallying point. The comparative steadiness in this division was, of course, based on a continuation of the moderate mark-ups in metal prices here and abroad.

Among the commodities, wheat suffered a setback on the arrival of new wheat, the amount in Kansas City being the largest ever received by any American market. There was also an increase in the visible supply and beneficial rains along both side of the Canadian border. Wheat closed off 2⅜ to 2¾ cents in Chicago. Cotton was off 8 to 10 points.

Bonds Irregular.

Listed bonds were irregular today with the speculative rail and other issues that lately have been leaders showing losses to 3 points. Profit taking was quite as much in evidence among bonds as among stocks, and the selling was absorbed in the same ready manner. Numerous issues escaped the pressure and managed to close with gains. Highest-grade bonds were quiet and steady. Foreign dollar securities were irregular. Turnover in all bonds was $7,180,000, which also indicates greater cautiousness.

Recent favorites among the carrier bonds suffered more than others in the downturn. New York Central, Southern Pacific and similar obligations drifted down by fractions to 3 points. Borderline rails were under mild pressure, and small losses appeared in default issues. Numerous advances appeared, however, among well-rated rails that lately were ragged, the good crop reports having something to do with this trend. Holding company issues held well, and local tractions were a bright spot. Internatoinal Telephone debentures reached new highs.

United States Treasury securities were marked down by smallest fractions, and the guaranteed issues . . . issues of the Farm and Home Corporations also drifted lower. In counter trading Treasury notes and bills were more active and steady. Best rated utility, railroad and industrial bonds were dull, as most institutional investors . . . investors preferred to await the terms of the $85,000,000 Standard Oil financing.

Boston, July 5 (AP). (United States Department of Agriculture)—Actual business in the Boston wool market today was slow, but mills and top makers were making some inquiries. The few scattered sales reported were firm compared with the maximum prices received on similar wools at the close of last week. Some further advances have been made in asking prices on spot wools over the week-end. Boston houses reported a continued strengthening tendency in asking prices on wools offered from country points.

Mooers Named Head of Acacia Local Branch

New Manager Has Been 14 Years With the Insurance Company.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

Of interest to insurance and general business fields was the news yesterday of the appointment of Samuel E. Mooers, chartered life underwriter and secretary of Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co., as manager of the company's District of Columbia branch, succeeding the late Ben A. Harlan. Announcement was made by William Montgomery, company president. Mr. Mooers will devote his entire time to his new duties.

Well known in life insurance circles, Mr. Mooers has served the company in practically all departments during the past 14 years. He started his service in the actuarial department, later becoming secretary to the president, and eventually secretary of the company. On two different occasions he was acting head of the agency department for extended periods.

In addition to being a certified life underwriter, Mr. Mooers is a graduate of the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau School in agency management and a director of the Life Office Management Association. He attended local public schools and left college to enlist with the American Expeditionary Forces in 1917, serving in France for 18 mfionths.

The District of Columbia branch of the company which Mr. Mooers now heads leads the entire field of the organization's more than 60 branches. This branch has paid for as much as $5,395,361 of insurance in a single year, and has more than $30,000,000 of insurance in force.

In announcing Mr. Mooers' appointment, Mr. Montgomery said:

"Acacia considers itself fortunate in being able to place Mr. Mooers in this position of responsibility, and we feel certain that under his leadership the splendid record of the branch will be maintained and that it will reach new high levels of achievement."

Sales Here Higher.

After a two-month decline, life insurance sales in Washington took an upturn in May, Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau of Hartford, Conn., reports. Local business for that month was only 14 per cent lower than May last year and an improvement from decreases of 36 per cent in the March comparison and 28 per cent in the April.

Washington business is still off 26 per cent in the five months' comparison but this represents an improvement of 2 per cent over that for the fourth months. The national average for May reflected a 24 per cent recession and one of 21 per cent for the five months, which was also a percentage betterment. Local business written in May aggregated $5,205,000, and $24,803,000 in the five months.

May business in Washington was exceeded only by Los Angeles and was in advance of Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis. Maryland sales were off 24 per cent in May, with $7,142,000, and 14 per cent below for the five months with $38,278,000. Virginia business was 26 per cent lower for May, with $6,741,000, and 16 per cent below for the five months, with $33,890,000.

Banking Graduates.

Walton L. Sanderson of Hamilton National Bank, and John C. Bauman, Charles T. Malone and Andrew W. Lee, employes of the Federal Reserve Board, were local members of the recent graduating class of the graduate school of banking, at Rutgers University. Diplomas were presented to 149 bankers and Dr. William Mather Lewis, former president of George Washington University, and now president of Lafayette College, delivered the commencement address. Other speakers were President Robert Clothier of Rutgers University and Lewis E. Pierson, chairman of the board of Irving Trust Co., New York, and regent of the school. The course requires 180 hours of classroom work and two years of extension work at home.

"Questions and Answers."

"Questions and Answers, or How Much Do You Know About the Brokerage Business?" is the subject of a pamphlet being sent to Fenner & Beane customers in the United States and abroad. The folder gives a series of possible answers to interesting questions, listing the correct answers on the back page. The partnership states that so far as it knows, that's the first time a stock exchange firm has undertaken an educational program by these novel and constructive methods.

Banking Notes.

Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank and a past president of the American Bankers Association, has had 31 years of service with the former institution, entering its employ as a messenger.

Vice President and Cashier Wilmer J. Waller, of Hamilton National Bank, is at his desk again, having recovered from injuries received when another car collided with his automobile at a street intersection.

I. I. Chorpening, former chief bank examiner in the Fifth, or local, Federal Reserve District, and now located in New York, has been spending his vacation visiting old friends in this city.

Lanier P. McLachlen, president of McLachlen Banking Corporation and vice chairman of Washington Better Business Bureau, is taking a vacation.

President E. C. Graham, of Hamilton National Bank, has been on a short trip to Florida.

C. Gay Harrell, treasurer and director of Columbia Building Association, who has been on a vacation in Atlantic City, has returned to his desk. Mr. Harrell's family, who were with him, are also back in the city.

Cotton Lower; July at 8.93

New York, July 5 (AP).—Cotton turned reactionary today owing to better weather in the cotton belt and easiness of the stock market. October sold off from 9.02 to 8.86 and closed at 8.92, with final prices 8 to 10 points net lower.

The market opened 1 to 4 points lower with the effects of steady Liverpool markets over the American holiday offset by July liquidation and realizing. The recent advance of near months above 9 cents attracted scattered liquidation and other selling appeared as markets generally developed easier trends. Hot, dry weather in the South was considered favorable for insect control. After reacting to net losses of 14 to 17 points, partial rallies on covering occurred at the close.

Worth Street reported a good cotton goods inquiry at the opening, but business was checked by the decline in raw cotton.

Exports 3,958, making 5,761,567 so far this season. Port receipts 4,105; port stocks, 2,478,396.

Cottonseed Oil.

Cottonseed oil was steady today, although after showing net gains of 1 to 4 points on scattered covering and local buying the market reacted under liquidation promoted by the easiness of grains and crude oil. Final prices were unchanged to 1 point net higher. Sales 117 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; July closed 8.27; September 8.25; October and December 8.24, January 8.26.

Domestic Copper Up ¼ to 9.75 Cents

New York, July 5 (AP).—The price of copper in the domestic market was raised by a leading producer to 9¾ cents a pound today following two increases last week. The quotation is ¼ cent higher than the price established July 1 and a recovery of ¾ of a cent from the low of recent years established May 19 this year.

The price increase followed unusually heavy business over the week-end, when trade sources reported about 65,000 tons changed hands, the heaviest buying for a comparable period in more than a year. Earlier in the day scrap copper was lifted ¼ of a cent a pound and the price of the red metal for export went above the 10-cent level. Copper futures were strong.

May Building Reaches Peak Total for Year

Volume Is 6.3% Above April But 13.7% Below Year Ago.

New York, July 5.—The set-back which the building industry experienced in April was followed by a rally in May, the Alexander Hamilton Institute says today. Contracts awarded in May rose to the highest monthly volume this year, with an increase of 6.3 per cent over the April level. This gain was contrary to the usual seasonal trend. During the previous 13 years contracts showed an average decrease of 3.4 per cent from April to May. The increase this year was chiefly the result of a gain in residential contracts, not sufficient to lift the volume to the level of a year ago, but the percentage decrease was considerably smaller than in previous months. Total contracts in May were 13.7 per cent smaller than in the same month last year. Contracts awarded in the first five months were 27.3 per cent smaller than a year ago.

It is evident that the rally in building activity in May did not represent the beginning of any substantial expansion. Fundamental factors remain too unfavorable. The building industry can make little progress as long as the trend of rents is downward.

Montreal Silver Futures.

Montreal, July 5 (AP).—Silver futures closed 10 points up. Bids: July, 42.50; September, 41.20; December, 41.20.

Attempt to Save Drowning Youth

These three youths, all 16, plunged in the Potomac yesterday in an attempt to save the life of James McClain, 14, colored, who drowned. They are (left to right) Clarence Berry, Art Johnson and Harry Krause. Krause recovered the body. The fire rescue squad failed to revive the boy after an hour of artificial respiration.

IT'S OKAY, GRAN'MA, YOU DON'T HAVE TO HIDE. THE LADY SAYS SHE'S NOT SELLING ANYTHING
YOU NEVER KNOW.
I'VE COME TO DISCUSS AN IMPORTANT MATTER, PRIVATELY.
GO RIGHT AHEAD
I'D RATHER THE LITTLE BOY LEFT THE ROOM. YOU SEE — IT'S ABOUT HIM.
ME? GOSH. WHAT'VE I DONE NOW?
WONDER IF SHE'S TELLING ABOUT US KIDS BREAKIN' THE WINDOW? OR SWIPIN' THOSE GREEN APPLES— WHY'D I LET HER IN TO SEE GRAN'MA? I COULD KICK MYSELF.

Bob Burns Says—

There's no question about it—the bigger a snowball gets, the more snow it picks up. As Grandpa Snazzy said, "Them as has—gets."

I went out to grandpa's house one time, when I was a boy, and was surprised when he started showin' me his war medals. I says, "Grandpa, I didn't know you had all those medals for bravery—how in the world did you get 'em?"

He pointed to the biggest one and says, "Well, I got that big one by mistake and they gave me all these other medals because I had that one."

Parking Meter Action Balked By Complaints

Commissioners Order New Specifications; Send All Bids Back.

Proponents of parking meters for Washington received a setback yesterday when the District Commissioners ordered return of six parking meter bids unopened and announced revised specifications for the machines would be sought, requiring readvertising.

A committee, composed of Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, Director of Highways H. C. Whitehurst, Electrical Engineer Walter Kern and an expert from the Bureau of Standards, was directed by the Commissioners to revise specifications as submitted by the Bureau of Standards recently.

Two Companies Complain.

This unexpected action by the Commissioners was taken exactly one hour before the bids were to have been opened by Marion C. Hargrove, District purchasing agent. It was based on complaints over specifications.

The Lux Clock Manufacturing Co., of Waterbury, Conn., had complained to Senator Lonergan (Democrat), of Connecticut, that specifications as drawn by the Bureau of Standards at request of the Commissioners would have eliminated all but one type of clock movement used in the meters.

The Lux company stated "it is entirely possible the Bureau of Standards is not sufficiently informed either as to the requirements of a clock movement to be used in a parking meter or else the background of information on which it has based its specifications is extremely limited."

Local representatives of another complainant the M. H. Rhodes Co., Inc., were closeted with the Commissioners nearly an hour.

Installation of the parking meters, ordered as a test by Congress in the District's 1939 appropriation act, previously has been fought by the District Commissioners.

It has been reported the meters will be placed on F or G street between Ninth and Fifteenth streets northwest.

Firecracker Costs Boy, 10, His Sight; Celebrants Fined

Leftover fireworks yesterday cost the sight of the left eye of Weldon Dandy, colored, 10, of 2649½ Sheridian road southeast when an exploding firecracker destroyed the cornea. He was treated at Providence Hospital and transferred to the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital.

Others reported injured by fireworks were, Matthew Drass, 10, 221 E street southeast, burned on the left hand; Joseph Ratten, 12, 322 Sixteenth street southeast; Viola Beek, 29, 1412 D street southeast, and William Thomas, colored, 15, 722 Greens Court northeast, injuries to their hands.

Meanwhile four persons paid fines for discharging fire crackers and a fifth forfeited bond.

Those fined were Edward A. Jewell, Berwyn, Md., $15; Bernie Smith, 1908 Sixteenth street northwest, $5; James Marion, 516 F street northwest, $5, and Robert Caldwell, 1407 Fifth street northwest, $25. Henry Rootem, 634 N street northwest, forfeited his $25 bond for tossing fireworks from a roof.

Cigarettes Hide Firecrackers, So 2 Visit Hospital

Philadelphia, July 5 (AP).—A passerby with a queer sense of humor put Henry Rischow, 39, in the hospital today. A cigarette handed Rischow had a firecracker in it.

Lawrence, Mass., July 5 (AP).—James Dorman, 58, took from his pocket what he thought was a cigarette today and applied a match. The firecracker exploded in his face.

Woman Dies of Burns.

Lottie Graves, colored, 42, 2201 Second street northwest, died early yesterday from burns suffered when cleaning fluid exploded in her home Monday.

William A. Perry Dies; Wrote Science, Fiction

Westport, Conn., July 5 (AP).—Willia Armstrong Perry, 61, writer of juvenile fiction and scientific articles, died today of a heart attack at his home.
